EVANGELISTIC WORK

VISIT OF STAFF BAND AT S. A. BARRACKS.

Grand Rally Held on Saturday Night and Another Sunday—The Musical Programme.

The visit of the Canadian Territorial staff band, of Toronto, to the local Salvation Army corps, on Saturday night and on Sunday, was marked with great success.

The band is composed of twenty-five members, all of whom are good musicians. Their selections were well rendered, and brought forth many favorable comments.

The Sunday afternoon programme was as follows: March, by the band, "The Flag," Adjt. Gillan; "Onward March," by the band, and male choir; selection, "Hebrew Melodies," by the band; recitation, "The Life Boat," by Capt. Hanagan; euphonium solo, "Abide With Me," by Col. Pagnire; vocal solo, Staff Capt. Pagnire; "Jerusalem, My Happy Home," by the band; male quartette, "Lead Kindly Light," by the band; "Songs of Early Days."

The singing of the male quartette was especially good. The band rendered several fine selections at the open air meetings, and sang with much earnestness.

At the Sunday night meeting, stirring addresses were given by Col. Pagnire and Maj. Morris. Staff Capt. Arnold, on behalf of the band, extended thanks to the Kingston people who had entertained the members of the band during their stay in the Limestone City.

We were all right royally entertained," he said, "and we wish to thank you from the bottom of our hearts. We will be most pleased to visit Kingston again."

Sunday morning, the members of the band paid a visit to the penitentiary, and conducted a service for the prisoners.

The Canadian territorial staff band, after being out of commission since the last great international congress, London, England, in 1902, where it received most favorable comment from the English public and press, was recently reorganized by Commissioner Coombs, in command of the army's work in Canada and Newfoundland. The band is composed of members and employees attached to the headquarters staff, Toronto, and the majority occupy the duties of their work as represented: The accountants and cashiers, finance, property, trade, social, immigration, together and chief secretary of the commissioner's office.

ESCAPE OF HAWKEY

FROM ROCKLIFE CAMP A YEAR AGO.

When Dominion Detective Chamberlain Sought Him—His Brother Accepted Arrest While Joseph Travelled Southward.

The departure of the 5th Kingston Field Battery for the training camp at Petawawa recalls the attempt made by the Dominion Police to arrest Joseph Hawkey, the wrestler, at Rocklife camp, Ottawa, just a year ago.

Hawkey, it will be remembered, was wanted on a charge of being mixed up in the fraudulent bogus ballot case of November, 1904, and a warrant was issued for his arrest. However, he settled in Watertown, N.Y., and was safe so long as he kept of Canadian soil. He and his brothers had been members of the Kingston Field Battery, and Joseph Hawkey thought it would be quite safe last June to spend two weeks with the battery at Rocklife camp. But the Dominion police got wind of his presence, and Detective Chamberlain went out to arrest "the bold, bad wrestler."

The real details of the incident have never yet been recorded, and they are decidedly interesting. It happened there were three of the Hawkey family in the battery: Craig, Michael and Joseph. When Detective Chamberlain entered the lines of the 5th and asked if Hawkey was there one of the officers sent word that he was possibly what was brewing, and the risk Joseph had run in accompanying the battery to Ottawa, the headquarters of the Dominion police. As no particular Hawkey was asked for, the distinguished looking Dominion detective and his brother brought to him. So he sent for Craig Hawkey, and another message to Joseph Hawkey to make for Prescott.

It happened that the train was crossing the river to Ottawa, and the Ottawa police station while Joseph was speeding in a cab to the railway station. The latter caught a train and early in the evening was on United States soil. Craig Hawkey went to the police cells and said nothing. He wished to give his brother lots of time to get safely out of the way. When a telegram came from Joseph that he was in Kingston, Sir Percy the 5th Field battery sent for Sir Percy Sherwood, chief of the Dominion police, and informed him that his idea had made a mistake, and arrested the wrong man. Joseph Hawkey was not in Kingston, Sir Percy desired the release of the brother, but was not given the details of the deceiver.

Craig and Michael Hawkey are again in camp with the battery at Petawawa, but Joseph will remain at his business in Watertown, N.Y., till it is decided to let bygones be bygones. He has denied on several occasions; that he had anything to do with the bogus ballot box affair. In any case, he has no desire to linger in jail waiting for trial. If he did ever come to trial he would be acquitted.

GANANOQUE Sunday Excursions.

There seems to be a Sunday excursion law for Gananoque and another for Kingston. At the latter the customs officers will not allow a pleasure excursion boat to land on the shore of Gananoque, yesterday, the steamer "Cantant," of Alexandria Bay, landed, took on a party of pleasure seekers and brought them back again. The Cantant is nothing more than a traffic boat. It is not a pleasure boat. It is the Kingston or the North King. If customs officers Groghegan or Hanley had been in charge at Gananoque the steamer would have been held if she landed. Gananoque should not have any more privileges than Kingston.

DR. McNAMARA DEAD

PASSED AWAY IN HOTEL DIEU ON SUNDAY.

A Midnight Cortège to the G. T. R. Station—The Deceased Was Formerly Principal of St. Mary's Separate School.

The saddened procession of mourners following the remains of a departed friend through the dim light of the early morning speaks more than words can utter of pen can trace. At the Hotel Dieu James P. McNamara, M.D., C.M., passed peacefully away, on Sunday afternoon, about half-past three o'clock, after an illness extending over about four weeks. All that medical knowledge and skill could suggest was done for the sick man, but in the end the surgeon had to be called in as a last hope to prolong life. Dr. Bruce, of Toronto, last week, operated, trephining the skull, but without success, and death came to claim its awful homage.

The deceased was thirty-three years of age. His home was in Stratford, where his boyhood was spent and his early education obtained. After passing through public and high schools, he later Dr. McNamara entered Toronto University, and at the end of his career there obtained a first-class teacher's certificate. Then followed three years at St. Catharines, in-structing the youthful mind. Kingston next saw him, as principal of the old brothers school (now St. Mary's), which position he held for two years, before resigning to take up the study of medicine at Queen's. He graduated only in April last, with high honors, and his death is the first break in the medical class of '07.

As a teacher, the deceased was well known, highly qualified, and eminently successful. Respected and popular with pupil and parent alike, Dr. McNamara bade fair to rise to the highest position in the gift of the calling, had he elected to follow its voice. But in-duced with the love for the work of a physician, he entered upon a medical course and had been but spared his rise in his chosen profession, and in-stead have been rapid indeed.

To none was his true character better known, perhaps, than to his classmates—those who were his associates during his college course, and who, one and all, learned to love the "man." Honorable and tried, "Mac" was ever ready and willing to help his chums in difficulties and many a stony road with his far-sightedness and wisdom left behind. In classroom and in the past, his final year, he was elected president of the Society of Aesculapian, the highest gift in the power of the undergraduate medical student. His was an influence felt and felt-ling were the better thereof.

The remains were taken to the Grand Trunk station, in time for the midnight train, which conveyed them to Stratford for interment. Six of the deceased's classmates, Drs. Assel-tine, Quigley, Laidlaw, Mills, Sullivan and Walker, acted as pall-bearers. Dr. McNamara leaves a father, one sister and three brothers to mourn over his sad death. One brother, the sister and the father were present at the death bed.

Dr. McNamara had recently been appointed house surgeon at the Water Street Hospital, in Ottawa. The local Knights of Columbus will be represented at the funeral in Stratford by F. Welch, who accompanied the remains west.

Death of Mrs. Snodden. At four o'clock Sunday morning, death summoned a much respected resident of Kingston, in the person of Mrs. Snodden, wife of Sergeant Alexander Snodden, of the Kingston police force, at the age of thirty-eight years. Deceased had been ailing for over three years, but it was only on Saturday, that she was forced to take to her bed. She was a woman of true Christian character, beloved by all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance. Mrs. Snodden was a Methodist, and a member of St. Andrew's church. She was born at Richmond, Surrey, England, and was a daughter of Charles Lemon, of that place. She was a resident of Kingston for twenty-five years, and was married to her husband, in this city. Besides her husband, she is survived by one brother, Charles Lemon, of Frontenac street. The funeral will take place on Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock.

Canada's Flag in Empire. From the Western Times of Exeter, England, we learn that some time ago the school children of Exeter sent flags to the Exeters of Australia, Tasmania, and Ontario, Canada. The Exeters across the seas are reciprocating. The Canadian flag from Exeter, Ontario, arrived just in time for Empire Day. An illustration shows the flag flying from the Guild hall on that day, while another one shows the Canada flag itself. The article says: "Our colonial kinsfolk will be interested in the view of our ancient guild hall. While our home folk will be interested in the other picture which shows the special badge of Canada in the tail or 'fly' as it is technically called."

Mrs. Edward Hunt, Princess street, accompanied by her daughter and son, left, yesterday, on the steamer Toronto, for Rochester to visit her brother, for the next couple of weeks.
