Great Britain Will Rule In India

THE DREAM OF SOME

WHO THINK THEY CAN RULE WISELY.

But They Could Not Hold the Reins For One Week—The Treatment Accorded the Agitators Was Just—India Stands For British Rule.

London, June 7.—John Morley, secretary of state for India, in introducing the Indian budget, in the House of Commons, yesterday, defended the sharp treatment he had extended to the Indian agitators and refused to offer any apology for it. He was confident the bulk of the population in India were on Great Britain's side. They knew their interests were bound up in the law and order which the British maintained. It was a dream of some educated Indians that they would carry on the government of the country better than the British, but they could not work it for a week. "British rule in India," Mr. Morley said, "will continue, ought to continue, and must continue." Mr. Morley announced a reduction and the military expenditure of $2,000,000 adding, however, that the government would not interfere with the Indian military programme. Mr. Morley declared that the British doctrine of administrative efficiency had been pressed too far. There would be an enquiry into the question of over-centralization of government.

HIS DREAM A REALITY.

Woman Stabbed Sleeping Child in Adjoining Room.
New York, June 7.—Starting from a dream in which he had seen a man chase a woman around a room and stab her three times with a knife, William Flynn, who lives in rear rooms on the fourth floor of No. 403 East 144th street, thought he had heard the sound of a scuffle in the adjoining room. He went to see and found a woman killing a man and his three-year-old son.

He fancied that he heard a woman's voice cry: "Don't do that; you'll ruin my child." He went to a part of his dream, he went to sleep again. That was a few minutes after midnight yesterday morning, and three hours later Mrs. Killoran was found with three wounds in her head and chest and bruised all over her body. Subsequently, Killoran, her husband, was arrested, and held without bail by Corporal McDonald, on a charge of homicide, pending the inquest.

Flynn, who told the story of his dream which the authorities believe was not all a dream, will be an important witness.
In a room adjoining that where the killing was done the child was found asleep.

Policeman Andrew Brown, of the Alexander avenue station, was at 145th street and Willis avenue, at about half past three o'clock when Killoran, clad only in his underwear and shoes, ran up to him and asked him to go to his flat with him, as his wife had been hurt.

Later Killoran admitted that his wife and the boy, James, when questioned, said that his father had beaten her.

MAY COME TO CANADA.

Think of Leaving Their Homes There.
London, June 7.—At a meeting of the Rhodesian company, Col. Weston Jarvis stated he had received a letter from an Orange River Colony farmer to the effect that his sons and a group of other young Britishers were thinking of throwing up the results of their industry there in consequence of political trouble. Unless going to Canada he, Jarvis, was going to endeavor to get them to go to Rhodesia.

Lecturer Dropped Dead.
Lafayette, Ind., June 7.—Helen M. Gougar, the well-known temperance leader and lecturer, dropped dead here of heart failure. She was seventy years old. In 1896 she toured the country, speaking for Bryan for president. Although her home had been in Lafayette for many years, she was perhaps better known outside for most of her work was done in other cities. For a time she was engaged in editorial work on newspapers.

Sentenced For Telling.
Berlin, June 7.—Herr Pospolus, formerly an official of the foreign office, has been sentenced to three months' imprisonment for giving information concerning the colonial administration to Herr Erzbischof, a member of the reichstag.

A STRANGE REQUEST.

Wants His Ashes Made Into a Brick.

Boston, June 7.—The last strange request of Herman Unger, the Pittsburgh Odd-fellow who killed himself in a Boston hotel on Memorial day, was carried out, to-day, by members of a local lodge of that order.

In a letter to Daniel Jordan, one of the officers of the lodge, Unger requested that his body be cremated and further asked that certain disposition be made of the ashes. The members of the society, however, will not make public this letter, but it is said that with consummate skill, Unger devised a plan whereby his last mortal remains will never be lost or obliterated.

It is said that in a letter left along side of the empty poison bottle, Unger requested his Odd-fellow workers to have his body cremated, the ashes mixed in a cement and moulded into bricks, one of which was to bear his name and date of death and to be engraved and then the brick will be deposited in a Boston cemetery with the ceremony of the order of Odd-fellows. The request will be carried out, it is said, and Unger's last wish will be granted. Unger believed his spirit would return to earth, and he thought that by these means he would prevent his return. When he took his own life Unger left the following note: "My body-wanted to live, but my intellect was to die."

PERMANENT BOARD.

Revenue From Hotels For Public Institutions.

Toronto, June 7.—The report of J. R. L. Starr, license inquiry commissioner, now in the hands of the government, promises to make some radical recommendations.

It is said that Mr. Starr has advised that the granting of licenses in Toronto be put in the hands of a board that will not be appointed from year to year, but will be clear of all political influences, and have a free hand in the granting and cancelling of licenses.

It is also recommended that no brewer or distiller, or wholesale dealer in liquor, be granted a license for a place where they hold one dollar of equity, and that the retail sale of liquor be separated entirely from the wholesale or manufacturing end of the business.

Another important recommendation deals with the apportionment of the license fees. The commissioner advises within one year to return at least two-thirds of all moneys received from license fees to the people, and while it is not made clear in what way the money will be spent, it is inferred that it is to go to public institutions of various kinds.

CANADIAN NURSES BEST.

Roosevelt's Compliments to Girls in Washington.

Ottawa, June 7.—Speaking at a graduation of hospital nurses at St. Luke's Hospital, Hon. Rudolph Leites told the audience that while in Washington President Roosevelt had said to him that of all nurses in the Washington hospitals, Canadian nurses were regarded as the best.

Trading Suspended.

Genoa, Italy, June 7.—Trading on the local bourse was suspended, yesterday, owing to the heavy losses involved in the monthly settlement, amounting to about $2,000,000. The suspension of operations on the bourse was followed by the announcement that the brokers declined to transact any further business, thus creating an exceptional position. The newspapers are asking the government to intervene.

A Pretty Romance.

Charlotte, S.C., June 7.—Crown Prince and Princess of Romania, on their trip of the congressional party headed by Speaker Cannon, Panama, Barker, Gummere, Trenton, N.J., who was southern New Jersey's candidate against John A. Bryan, for United States senator, five years ago, was married to Mrs. Andrew Simonds, at the bride's home villa, Marguerita, on the ocean front at Charleston.

Newspaper Publishers Arrested.

Chicago, June 7.—Eight representatives of four of the Chicago papers have been arrested on charges of conspiracy. It is alleged that in an effort to raise the price of Sunday editions from five cents to seven cents, they threatened to cut off supplies to newsdealers who handled another journal that didn't agree to the increase.

Diphtheria In Palace.

St. Petersburg, June 7.—There is some delay in political transactions at Petrohof, owing to an outbreak of diphtheria in the czar's family. One report states that most of his majesty's children are afflicted, for another states that only one has the disease, and its condition is not serious.

Lady Killed By Express.

Petrolen, Ont., June 7.—While standing at the M. C. R. crossing Mrs. Barr was knocked down and killed by the evening express. She was talking with her companion and did not notice the train approach.

Ossining, N.Y., June 7.—It was discovered, last night, that Edward Elwell, a life prisoner in Sing Sing prison, was missing. Every avenue of escape was closely guarded. Elwell is twenty-five years old and was sent up from New York in 1902 for second degree murder in shooting a bartender.

tacks of the opposition in the House were serious disorders in parts of Ireland. He said the government would

BREAD ON THE WATERS
Every dollar expended on judicious advertising is variably comes back through the channels of trade. For instance: A merchant recently bought a lot of pipes that cost him 25c. each—they were real bargains and he concluded to use the lot for advertising purposes by disposing of them at actual cost. His ad read:
"PIPES—the best you ever laid eyes on—25c." In less than a month he had sold over a gross and the reputation he made on pipes
not only brought him trade for months afterwards on pipes but everything in his store.
