

"IT SAVED MY LIFE" THE COUNTY COUNCIL

PRaise FOR A FAMOUS MEDICINE

Mrs. Willadsen Tells How She Tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Just in Time.

Mrs. T. C. Willadsen, of Manning, Iowa, writes to Mrs. Pinkham.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham— "I can truly say that you have saved my life, and I cannot express my gratitude to you in words.

"Before I wrote to you, telling you how I felt, I had doctored for over two years steady and spent lots of money on medicine besides, but it all failed to help me. My monthly periods had ceased and I suffered much pain with fainting spells, headache, backache and bearing-down pains, and I was so weak I could hardly keep around. As a last resort I decided to write you and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am so thankful that I did, for after following your instructions, which you sent me free of all charge, I became regular and in perfect health. Had it not been for you I would be in my grave to-day.

"I sincerely trust that this letter may lead every suffering woman in the country to write you for help as I did.

"When women are troubled with irregular or painful periods, weakness, displacement or ulceration of an organ, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation, backache, flatulence, general debility, indigestion or nervous prostration, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles.

No other female medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement. Refuse all substitutes.

For twenty-five years Mrs. Pinkham, daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, has under her direction and since her decease, been advising sick women free of charge. Address, Lynn, Mass.

OUT OF POCKET BY HONESTY. Wondering If It Pays to Be Conscientious.

New York Times. "Sometimes it doesn't pay to be conscientious," said the man who had a scruple, but lost it. "One day I found a half dollar in my pocket. I don't know how it got there—which didn't have 'sterling' written on it. Said I to myself philosophically: 'Lucky Sam is a scrupulous fellow. He doesn't like to lose money in particular. So he has established a sub-treasury where he exchanges bad money for good money.' I don't know why I thought this. I suppose I must have read it somewhere.

"When I had finished speaking I found myself looking into the weather-beaten face of Washington on the steps of the sub-treasury. So I entered. Behind a cage I found a clerk. 'Here is a half dollar I think is bad. Please give me a good one for it,' I said meekly. The clerk took the coin, carefully placed it on a die and brought a mallet down on it with a resounding blow. Then he tossed the coin back to me and continued to count pennies. I looked at my coin, and swore then and there I would never be so conscientious again. The face of Liberty was battered into a big 'C,' which plainly meant counterfeit."

NEW STAMPING MACHINE

Is Now in Operation in Post Office.

The new letter stamping machine has arrived and was installed at the local post office this morning. It is capable of stamping ten thousand letters an hour. Already these "Hey & Whelpin" letter stamping machines, which have been placed in over 150 offices in the Dominion, between Cape Breton and Dawson City, on the Pacific coast. On his present trip the firm's representative will install fifty-two machines in different offices. In the United States they are used exclusively, and in Great Britain, France, Germany, and Russia, they are fast winning favor. Belgium has been the latest country to begin their use. Curiously enough the first machine placed in St. Petersburg, was destroyed by the postmen's building being blown up by a bomb.

The machine, itself, stands about four and a half or five feet high and will receive any number of letters, turning them one at a time, and stamping them with the requestor's name. There is no blotting or splashing of ink or dirt in their handling. All the chains and gears are interchangeable. It is a self-runner and a self-oiler, needing no oil, and the oil is contained in a shallow tray beneath the machine. No matter what size the letter may be the stamp it receives is always the same in all cases, and it is by a trip, tongue, cog-wheel, and spring in turn, so that the letter must reach a certain part of the machine before bringing the stamp into action. The machine is proving a great success and already Postmaster Stewart and his staff are quite adept in its use. One thing it is necessary to the public to remember, however, is to stamp the letters on the right hand upper corner. If they do this will greatly expedite the officials in the discharge of their work.

ANOTHER CLERGY SWINDLE.

New Yorker Gets 'Em on a 'Puff' Book Scheme.

New York, June 14.—The curtain which had concealed a gigantic scheme has been drawn aside and shows that practically every prominent lawyer in New York and hundreds throughout the country at large have fallen prey to it. A chance to get both name and likeness between the covers of a proposed book with costly binding, to be printed in the United States and entitled "Notable Clergymen of North America," was the tempting bait held out to the churchmen. To further the interests of the scheme the names of many of the most prominent divines of the United States were used.

H. W. Mason is the alleged publisher. Three years have passed since the canvassers went out, but to date no move has been made to put the matter assembled into type. It is declared that those who could least afford to pay for the costly work were ensnared into contributing thousands of dollars. Despite the statement in the prospectus that the book was to be devoted to "notable clergymen" only, it is admitted that anybody who was willing to pay the price was accepted.

The smallest sum for which a brief notice could be obtained in the book was $25, while the average page biography, with a likeness, was offered at $25, and it is said that the space was bought with surprising eagerness.

FIND WOMAN DROWNED.

Two Stratford Residents Destroyed Themselves.

Stratford, Ont., June 14.—Mrs. Patterson, aged about seventy, drowned herself in the river near Victoria Park yesterday. Her hat and cape were noticed floating in the water, and being made the body was found in shallow water. It is believed she was in a state of temporary insanity when she committed the rash act. The body was discovered while the river was being dragged for another person, Samuel Rankin, who disappeared.

The body of Samuel Rankin was found by a party of searchers, in the river, near the House of Refuge. He had committed suicide while brooding over financial difficulties. He was about sixty years of age, and married, but with no family. He was a brother of the late Joseph Rankin, who met an untimely death some years ago, and uncle of Charles Rankin, killed in the Gulf wreck.

THE AMERICANS

DOMINATE IN LONDON'S SOCIAL LIFE.

Capture Boxes at Royal Opera. Once the Almost Exclusive Property of the Aristocracy of England.

London, June 8.—Americans predominate in society nowadays. They play a leading part in every London function, and whether it be for bridge or dinner, an embassy are the most exclusive and exclusive parties. Boxes are concerned, the American colony is supreme, and most of the best have been taken for the season by Americans. Among those are: Lady, duchess of Marlborough; Mrs. Conroy; Mrs. Stafford; Mrs. Adair, Mrs. Potter Palmer, Mrs. Ronalds, Mrs. Bradley Martin, Mrs. Mackey and Lady Paget. Having a ticket for the opera, the American colony in London is the forefront of the social functions, but the annual invasion of American tourists is already a well-known fact, and it seems clear that this will be a bumper one for them.

We shall find them in possession of the latest fashions in the Highlands; in the high-necked dresses of Parisian and provincialism; dominating the best hotels and monopolizing Bloomsbury boarding houses; over-running the omnibuses and cabs; haunting the "swagger" restaurants with a half-dressed conviction that they are "seeing life," promoting indefatigable in the Row on the off-chance of meeting some of the "old boys" of the American embassy. Victoria street with the assurance that only those who can master who believe that diplomats are sent abroad to act as spies, and that a combination of tourist agent, host, courier and lost-luggage man for their countrymen and countrywomen; "doing" all the sights in hand, from the tower to the "swagger" restaurants with a half-dressed conviction that they are "seeing life," promoting indefatigable in the Row on the off-chance of meeting some of the "old boys" of the American embassy. A CRAFTY LOVER.

Who Stops Train to Kiss His Sweetheart.

A Detroit young man who has occasion to visit Buffalo frequently and who has a girl at one of the intervening stations in Canada, has a scheme whereby he can see and kiss his girl occasionally without losing any time. The particular station at which the young lady in the case resides is a flag station between St. Thomas and Buffalo, and only when there are passengers to get on or off there do the fast express trains on the Washaw stop. Passengers for that station are few and far between and the young man has many times had to be satisfied to get a glimpse at his sweetheart as his train hustled past the station at the rate of fifty or more miles an hour. But it's different now. He has discovered how he can get a look and a kiss every time that he passes between Detroit and Buffalo, which is about once a week.

He secures the scheme for the first time last week to the great amusement of the train-crew and other passengers. This is the way that he does it. He first notifies the girl what day and on what train he expects to pass through, and then instead of buying a through ticket he buys a ticket for the station at which he knows his sweetheart will be waiting for him. Having a ticket for that station, the conductor must stop to let him off. He has just long enough wait to enable him to imprint two or three kisses on the girl's rosy cheeks, and jump aboard the train again and proceed on his way to his destination. In the meantime he has taken the precaution to purchase a second ticket from the little station to the end of his journey, and when the train pulls out from the flag station everybody is happy but the engineer and conductor, who do not like the idea of stopping their train just to allow a couple of lovers to do a little kissing on the station platform. But as yet they have not been able to figure out how they are going to put a stop to the practice.

ONE GAS RANGE FOR YOU.

There is just one practical gas range that does all the best coal ranges do and does it quicker, cheaper and easier than any coal range ever can. That gas range makes Summer cooking cleanly and pleasant instead of messy and toilsome. Its name is the Oxford Gas Range.

The Oxford requires less gas to run it than any other range, and its asbestos lining holds the heat in the oven. Other gas ranges radiate it out into the kitchen.

Cleaning the Oxford detachable burners is as easy as lifting a plate and wiping it.

The oven doors drop flat instead of swinging sideways, so that a heavy roast can be drawn out for inspection. Rest the roast on the oven door to baste—the hinges cannot break down.

The Oxford Gas Range burns with a clear, blue flame, all heat and no waste. There is no odor of burning gases.

There are many other reasons why the Oxford is superior to any other Gas Range. Call in and see this range and let us demonstrate its efficiency to you. The price of this high-grade Gas Range with 16-inch oven is $13 and $29, according to finish. We also make this range to burn natural gas.
