EXHIBIT ART WORK

IT WAS IN AID OF A CHARITY

Amateurs With Royal Blood in Veins Place Their Productions on View in Paris.

Paris, April 11.—Every two years the members of the most aristocratic families of France—including many of the royal house of Bourbon—give an exhibition, for charity, of works of art—painting, sculpture, etc.—executed by themselves.

This year's display was one of the most magnificent in the history of the charity and attracted to the Champs-Elysees a daily crowd representing the wealth and fashion and exclusiveness of the French capital, and of the capitals of other countries also.

There were many exhibitors, and the work, while being, of course, that of amateurs, was remarkably well executed. Indeed, in many instances it could not be surpassed by professional artists.

The Duchess of Chartres exhibited a floral composition which was a delicate masterpiece and elicited much well-deserved admiration.

The Countess of Flanders, sister-in-law to the King of the Belgians, had on view a number of landscapes which were equally admired, while painted fans, in large number and of various designs, were the exhibit of the Duchess of Vendome.

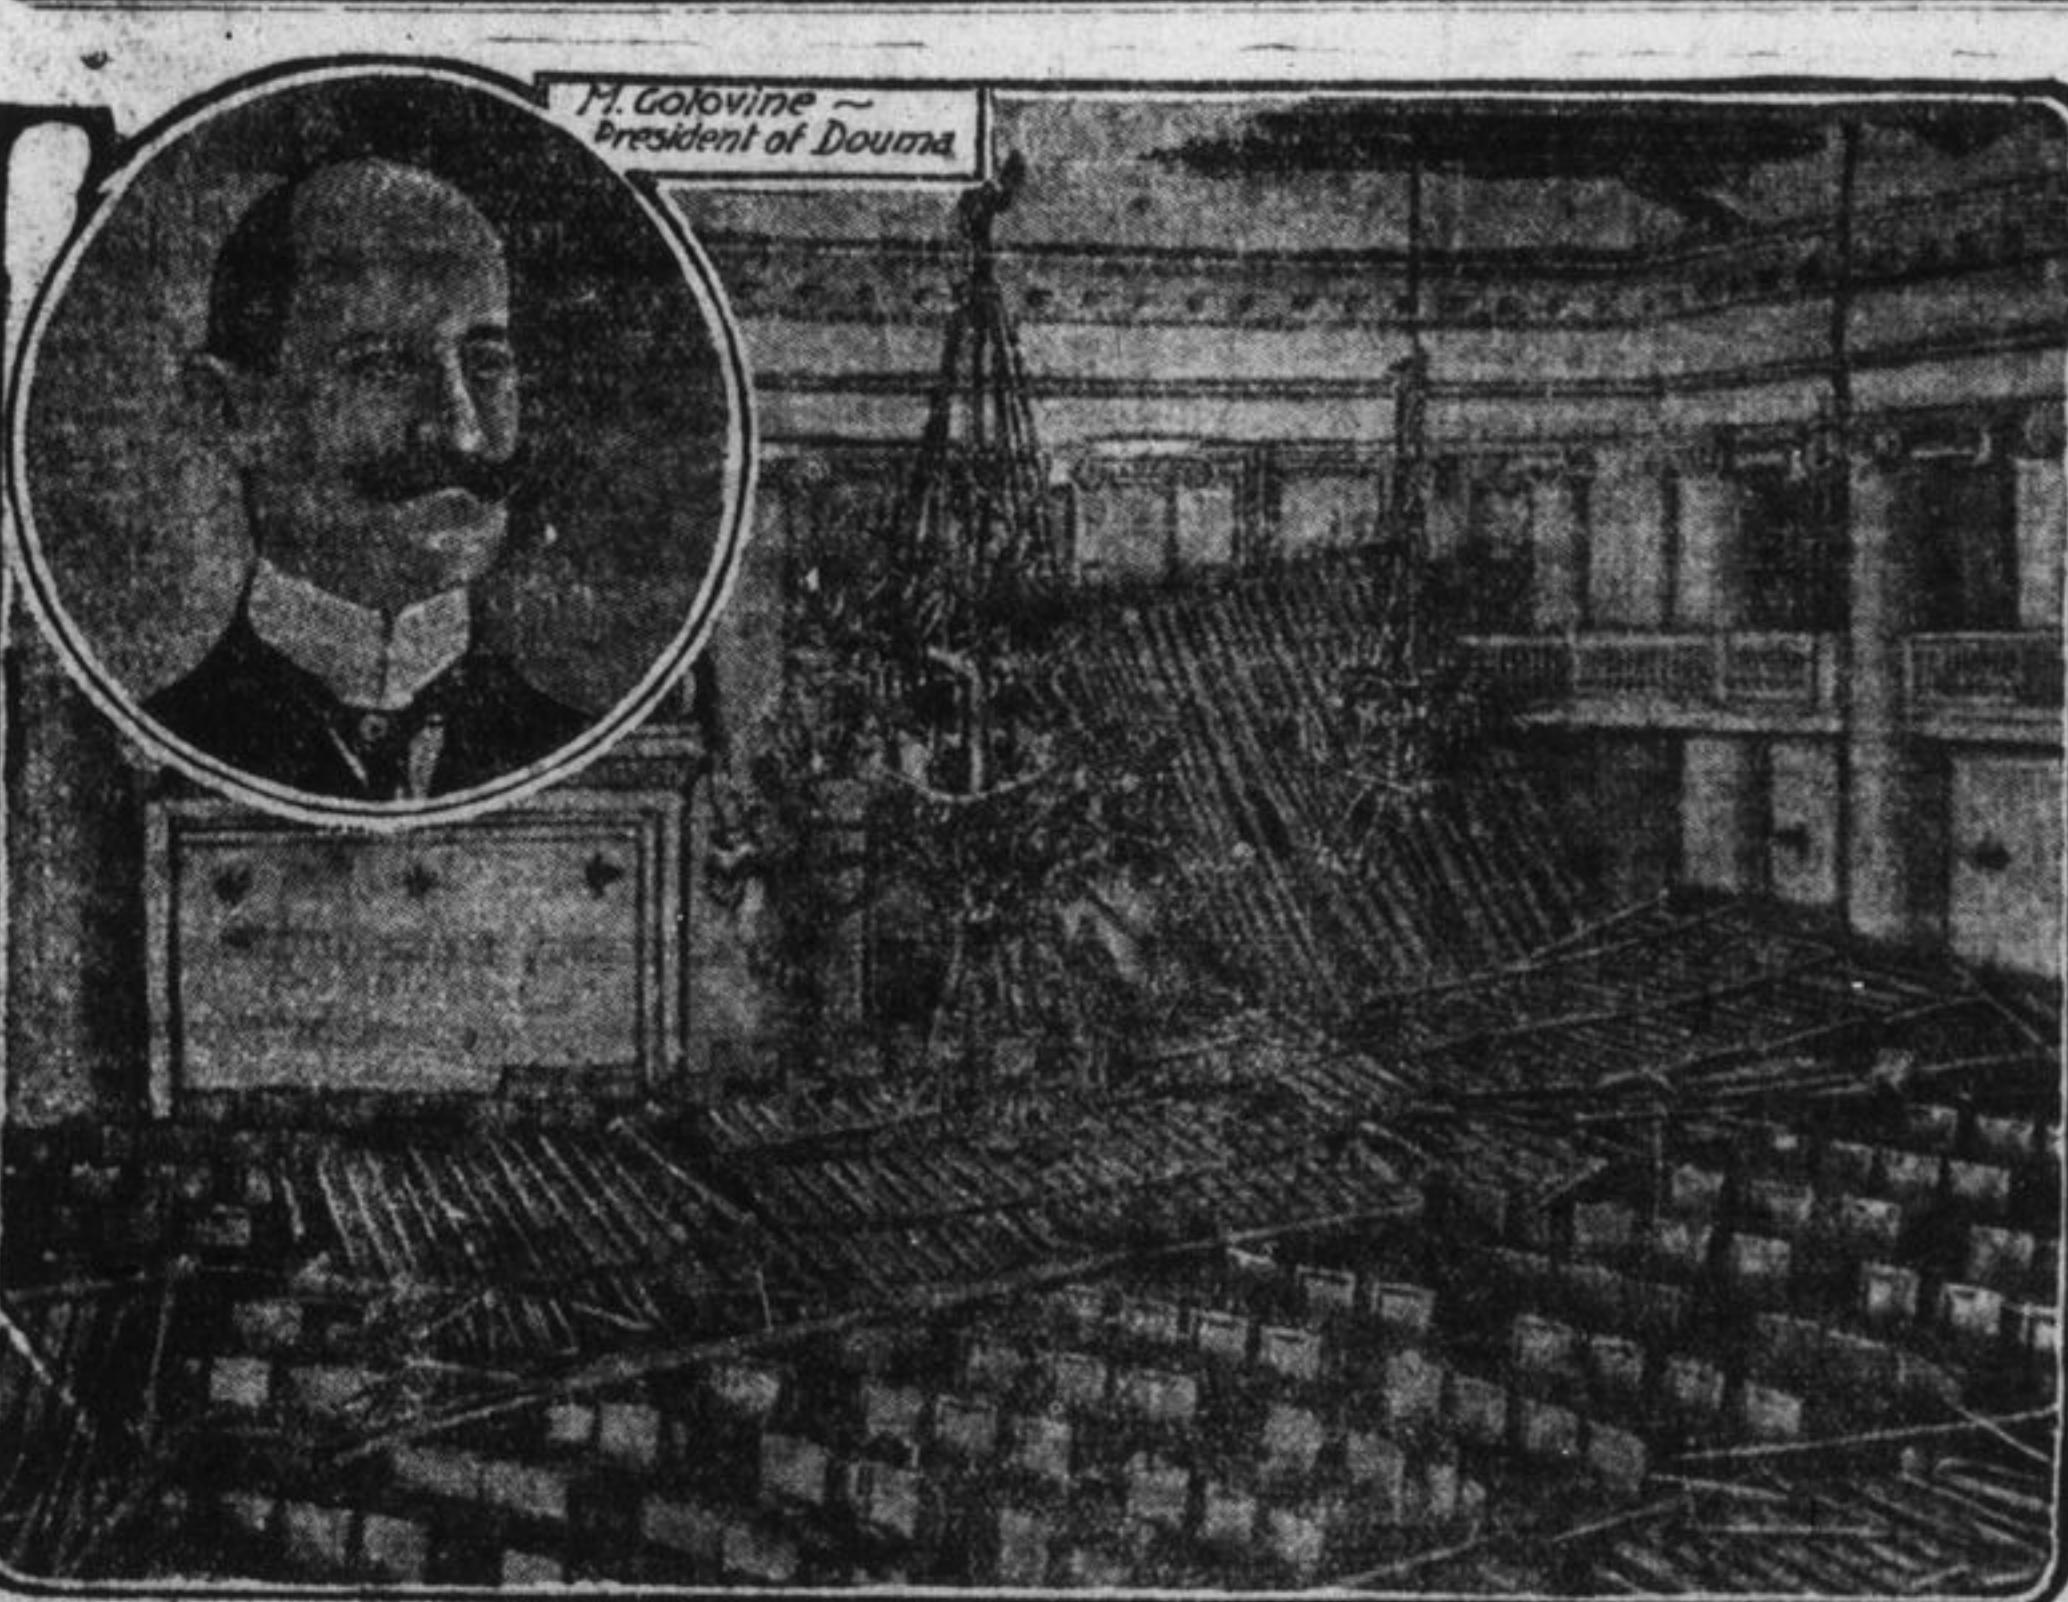

Princess Waldemar of Denmark had some excellent fruit pieces on show, and Princess Louise of Schleswig-Holstein was represented by a number of dainty miniatures.

The Baroness Mazieres-Mauleon had some pastels remarkable for their freshness and color, and Princess Ghislaine de Caraman-Chimay had some portraits and studies.

Other exhibitors were the Countess D'Artois, Baroness de Cholet, Comtess Theodore de Gontaut-Biron, Comtess de Joybert, Baroness de Butte du Bourget, Princess Ernest de Ligne, the Duchess d'Ursal and Comtess Andre Walewska.

The proceeds of the exhibition were unusually large.

THE DOUMA'S NARROW ESCAPE FROM A FALLEN CEILING.

On March 15th, at a quarter to six in the morning, the ceiling of the hall in the Tauride Palace, St. Petersburg, gave way and fell into the body of the chamber. Nearly 200 of the Deputies' seats were covered with planks and plaster, and the fine chandelier was completely destroyed. Quite three-quarters of the ceiling collapsed. It is believed that the huge ventilating apparatus fixed above the ceiling was too heavy for the old beams. Had the accident happened during a sitting, only the Ministers, a few Polish Deputies, some members of the Extreme Right, and the journalists would have escaped.

William Thompson, Hinton, Ontario, died Wednesday after a week's illness from heart trouble. He was about seventy years old. Deceased was about seventy years old.

MYSTERIOUS INDIVIDUAL

Has Been Arrested at Grenoble, France.

Paris, April 13.—A mysterious individual, whose name is probably Andre Faure, forty-one years old, has been arrested at Grenoble, under curious circumstances.

At the foot of the ruins of an old chateau of the Dauphine there is a precipice with a drop of about three hundred feet, at the foot of which roars a rushing torrent. At this place, which the inhabitants have named the "Devil's Grotto," a mysterious light has lately been seen.

The commissary of police, accompanied by two policemen, determined to investigate. One after another they all three descended into the ravine by means of an iron chain. This was no easy matter, and was, besides, very dangerous, as a slip meant instant death. With their revolvers cocked the police then penetrated into the cave.

Here they found a man with long hair and beard digging a hole. "What are you doing there?" asked the commissary. "I am digging a hole to put my book in," said the man.

As a fact, all around him were piles of books, and in the cave were upon a table, a number of books, some of which were Bibles, New Testaments and religious works. There was about half a ton of books in all.

The hermit was arrested and taken up by the chain which had served for the descent of the officers. It is not yet known how the man was able to get into the "Devil's Grotto," which was thought to be practically inaccessible, and which in former times had been inhabited by that formidable bandit, the famous Mandrin.

The Morgue Gone. Paris, April 13.—American visitors to Paris this year will miss one of the chief sights of the city—the Morgue. This grim place, where the unknown dead of Paris are laid out on slabs for identification, is to be closed to ordinary visitors.

The authorities have decided to admit no more visitors unless they can show some valid reason for entering—being able to identify some relative, or so on. The place has been crowded with people who come from more or less distant parts of the city, and Paris working girls and "gamins." Scenes have taken place there which were lacking in the reverence due to the dead, so the city fathers have decided that the Morgue shall cease to be a "show place."

Don't Forget Good Looks. There is no beauty so attractive as the beauty of health. It is a kind of beauty almost anyone can have. Don't endure pimples, blotches, etc. They not only mar personal appearance but are signs of dangerous blood disorder. Wade's Iron Tonic Pills cure the blemishes and remove the cause. They are a great nerve strengthener and blood-maker. In bottles, 25c., at Wade's drug store. Money back if not satisfactory.

Venetian glass is not made in Venice, but in the island of Murano.

Notes From Sunbury. Sunbury, April 10.—The local cheese factories have all commenced operations and much milk for this season of the year is obtained. Present indications go to show that the market will start at a high figure. Farmers who thought, a few weeks ago, that the feeding of stock was seemingly nearly over have of late changed considerably and may yet have to feed for some weeks. Mrs. P. Marshall, with a handsome pair of twin daughters, dairy receives many well wishes. Lieut. Strainlaw now conducts the Salvation Army meetings. School reopened on Monday. J. Jackson's mill is now cutting much timber and is running steadily. Some farmers, who have been tapping the sugar maple have closed operations for the present. A limited number of assessments will be erected the coming spring. A quantity of feed is daily moving on the roads.

Happy at Last. Her husband no longer gets intoxicated. Famous Restless Remedy Cures Him. The lady says: "For the first time since I have been married I can be happy and content—my husband is cured of his habit of drinking. Several months ago I then got the Restless Remedy of your remedy at my request, and without my husband's knowledge I gave it to him in his tea and food. He then got the Restless Remedy and gave it regularly. It is wonderful how content and happy I am now. I thank you for the blessed change it has brought in my home."

EVICTED TRAGEDY

BAILIFFS BROKE INTO TENANTS' HOUSE AT DUBLIN.

Bed-ridden Woman Found in One of the Rooms—Doctor Declared Her to Be Dying Owing to Shock and Exposure—Last Rites Administered By Priest.

Not since the famous eviction of Martin Ward, of Loughrea, on Lord Clanricarde's estate—an eviction which led to the Irish town tenants act—has so much interest been excited in an Irish eviction as in that attempted at Glasnevin, Dublin.

The holding in question is a little cottage, and a half acre of land, which has been tenanted by a poor woman, Mrs. Maher, for close upon forty years. She was served with notice to quit some time ago, the landlord, it is said, wishing to take possession himself.

She offered to pay an increased rent, and on refusal declined to go. The Town Tenants' League took up the case, and when the sheriff and his bailiffs, supported by a large force of police, arrived they found the place barricaded. A wall of corrugated iron protected the garden, but this was soon smashed, and an assault was then made on the hall door. This had been strengthened inside with the stump of a tree, and was found irresistible, and the bailiffs were driven back with douches of cold water thrown through the fanlight.

The window was smashed in, and the bailiffs found themselves in the room of Mrs. Maher's lodger, a bed-ridden old woman of ninety-five, who was apparently unconscious. Another window was then smashed and here the bailiffs found Mrs. Maher's son ill in bed. Doctors were sent and certified that this son was critically ill with heart and lung trouble, and could not be removed without the most serious consequences.

In the case of the old woman the situation was still more serious. The sheriff stated that he proposed to take her away in the workhouse ambulance, but Mr. Briscoe threatened legal proceedings if she were treated as a pauper.

The doctor who had arrived on the scene declared that the old woman had become much worse owing to the shock of having the window of her room smashed and her room invaded by the bailiffs. The exposure to draught was also most dangerous. In fact he believed her to be dying.

Father Field was hastily summoned. He found her condition so bad that he administered the last rites of the Roman Catholic church, and prepared her for death. In this emergency the high sheriff was telephoned for, and subsequently on his non-arrival the police and bailiffs held the eviction.

The decision was received with cheers by a large crowd which had assembled, which promptly helped to restore the evicted furniture.

LOST HER CASE

Against the French Comic Paper.

Paris, April 13.—The Duchess de Morny has just lost a libel case which she brought into court against Fastasio, the French comic paper. At the time of the duchess' disastrous appearance at the Moulin Rouge in a piece written by herself the paper made some very strong remarks about the lady and her antecedents.

Madame de Morny was furious and brought the action against the writer of the article, and also against the publisher of the paper. The court awarded Madame de Morny twenty-franc damages against the publisher and also fined him twenty-five francs, but the duchess had to pay the author or one franc damages for having needlessly brought him into court, as she had proved no legal justification for doing so.

Madame de Morny is very dissatisfied with the verdict, and says she is determined to make the paper pay, even if she has to have the case tried over again.

Watch Rheumatism Go.

The action of Dr. Hill's Rheumatic Cure is direct and positive and results are similar in nearly all cases. First, a lessening of the symptoms are noted, there is less pain and soreness and more freedom of the muscles.

Then comes a gain in general health. The sufferer knows he is getting better and feels he will be cured. Time required to cure varies according to the duration of the disease and general condition of the patient. But those who use the remedy faithfully will have constant improvement to cheer them and will soon know they are being made sound and well. Price 50c. Ten days' treatment. At Wade's drug store.
