Synopsis of Canadian Northwest HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS.

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North-West Provinces, excepting 4 and 16, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person the sole head of a family, or male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Application for homestead entry or inspection must be made in person by the applicant at the office of the local Agent or Sub-Agent. An application for entry or inspection made personally at any Sub-Agent's office may be served to the local Agent by the Sub-Agent, at the expense of the applicant, and if the land applied for is vacant on receipt of the telegrams such application is to have priority and the land will be held until the necessary papers to complete the transaction are received by mail.

In case of "personae" the entry will be summarily cancelled and the applicant will forfeit all priority of claim.

An applicant for inspection must be eligible for homestead entry, and only one application for inspection will be received from an individual until that application has been disposed of.

A homesteader whose entry is in good standing and not liable to cancellation, may, subject to approval of the Department, relinquish in favor of father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister, if eligible, but to no one else, on being declared of abandonment.

Where an entry is summarily cancelled or voluntarily abandoned, subsequent to the date of cancellation proceedings, the applicant for inspection will be entitled to prior right of entry.

Applicants for inspection must state in what particulars the homestead is in default, and if subsequently the statement is found to be incorrect the material particulars, the applicant will lose any right of re-entry should the land become vacant, or if entry has been granted it may be summarily cancelled.

Duties—A settler is required to perform the conditions under one of the following plans:—

- (1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.
- (2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of a homesteader resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for such homestead, the requirement of residence may be satisfied by such person residing with the settler or mother.
- (3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirement may be satisfied by residence upon such land before making application, or payment of the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of his intention to reside on the land.

NEWBURGH WEDDING

MISS ELLA CHANT WEDDED TO STANLEY WAGAR.

Rev. R. Duke, the New Methodist Pastor—The Bridge Dispute to Be Heard By Judge Madden on June 21st.

Newburgh, June 13.—Rev. R. Duke, late of Selby, becomes the successor of Rev. J. E. Mears, as pastor of the Methodist church here. Mr. Duke was elected president of the conference last week and comes to Newburgh, highly recommended.

On Saturday evening last a number gathered at the home of Rev. J. H. Chant, when Mrs. Mears, on behalf of the choir and Epworth League of the Methodist church, presented Miss Ella Chant, whose marriage took place on Wednesday, with an address and silver fern pot. Miss Chant has been a valued member of the choir and Epworth League, and will be much missed in church circles as well as among a wide circle of friends.

Miss Gertie Conway left on Tuesday for Winnipeg, Minn., and Mrs. Chant, who was in the city, is visiting at the home of Rev. J. H. Chant's, Bishop Mills will preach in St. John's church, on Wednesday afternoon, Miss Chapman will preach in the afternoon at the home of Mrs. Connelly, Yarker, spent Friday with Miss Beaman. S. P. Fitzmartin, has purchased the Hurdett homestead and will move there the latter part of June. Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Denyes spent Sunday in Odessa.

Frederick Shortt and George, Shore, helped Camden East defeat the Yorkville baseball team in Camden East on Saturday. The score was eight to seven. The little southpaw pitched the first five innings for Camden East, and held the hard-hitting Yarker lynch to four runs, striking out eight men. Wood finished the game.

Mrs. Swaney, Oxford Mills, is visiting her sister, Mrs. J. H. Aylesworth. Promotion examinations for the different forms are being held in the high school this week. John Foster, Point Ann, spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. Prof. and Mrs. Matheson left on Monday, to visit her sister in South Napanee.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Rev. J. H. Chant, on Wednesday afternoon, when his only daughter, Miss Ella, was united in marriage to Stanley Wagar, son of J. D. Wagar, Enterprise. Promptly at three o'clock, the bride entered the drawing room to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Miss Lambert. The bridal party took their position at the north end of the room under a bell of white lilies. The bride wore a gown of white silk, and carried a shower bouquet of cream roses. Miss Florence Thompson, of Foxboro, in a very pretty costume of white organdie, acted as bridesmaid, and carried a bouquet of cream roses. Earl Wagar, Enterprise, brother of the groom performed the duties of best man. After the ceremony the guests sat down to a dainty wedding breakfast served by Miss Jennie Brunton, Miss Pearl Wood and Miss Mary Seriver, members of the bride's Sunday school class. The groom's present to the bride was a gold bracelet, to the bridesmaid a very pretty pearl pin, and to the best man a gold watch. The bride's present to the groom was a diamond ring. The bride's trousseau was very complete. The bride's trousseau was very complete.

WRITER'S INCOMES.
They Are Sometimes Immense—Lecturers Greater.

A writer who ticks the popular taste makes an income exceeding even that of a Lord Chancellor. It is commonly reputed that Hall Caine's receipts are well over twelve thousand a year. Probably those of Miss Corelli are a similar figure. Successful playwrights have reaped enormous returns. No one exactly knows what Mr. Gilbert has made out of the Savoy series and their many revivals, but certainly his income must run into five figures. Lecturing pays even better than writing. H. M. Stanley once made £22,000 in ten weeks during an American tour, and "Ivan MacLaren" £10,000 in six weeks. But these are, of course, not rates which could be kept up for a year, let alone a lifetime.

Bishop Who Plays Cricket.
The fact that he is a keen lover of outdoor recreations explains to a certain extent the great desire of the Bishop of Southwark (Dr. Talbot) to add some acres of playing fields to Rusk Park. Cricket is one of the Bishop's favorite games, and although he cannot play quite so well as some of the members of the famous cricketing family, Lyttelton, to which he is related by marriage, his lordship gets some good enjoyment out of the game. It is said that once, when he was staying with the Lytteltons, he took part in a cricket match, and a local cricketer bowled him a wide. "That's outside my parish," he gently shouted the bishop. The next ball, which fell in the episcopal apron, he did not make any comment, but the reverend bowler added to his apology, "That one, at any rate, was well in the diocese, my lord!"

Sizzling Days Ahead.
Philadelphia Record.

"Look out for extreme hot weather soon, which will extend clear into November," says a warning given by Amos Fuller, a West Schuylkill farmer.

Fuller, who bases his weather predictions on a study of the habits of squirrels, birds and insects, deprecates the action of many farmers, who, in despair, their early vegetable crops reaching maturity, are plowing such crops under and sowing others. He declares that there will be plenty of time for the early crops to ripen, and that the farmers who are sowing them will regret it later on.

Fuller says that large flocks of wild geese, which usually fly northward over the mountains early in April, just made their appearance this week. He declares these flocks are unfailing weather indicators, and that the season being two months late in starting, we will not have any fall frost until two months later than usual.

The letter travels in the direction 6,900 miles, all the distance in American territory.

ONE OF THE SENATORS.

Prominent in Connection With Haywood Trial.

William E. Borah
Hon. William Edgar Borah, United States senator from Idaho, was born at Fairfield, Ill., on June 29th, 1855. He was educated in the public schools of Fairfield and the University of Kansas, and then studied law, and in 1880 was admitted to the bar. He married Miss Mammie McConnell, of Boise, Idaho, on April 25th, 1895. Aside from his position in the upper house of congress, Senator Borah has been especially prominent recently through his connection with the sensational trial of the officials of the Western Federation of Miners on the charge of conspiracy to murder ex-Governor Steuneger.

Polite Thieves.
New York Post.

"The American" souvenir-hunter will steal anything except a collar full of water," exclaimed Rear Admiral Evans when interviewed the other day in regard to the theft on board the flagship of the Duke of Abruzzi. That the admiral hardly exaggerates every one must admit, no matter how much the confession hurts and shames. The Duke's gold toilet set, a present from the King of Italy, was naturally attractive, and is now scattered from Louisiana to Minnesota. His clothes brushes, his hair brushes and combs were also second in their charm, and the buttons of such of his uniforms as were accessible were esteemed particularly precious by reason of their having been fingered by one of royal blood.

FASHIONS CHANGE IN MINING

A Review of Facts By Prof. Gwilliam.

Canadian Mining Journal.

Time and place have many values in some phases of mining, quite out of proportion to the value of the commodity involved. Everyone interested in the speculative side of mining feels that there is a time to buy and a time to sell, and the chief concern is to choose the right one. The general public knows nothing of production values, and does not really speculate upon them, but upon the optimism of the hundreds or thousands who are interested in seeing the market rise.

A piece of ground adjacent to a bonanza acquires value in much the same way as a piece of real estate in a desirable neighborhood. This side appeals to the ordinary man, but as a rule there is nothing of real value in it. There are reasons sometimes for the expectation of value; but these are not due to proximity, but to geological conditions which can be understood by very few people. Given two pieces of blank, unprospected ground, the one adjoining a known deposit is preferably to one in such proximity; both are far more speculative than the piece of real estate. Concerning the fashions in mining, these are as carefully nursed as any fashion of dress or facts of the times. A likely field is pushed forward at first by some real merit, then by wide and subtle advertisement. Men become especially interested in the camp. Their friends also come in, there is a good opening for exploitation and inflation of values; property and shares acquired by gift or small payment are talked up until the general public and those who sell to them become interested. Everything combines to make a rising market. Friends have made money every man who has a dollar in the camp becomes an optimist, and the fictitious values roll up. The press, the public and the people in the camp itself cannot cool the man who says a word to cool the enthusiasm, very little on that subject is said. The experience of Southern British Columbia during the decade from 1890 to 1900 illustrates history of a mining boom. Whilst money was pouring into the country and a host of exploiters found themselves busy in keeping up the good times, people lost sight of the inadequate returns from the mines. Later on it was conceded that the costly development would bring about the required production; but before that time the subscribing public ceased to put up more funds, and mining, from the point of view of a group of many people, had gone to pieces. Concurrently with the cooling of the brokers, migratory experts and all that floating aggregation began to pick up. Only properties of merit could stand the withdrawal of outside funds. Many of these even had to cease operations because of the mistrust caused by misrepresentation.

After the boomery was dead, in the opinion of those who lived by the money coming in from the outside, and the population had diminished, the production and money coming out of the mines still went on increasing until it is now double that of the best days of the mining boom. At the present time it is much harder to sell a property of real merit than in those days to sell a piece of ground from a few assays. Hundreds of claims held at high figures in 1896 to 1898 have lapsed into crown lands for want of representation. Yet the mining industry is in a better condition than at any previous time, as far as genuine mining is concerned, and the best interests of the people who intend to make these districts their homes: Ontario itself has cut its teeth in various camps for the last forty years, and in some places has found something to maintain after that process had been endured. Gold, copper and lead have all had a run; there are reports of twenty to forty years ago fully as optimistic, and as groundless as those of today, upon properties, which have now a strong second growth of timber in their excavations. Silver is now a fashionable metal, and a few traces of it can raise financial interest. Many of those who are now interested in the phenomenal values of the Cobalt camp may not have even heard of another silver camp in Canada, which, without ever figuring to much extent on the stock market, has produced over twelve million dollars in silver and six million dollars in lead in the last ten years. This has come out of an area in the Slovan, of British Columbia, not very much larger than the Cobalt camp, but that B. C. camp, from the point of view of the broker and the public, is decidedly unprofitable.

From another point of view the men and money going into the popular camps does much good, by stimulating industry and development to an extent which would be impossible with the cautious policy of conservative mining. If there are assets in the way of natural resources there is a chance of discovery and development which they might not have for a very long time, and time alone will show who gets the benefit.

"Look out for extreme hot weather soon, which will extend clear into November," says a warning given by Amos Fuller, a West Schuylkill farmer.

Fuller, who bases his weather predictions on a study of the habits of squirrels, birds and insects, deprecates the action of many farmers, who, in despair, their early vegetable crops reaching maturity, are plowing such crops under and sowing others. He declares that there will be plenty of time for the early crops to ripen, and that the farmers who are sowing them will regret it later on.

Fuller says that large flocks of wild geese, which usually fly northward over the mountains early in April, just made their appearance this week. He declares these flocks are unfailing weather indicators, and that the season being two months late in starting, we will not have any fall frost until two months later than usual.

The letter travels in the direction 6,900 miles, all the distance in American territory.
