PRESENTED AT COURT.

Experience of An American at a Levée.

Philadelphia Record. A six-foot American, who had secured a "command" to one of King Edward's levees, recently found himself in a pretty predicament. On his notification paper was the hint that levee dress was indispensable.

Again the scene changed, says Town and Country, and there was a lane of royal footmen and next a large room filled to overflowing with admirals, generals, diplomats, peers, chamberlains, soldiers and sailors of all degrees of commissioned rank and a great host of men attired like himself in levee dress.

The Paragraph Pulpit

Association and Religion. Religion may color the life of the individual a beautiful tint, but it can only paint its largest and sublimest pictures by the assembling of the lives into an associated whole. It may stamp a golden letter of the truth upon each individual soul, but the message and the meaning becomes clear and complete only when each takes his place in the sentence-line of association. Religion may enable one life to beat forth its clear, sweet note, but the beauty of the harmony cannot become possible until all notes sound together in concord.

Died On The Road.

Brookville, May 31.—The body of Levi W. Eddy, a well-known resident of Clayton, was found on the banks of the St. Lawrence river, near Steele's Point. He was returning home from the Frontenac hotel, about one mile from Clayton. It is supposed he was taken sick on the way and died soon after reaching shore, where his boat was found tied up. Eddy was a civil war veteran.
