The Failures of Wedded Life

How They Come About and How They Can Be Avoided.

"Half the failures of wedded life are due to man's inability to temper justice with mercy. The other half are due to woman's inability to temper outlay with income." So said one of the world's great men. Is this true? We are disposed to answer, "No." Many of the failures arise from incompatibility of temperament, and, oh, so many from disordered stomach, lungs or liver, or other condition of physical infirmity. No home can attain the highest degree of happiness without health. Pevsine has brought happiness and health to thousands of homes in Canada. If you are in poor health, run down, weak, poor appetite, or have throat, lung or stomach trouble, write to Dr. T. A. Slocum, Limited, Toronto, or better still, go to your nearest druggist and procure a bottle of Pevsine. Read what happiness it brings to homes, and how one of the greatest calamities that can come to wedded life can be avoided.

"The use of your celebrated remedy, Pevsine and Oxemulsion, in my family has been so beneficial that I feel it would be an injustice both to you and the general public were I to withhold my testimony as to their excellence. Two years ago my wife was treated by an eminent Toronto throat specialist for a diseased throat and lungs, and receiving no relief she tried Pevsine, and after having used three bottles was fully restored."

NEW YORK LETTER

LOSSES TO THE MANY BUSINESS MEN.

The Regime Proper For a Man Who Uses His Brain—Big Things in New York—A Child Who Acted Quickly.

New York, June 15.—Unseasonable weather has caused losses to the New York retailers and wholesalers in wearing apparel, hats and shoes that run into the millions. Stocks laid in by the department stores at small retail dealers early in the spring still encumber the shelves, and the whole houses are unable to collect for the goods they have delivered all over the country, for the reason that sales are as backward in other cities and towns as in New York. Hundreds of employees have been laid off. One big store suspended 472 salespeople, another 170. The more optimistic shopkeepers hope to catch up as soon as the weather turns warm, but even a blistering hot spell in a few days will fall with equal heavy losses, in the estimation of many merchants. Such hate, and general apparel designed for spring wear will not be sold. When the rain comes it will go to the streets, and the summer goods will fall heaviest on small retailers handling only one line. Their stocks are practically intact. Haberdashers especially have suffered.

Ames, the chief discussion, Upton Sinclair sent to a newspaper the following sample of a regimen which he says has proved proper for a man of twenty-eight, who weighs 136 pounds, and eats his main fairly hard breakfast (8 a.m.), one cup of fruit, a small portion of some other or vegetable, two slices whole wheat bread, four inch-cubes of butter, one saucer of rice pudding, custard or fruit Supper (6 p.m.), slice of bread and butter, saucer of fruit and cream.

"These meals of this," says the editor of the "Jungle," "if cheerfully and slowly put away, will absolutely cure dyspepsia. If the person who eats them will also abstain from too much money-making, will sleep with his windows open, take cold baths in the morning, and play some outdoor games one hour a day, he will find himself forever immune from colds and sore throat, stomach troubles, alcohol, nicotine and other abnormal cravings, nervous disorders, insomnia, ill-temper, misanthropy, philosophical pessimism and political conservatism."

The rich fellows, despite the loud-mouthed utterances of the political workers who instruct the laborers and farmers, do a great deal of good with their money that could in no other way be obtained by the body going on up at J. P. Morgan's fine Madison avenue residence, that gentlemen has begun the tearing down of a house worth $85,000, once owned by William F. Dodge, and in admirable contrast to the plot where the building stands and between his home and the home of his son, Mr. Morgan will lay out an Italian garden, with fountains and lower beds. This will give an unobstructed view of the library building and will be beautiful in itself. Mr. Morgan's plan calls for the rebuilding of the north side of his house. The brick walls will be replaced by stone, and this work is now under way. There will be an entrance to the garden from this side of the house and also to the library building in the rear. And so the public, the poor man, the little children, the rich passer-by, the fine lady and the servant, will all have a free look upon a place of loveliness, on which the owner will have lavished thousands of dollars to make pretty and attractive to the eye of the most cultivated or the least refined, and throw the view which costs so much money open to the public, so that they may see a beauty spot that will be a joy forever in their memories.

There is a great deal of this kind of work and practical benevolence being done in this city, and indeed all over the country, by men who have had ability and good fortune, and with their accumulated riches have turned towards the people and enriched them with what the people with their own resources could never have secured. If our cities are to be made beautiful, as the city is now, it must be with the money of the benevolently inclined rich men, and it is rarely that they fail to respond when the need is made known to them. Without doubt, Mr. Morgan's gift to the people will be followed by others, until the metropolis is full of places made beautiful for the masses to look upon.

There is so much that is inspiring in the atmosphere of New York, and things are done here on such a big scale, that it is not surprising that many of those who prosper by coming in touch with the life of New York, and who share in its prosperity, when they acquire the means to try in some way to return to the great city some of the favors they have received from it, and do their part in making it still greater than it was before. Miss Lillian Nordica is one of those whose coming has been awaited with interest and desire, and money has flowed into her purse from the generous people of New York without stint. She now proposes to return some of it with a mighty big interest, by establishing on the banks of the Hudson a replica of the Bayreuth Festival. In an admirably located spot she will establish this remarkable festival, and make it a centre of musical interest for both Americans and foreigners. She has already expended an hundred thousand dollars in securing the property, and can have millions for just asking for them. In this manner do those who have profited by the musical desire of New York's citizens, at least some of them, return to her the good of the money they have received. The site is twenty-nine miles from New York, and the theatre will have a seating capacity of 3,000 persons, but by an arrangement will have an unlimited capacity, as it will embrace the whole hillside. This building is to be a reproduction of the Wagner building at Bayreuth, and the buildings which are to form the institute of music will be constructed on similar architectural lines. An open-air theatre is to be a feature, and it will be presented not only musical drama, but Shakespearean plays.

Quickest to act of all those who saw the peril of James Byrnes, three years old, as he stood in the path of a south-bound Eighth avenue car, was a girl of five, who had been playing with the boy in front of his home. He did not see the car until the motor-man clanged the gong. The terrified child halted between the rails. His little playmate ran towards him, while men and women faltered, as if transfixed with fear. The girl caught him in her arms and the car was stopped. Scores who witnessed the tragedy were apparently frenzied. The girl was lost in the crowd that surged forward.

FIRE FIGHTERS WITH CIRCUS.

Spectacle Has All the Realism of Life.

Dramatic interest has at last been successfully introduced into the make-up of a circus programme as to vary the thrill of daring exploit on wire and bar with a dash of theatrical suspense and a touch of heart-interest. Now the management of the Adam Foreman & Sells Bros' present the fire-drama, "Fighting the Flames," as the introductory to the regular programme. That it has revolutionized the circus will be recognized when the Foreman & Sells Bros' show exhibit in Kingston, on June 27th.

A trainload of scenery, representing a solid city structure, completely fills the arena, inside the circle of seats, while set pieces and properties convert the rings into a public park with fountains, statuary, driveways, and pavilions. Market places, public buildings, shops and theatres give the city architectural correctness, and realistic action is provided by trolley cars, omnibuses, and delivery wagons. A touch of realism is given by the driving of the tram from the park bench, the street piano out of tune, the over-turned limo of the old lady visitor who loses her way—here, on through the lighter side of life. Then follows the drama of heroic action. In the midst of a holiday procession smoke is seen, from the upper window of an hotel on the square. The parade stampedes, horses take fright and confusion takes possession of the crowds when an explosion in the hotel basement hurls an avalanche of fiery brands onto the heads of the people.

As an alarm is turned in from a signal box, the flames spread to other windows and above the crash of falling masonry are heard the cries of victims of the trap of fire. Clang, sounds a gong! Fire engines plunge around the corner! After them rumble the heavy hook and ladder wagons, the stand-pipes and hose carts! The fire marshal dashes up in his light buggy.

Then begins the battle of fire and water with human lives at the stake! All the thrilling scenes of heroic ladder rescues, the leaping into life-rafts, the advance of the brave brigade into the glare and heat, the retreat before crumbling walls and the re-charge of determined men, the hissing of plunging streams of water, the volcanoes of sparks—all the spectacular details of a great city fire are enacted with the realism of actuality. To view this spectacle is almost like to the actual experience, and an onlooker is so absorbed as to find it hard to realize that the drama he witnesses is but fiction. Terrific is the climax of victory which brings the audience back to earth.

FASHION'S FORM.

Costume of Checked Silk, Mohair or Linen.

The bodice shown in the sketch is a smart model for street wear, the design being practical for various materials. White and brown checked silk in soft finish tulle was used for the model, combined with plain brown liberty satin, which was used about the neck and girde, and also formed the tie in front. Small buttons, covered with the liberty satin, were also used as trimmings. The skirt was plaited and trimmed about the lower part with three deep bias folds, the loose lower edge of each fold having a half-inch hem of the satin.

CLIMBER ABANDONED.

Falls Exhausted in Snow and is Left There.

Geneva, June 15.—Four Bulgarian students climbed the Saleve Mountain, near Geneva, last night, in order to view the sunrise this morning. One of the students fell exhausted near the summit, and was abandoned by his comrades, who continued their climb. They met a Swiss guide, whom they informed of the accident. The victim was found eight hours later at the bottom of a ravine into which he had fallen. He is now in a critical condition.

THE LUCKY BOYS
Gold Mines, Limited,
LARDER LAKE

THOMAS McCAMUS, President.
Vice-President of The Temiskaming and Hudson Bay Mining Company and President of The Temiskaming Telephone Co.

FRANK WESLEY HAYNES, Vice-President.
Director of the New Laskard and Ontario Mining Company.

The highest recommendation for the shares of the Lucky Boys Gold Mines, Ltd., is the fact that large blocks of them are being rapidly subscribed for at Cobalt, Halleybury, New Laskard and Larder Lake. These people, being on the ground, are in a position to see the Lucky Boys properties for themselves; they know the wonderful values that have been disclosed. Mine owners and miners from the surrounding mines are all planning their faith on the Lucky Boys; they are buying all the shares they can, they realize what a splendid investment they are getting in buying Lucky Boys at 6 cents per share. Are you going to join them in making a fortune? The Lucky Boys properties consist of 20 claims of 40 acres each, making a total acreage of 800 acres. Some of the claims adjoin the famous Red-dick claims, others adjoin the Proprietary Gold Fields, and others adjoin the wonderful Ilme Bell properties.

6 CENTS PER SHARE

(Par Value, $1.00, Fully Paid and Non-assessable)

We advise you to buy all you can, you are bound to greatly profit thereby.

The stock of the Lucky Boys is actually worth a great deal more money than the price we are offering it at. Our engineers figure many times the par value of the total capitalization of the Company. All it requires for investors to make money is to have faith and confidence in the Lucky Boys proposition, and we strongly advise investors to put every dollar that they can in these shares at the present price.

Could you visit the Larder Lake district and examine the properties, as we have done, you would not hesitate a single moment in placing every dollar at your command in the shares of Lucky Boys. While the rich are enabled to take their private car and personally inspect and invest their money in mining properties, it is necessary for the man or woman who has only a few hundred or a few thousand dollars to invest to depend upon some one in whom they have the utmost confidence, and unless the small investors have a friend or friends in the field they are at a loss as to how to invest their capital.

There is nothing so important to the success of a company as the management, for a company might own the best property in the country and with poor and extravagant management would be a failure. The Directors are all well-known business and mining men who have invested their own money in the enterprise. They believe the properties under their care will eventually become one of the great dividend payers of the country.

It should be noted that all of the Directors of the Company are well-known and successful business men—not men that are simply interested in a mine—but men that are miners in every sense of the word, and who know how to operate, maintain and conduct a mine in a business-like manner and who have been connected with the strongest and most successful mines in the Cobalt camp. These gentlemen are just the kind of mining men that investors should be glad to become identified with.

The fact that some of these gentlemen, who are Directors of the Company and originally owned a part interest in some of the Lucky Boys claims, are buying the shares at 6 cents each with the cash that they receive for their interest in the properties should be sufficient to satisfy the most sceptical. These men know what a splendid investment they are getting in buying the shares at 6 cents each.

As we have heretofore stated in our circular letters and advertisements, we are willing to stake our standing and reputation on the present conditions and the future outcome of the Larder Lake district and as to its possibilities.

We say to our clients follow our advice in the purchase of shares of the Lucky Boys, rely upon our reputation and standing as being reliable and trustworthy. Follow our advice and you will make profits that will astonish you.

Coming to the most vital point of all, when you interest yourself in Lucky Boys you are becoming a partner of people who are either practical mining men, and have made fortunes out of mining, or of mining men who are willing to wait the development of this property to make their fortunes.

FRUIT-LIVES

Rheumatism means poisoned blood. The kidneys, bowels and skin should rid the system of waste matter. If these vital organs become weakened or diseased, the body cannot throw off this waste fast enough. One of these body poisons is URIC ACID, which is eliminated both by the kidneys and skin. If the skin action is poor—if the kidneys are inflamed—uric acid stays in the system, is changed into uric acid, carried by the blood to the nerves and joints—and causes Rheumatism.

"Fruit-lives" cure Rheumatism because they eliminate uric acid by increasing the action of the kidneys and skin.
