APPEALING TO THE THRONE.

What has become of Mr. McBride, the premier of British Columbia? He went to England about the time Sir Wilfrid Laurier set out from Canada, and his purpose was to lay his grievances before the imperial government. It is known that he secured an audience with the colonial secretary, and that he made a statement which was calmly received. At a later date, and in order that the colonial office might know all the facts, Sir Wilfrid Laurier gave his version of the case.
But that is all that has been learned.

What Mr. McBride expected may never be known. He must have had the idea, however, that some pressure would be brought to bear and that the federal government would be compelled to agree to his desires. It would be an extraordinary experience, if possible, and unlike anything of which there is a record. Mr. Mc-Bride has probably learned by this time that the imperial statement are not given to emotional statement.
They proceed very deliberately, and they are not at all likely to dictate to the dominion government. They may advise Mr. McBride to act like one who is seeking favours rather than one in authority.

STANDING BY THE PARTY.

The Toronto News indulges in some sage reasoning on the question of party loyalty. It dissects from the advice of Mr. Inwood, the general organizer of the liberal party, that liberals should stand by the party on every occasion, that it does not suit to wobble in local issues as apart from federal issues. The News' theory is that in local affairs the party lines are not followed closely, and that this in no way follows.

For the conservative side it should have been added. The liberals' have always been more disposed to give local politics, and they have lost the more in consequence. Reference is made to their attitude in the last provincial appeal. Thousands of liberals, says the News, voted for Whitney candidates. So they did, and they fooled themselves by so doing.
The News does not think so. It lauds and magnifies the name of Whitney as that of a courageous man. It knows, however, that he did not fulfil his promises in several respects.

The liquor business was to be free of political influence, and it was never so thoroughly political. The Toronto branch of it has become a public scandal. The civil service was to be non-political, and the government, by its wholesale dismissals, has endeavoured to make it as partisan as possible. The Toronto News says the liberals at Ottawa adhere to the old patronage system. So do the conservatives, in liberal and provincial politics. The conservative party, indeed, has had its quarrels over this question, and the only hope of settling some of them is to prolong the term of assembly as much as possible.

Then the temperance men were humbugged by the Whitney party. They were dissatisfied with Mr. Ross. He would not push reforms as fast as they desired him. Hence they tried to punish him and they punished themselves. The Whitney government flatly turned them down and made it impossible by legislation that they could succeed in enforcing option law.

TOUCHING UP MR. BALFOUR.

When Mr. Balfour announced that he was a protectionist, out and out, some thought this meant a significant slump in the liberal party away from free trade. "My dear Arthur," it will be remembered, had his sons of doubt. Mr. Chamberlain hypnotized him to a certain extent, when they were together in the government, but before the last election they separated.

Mr. Chamberlain left the cabinet in order to be free to advocate his policy, but he had practically driven Devonshire and Goschen, and others to opposition. Mr. Balfour, weakened by better talk less.

politically at the last hour, and set upon the fence, competing with protection but afraid to take it up. The election seems to have cured him of his hesitancy.

Is he taking the party with him?
One would not get this impression from a reading of the London Times to which Lord Hugh Cecil recently contributed an article. Lord Hugh is a son of the late Earl Salisbury, and Mr. Balfour was the nephew whom he introduced into public life. Lord Hugh does not see any sense in the Balfour programme. It is not calculated to win over any liberals, and without wholesale conversions my lord does not see any hope of changing the government in the next election. Lord Hugh reasons thus:
"The present parliamentary opposition is the weakest parliamentary opposition that has ever sat in a reformed House of Commons—an weak in numbers as the remnant that survived 1882, and weaker than they in other respects. To become at the next election half the house we must win 180 seats. No party since parties have existed has ever won 180 seats, except at the last general election, and we cannot reasonably expect that our opponents will incur such a concentration of diverse unpopularity as overwhelm us in 1906."

Plain talk, you say? Yes, very plain, and such as the circumstances suggest. Lord Hugh is not giving away his party, or praising it, but he is trying to call some of its leaders to their senses.

REDMOND'S STRANGE CHANGE.

The Banerman government is persuaded that the nationalists made a mistake in rejecting the Irish Council Bill, and are Canadians who think the same thing. The proposal was to give the Irish people an experience in administration, and, to a liberal extent, give the Irish leaders the opportunity of demonstrating what they could do, and they should have been taken advantage of it.

Having had twenty of millions of dollars to dispense, and having proven their capacity for government; there would have been more ground for asking to be intrusted with a larger measure of legislative power.
The attitude of Mr. Redmond on the question is not quite clear. He was at the outset in favour of the Irish Council Bill, and he was the one who, in the convention in Dublin, moved to reject it, and ventured the opinion that no time would be lost thereby in securing self government. There is no evidence of this; on the contrary, it does not seem possible in this parliament to harmonize the political elements so as to assure Ireland of a local legislature.

There are some nationalists who want a parliament that will be independent of the imperial house, that will have the power to legislate for Ireland without interference, and that is something which is not in sight.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Crockett, of the Frederick Gleaner, has a large contract in justifying the Emmerson scandal.

The Suicide Club, made famous by Stephenson, did not use carbolic acid.
There was some style about their way of taking life.

The Orangeville Sun (conservative) refers to the Orangeville case as "a transparent and brazen exhibition of the miscarriage of justice." Correct.

The pharmacists ask that legislation be passed limiting the sale of carbolic acid. The sale of all poisons should be more restricted than it is.

The Methodist conference have been denouncing the three-fifths clause of the liquor law. Denunciation does no harm. It is the votes of the people that talk.

A conservative paper announces that the West York election is an endorsement of the Whitney-Beech power policy. Well, something of the kind is badly wanted.

New York will try the probation as well as parole system, that is the releasing of criminals on trial or good behaviour before as well as after trial. It is a bold and doubtful venture.

The Montreal Gazette regards the Asselin trial at Quebec as a discouragement of independent criticism. The press fortunately does not endorse attacks on public men for the purpose of securing revenge.

Next session of the imperial parliament will be an important one. It will deal with a new educational bill, and a bill for the reform of the lords. They may be rejected, and the people will then be asked to vote upon the question.

The law of Quebec requires that two witnesses to a perjury must be had in order to secure a conviction. Hence the escape of Baron L'Epine from prosecution in Quebec. He and the attorney-general were the only persons present at the alleged interview.

Dr. Chown has been giving away a great secret. It is that a majority vote on option law would enable the temperance people to sweep the province. And this was given out by one who was supposed to speak the mind of the government. Some one had better talk less.

Lord Methuen slundered at Magers-

Men Laid Off.
Montreal Herald.
The New York Central has laid off a thousand men for the summer. If they know their business there is probably room for them in the country that is building so much new railway work that men cannot be found for the work.

Selfish Partnership.

Governor Hughes has coined a telling slogan in the following words:
"Government does not exist for parties, and parties do not exist for the exclusive benefit of their members. A party that is thinking of itself is doomed to failure." This is putting government by parties on a high plane.

A New Job For Jurors.
London Free Press.
The prerogative exists in the crown in capital cases of reducing the punishment to life imprisonment. Would the crown not be largely relieved of its unpleasant duty if juries which are placed in immediate touch with the facts were required to also fix the penalty? Could it reasonably be contended that juries would refuse such a proposition? Do they not now verdict guilty of murder?

A FORMER KINGSTON GIRL MARRIED.

Miss Edith Hardy and W. H.
Turnbull, Toronto, Wedded—A Chicago Man Also Takes a Napanee Bride.

Napanee, June 5.—The marriage of two most popular Napanee young people was witnessed to-day. At 10:30 a.m. in the Protestant church, Miss Edith Hardy, youngest daughter of J. C. Hardy, John street, became the bride of William H. Turnbull, of Toronto. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. B. Conn. The church was beautifully decorated with palms, potted plants and vines by the bride's girl friends. The ceremony was performed under an arch of vines and daisies. The bride was daintily attired in emerald lace, over cream duchess satin, and wore the customary veil, and orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. She wore a diamond ring, to the bridesmaid, a hoop-eared pearl necklace, and a pearl brooch, and to the groomsmen a "O Fair and Sweet and Holy" (by Nevin), and Longfellow's bridal song.

The bride entered the church. Miss Edna Fraser played the organ softly throughout the service. After the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents, John street, and a dainty wedding breakfast served. The bride's going-away gown was of navy blue, with white lace blouse and becoming blue and white hat to match. The bride received many beautiful presents, consisting of cut glass, silver, lace, and brace and other beautiful articles. Mr. and Mrs. Turnbull left on the 1.08 train for a honeymoon in the west.
They will reside in Toronto on their return.

Another wedding, equally as interesting as the former, was performed at 1:30 p.m. when Miss Florence Ming, only daughter of Dr. E. Ming, John street, was united in marriage to Milton T. Bates, of Chicago. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W.
S. Boyce, of Adolphustown. The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Lottie Gilpin, of Cheyboygan, Mich., and a like service was performed the groom by Charles Mauger.

The bride was attired in a beautiful dress of cream silk, colored over silk, trimmed with silk applications, and carried a bouquet of white bridal roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Mary, wore a dress of white and pink, and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The groom, Mr. Bates, wore a suit of white and pink, and carried a pearl pin. After the ceremony a dainty lunch was served by the bride's friends, and a couple of hours' spending in happy intercourse. The bride's traveling suit was of grey plaid, trimmed with brown and smart tuscany hat to match. The happy couple left on the 4:23 o'clock train, amidst a shower of rice and good wishes, for a honeymoon in Omaha.

They will stop at Toronto, Niagara Falls and Buffalo en route, and afterwards make their home in Chicago.
Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. Bates, of Chicago, mother of the groom; Miss Mabel Gould, of Kingston; Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. Clyde Toronto, (Nessa); Mrs. Duckworth and daughter, Rose, of Belleville; Dr. and Mrs. Aoki-rell, and Frank Wallis, of Belleville; Mrs. Carrie McCullough, of Trenton, and friends from Bowmanville and Lindsay. The drawing-room was beautifully decorated with potted plants and cut flowers, and the tables with white and pink decorations. The ceremony was performed under a bell tent. The presents received by very numerous bride were beautiful and valuable, and attest to the high respect in which she is held by her friends.

NO WOMAN CAN BE
STRONG AND HEALTHY
UNLESS THE KIDNEYS
ARE WELL.

When the kidneys are ill, the whole body is ill for the poisons which the kidneys ought to filter out of the blood are left in the system. Then how important it must be to see to it that this system of excre-tion is kept in the best of health. Those who are troubled with kidney trouble know not the misery and suffering which such a disorder entails.

Doan's Kidney Pills are a specific for all kidney troubles. They act by healing the delicate membranes of the kidneys and thus make their action regular and natural.

They help the kidneys to flush out the acid and poisonous impurities which have collected there, and thus keep the kidneys bladder and all the uric acid from accumulating, and may be safely taken by young and old.

Doan's Kidney Pills do for you what no other medicine can. They are the only remedy for kidney trouble. They are the only
remedy for kidney trouble.

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50 cents per box or 3 boxes for $1.25 at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The Doan Kid-

CONSTRUCTING FIRE
OUTBUILDINGS

Serious efforts have been made, to reduce the frightful lighting and fire on Canada And they have been whole-ful, not only in securing a lightning and fireproof cover but also in bringing the price and even below, that of the board and shingle barn.

The new plan is to use galvanized sheets for roofing barns and all outbuildings sheets are very rigid, and perfectly strong, constructed

Zuto

Regarding your Zuto Table say: I have been a sufferer f ache since childhood and I or nearly all of the so-called market, till warned by me to discontinue their use on their bad effects on the hea months since my attention wa your Zuto Tablets and I hav them ever since with the m fying results. I find they cu or "nervous" headache in a f and leave no bad effect. My them whenever needed with e results. I have frequently gi friends who were suffering fr ache and they never fail to g relief. I find them a good "sour" stomach as well as hea ways carry them in my grip and would not be without it cost.
