THE PRESIDENT MADE HER ANNUAL ADDRESS

References of Touching Character to Deceased Friend-Reception at "Bishopscourt"-Quite A Inspiration.

Miss Macaulay, the president, began the business of the afternoon session of the W. A. annual, by introducing Miss Askwith, of Palameotta, India, who was given a warm welcome and a seat on the platform.

The president's address followed the singing of the inspiring hymn, "Awake, Awake, O Christian" written by Mrs. Lennox Mills. In it she poke of the early days of the W. A. when the society had been launched by the then Bishop of Ontario, and given his fullest sanction after five onths trial of its work. Mrs. Tilton, the charming mother o W. A., began her address by speaking of the rain, which was even then falling upon the thirsty earth as typical of the showers of blessing which would fall upon the meeting. She too spoke of the auxiliary's beginnings, saying the blessings had been innumerable, therefore uncounted; discouragements, few, and these forgotten. The success of the W.
