BUSY CAMP SCENE

AN EARLY START WAS MADE AT DRILL.

None of Former Year Delays at Opening—The Army Medical Corps Was Visited By the Inspector-General.

If you have never seen a few thousand men in military uniform and in the midst of a campaign, you have never seen the manner in which such an army of men is provided for and how the injured and sick are cared for in the field, if you have never seen these and thousand and one other things connected with military life, then visit Barrieffield camp while you have an opportunity. The way is long, the heat intense, and the flying dust thick, but the venture will repay you though perhaps not tempt a second one.

From sunrise to sunset the camp presents an animated scene. Less time has probably been lost in getting down to hard drill this summer than in any previous years. Everything seems ordered and regulated about the ground. Each one knows what is expected of him, and does his duty. Col. W. D. Gordon, officer commanding Eastern Ontario, and camp commandant, is to be complimented upon the efficient standard to which he has raised the annual camp of instruction entrusted to his care. To him and the staff assisting him every credit should be given.

Yesterday under canvas was little different from previous ones. The men drilled, practiced at the butts, indulged in signalling instruction, etc., just as usual. About the Army Medical Corps encampment alone could one witness the unusual. Col. Jones, inspector-general, was on hand to look things over. It was no rough and ready, easy going, any old style of inspection, either, but perhaps the most thorough the corps has undergone in years. The men, the stores, the equipment, the hospital, the ambulance wagons, these and every department came under his observation. He even had the men take charge of a supposedly wounded patient, and describe what they would do in case he suffered from certain injuries to suit the most exacting, and it is unnecessary to state that Major Ross' corps sustained its reputation throughout.

Sergt. S. McCullough, 14th Regiment, again at his veteran work, and has charge of the ranks of Fireman John Burns in the ranks of the 4th Hussars. Well camp, would it be camp without "Jack" and his parrot.

Lieut.-Col. Abbott, A.M.C., P.M.O., is being welcomed back on all sides. Major White, A.S.C., conducts the class of instruction each afternoon for the quartermasters of the various regiments.

Lieut. Campbell has charge of the sub-target practice and has his men quite as interested in the work as he is himself. Q.M.S. J. Edwards, C.M. S., is an efficient musketry instructor.

Sergt. J. A. O'Connor, C.M.S.C., is chief staff clerk under Lieut.-Col. Hemmings, and Ptes. J. L. Gardiner and L. Lawson are assistant clerks.

A veteran of two Bistley teams, Sergt. Carruthers, 4th Hussars, is one of the notables in this year's camp. Lieut.-Col. Holmes is once more out in command of the 4th Hussars, and proving as popular and efficient an officer as ever.

Dr. Currie, M.P.P., is down from Pictou, with the 16th, as surgeon. Chaplain Craig is once more out with the 4th Hussars. Camp would scarcely be camp without him. Dr. Kidd has transferred his affections, and is this year to be found looking after the ailments of the cavalrymen.

Orders For To-Day.
The duties to-day are furnished by the 6th Infantry Brigade. Next for duty, the 7th Infantry Brigade. Medical officers, Capt. A. Gillespie, 45th Regiment. Next for duty, Lieut. T. Douglas, 3rd Dragoons. Veterinary officer for the day, Lieut. McMill, A.S.C. Next for duty, Maj. Ming, 4th Hussars.

The following regiments parade for musketry instruction: 49th Regiment, right half battalion, at 8:30 a.m.; 49th Regiment, left half battalions, at 9:30 a.m.; "C" squadron, 3rd Dragoons, at 1:30 p.m.; "C" squadron, 4th Hussars, at 1:30 p.m.; "C" squadron, 5th P.L.D.G., at 3 p.m. The 47th Regiment will parade at the butts at 7:30 a.m. "A" and "B" squadrons, 3rd Dragoons, "A" and "B" squadrons, 4th Hussars, and "B" squadron, 5th P.L.D.G. will parade at the butts at 1:30 p.m.

The attention of O.C. brigades is called to the number of men loading in the lines during drill hours. The O.C. brigades will be held responsible that every available man is on parade.

YACHTING EVENTS

TO TAKE PLACE DURING THE SUMMER.

Fresh Interest Awakened in Sailing—Montreal Yacht Club Invited Here For a Day's Racing.

At a meeting of the regatta committee of the Kingston Yacht Club, held last evening, the following schedule for the season's races was decided upon:

June 29th—Handicap cruising race to Dominion Park and Gananoque, to start at 10 a.m. and attend the regatta.

July 6th—Club race in harbor.

July 23rd—Cruising race to Prospect Park.

July 30th—First race for Bruce Carruthers Trophy.

August 10th—Cruising race, destination to be decided later.

August 17th—Third Bruce Carruthers Trophy race.

August 24th—Cruising race to St. James.

August 31st—Labor Day cruising race to Dominion Park, Grindstone Island and Clayton.

It is hoped to have the power boats cruising so as to have a large number of members as possible at each rendezvous.

The members of the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club of Montreal, who are looking to have their annual cruise this season to the Thousand Islands, and they will be invited to bring their speedy boats on to Kingston for another day's racing.

The members of the Napanee Yacht Club will be invited to accompany the local fleet on the cruise to Gananoque for Dominion Day.

A very interesting season in yachting is expected, as the bulk of the new "eighteen footer," and the formation of the Eastern Yacht Racing circuit have awakened fresh interest in sailing.

Sporting Notes.

The Montreal Shamrocks play an exhibition game with the Crescents of Brooklyn in New York a week from Saturday.

On Friday night the Senior Baseball League's executive will meet and consider the league's management.

The Gananoque baseball team was defeated by the Ogdensburg nine, in the latter club's diamond, on Wednesday, by a score of six runs to nothing.

Corwall expects to be developing a lot of good, youthful material. "Joe" Lally says that, as a result, the factory will be the lacrosse centre of Canada in four years.

The lacrosse game between Capitals and Nationals next day should be a good one. Capitals is in better trim than when they met Corwall, and they have to win to remain in the race.

Henry Hoovin, of the Montreal Shamrocks, who for years was regarded as the cleverest home player in the country, will not be seen on the lacrosse field this season. His leg is troubling him.

The Queen's athletic committee met Wednesday afternoon, in the office of J. M. Corwall, to consider matters in connection with getting the track at the athletic grounds in shape for the intercollegiate track meet.

The California Jockey Club will be completed for valuable Futurity, says J. M. Corwall, who is in charge of the track. The San Francisco Jockey Club, the complete details have not yet been added, but the race is to have an added value of $5,000, so as to make it worth $10,000 to the winners.

London Free Press: Longboat is given credit for the statement in police court at Hamilton, that the proceeds of the Globe's educational fund subscription venture netted him a good drink, with a balance sufficient to pay his fine. And now the Toronto saloonkeepers are sore because he spent it in Hamilton. They, in company with their fellow-citizens, hated to see that money leave Toronto.

Adison G. Hnanis, the New York skipper who will sail the Seneca in the Canadian cup races, will not return to Rochester to visit the cup defender until two weeks before the time of the races, which will take place in August. Before he left after his visit Saturday, when he gave the yacht a spin, for examination, he said that members of the Rochester club might safely take the boat out for trials in fair weather, but not at all when there was a sea running. Hnanis left yesterday for considerable changing in the craft's rigging. Instead of the pinnace pole having a gaff it will have a brass band, and under his orders an American Ratsay mainsail is to be entirely altered.

MISSIONARY MEETING

ADDRESSES DELIVERED AT SYNOD HALL

By Jean Farthing and Rev. Canon Tucker, General Secretary of the M.S.C.C.—A Fine Service.

The rainstorm early last evening did not prevent a large attendance at the missionary meeting held in the Synod hall. Nearly every seat was occupied, and the meeting proved a most profitable one. The bishop was chairman, and seated on the platform with him were Dean Farthing, Canon Starr and Canon Tucker, D.C.L., general secretary, M.S.C.C. Canon Tucker and Dean Farthing gave inspiring addresses on missionary work.

The meeting was opened with the singing of the hymn, "From Greenland's Icy Mountains," and afterwards the bishop followed with a few remarks. He said that the rainstorm had not prevented a large attendance, which showed that the people did not mind getting wet, when it was necessary. The rain was being needed, and would do much good. He then called upon Dean Farthing.

In his opening remarks, the dean took occasion to congratulate the Women's Auxiliary, upon an excellent gathering held in the Synod hall two weeks ago. There had been heavy rains when these meetings were held, but this had not succeeded in placing a damper on the proceedings. The meetings were largely attended, and it had appeared as if the women could not float anywhere else in the rain but into the Synod hall. This last statement brought forth many smiles.

The missionary work of the church should be a national and patriotic movement. The church held the key of the spiritual power that could make a nation great. We could readily realize that we had many evils sufficient in strength, to cause us to be anxious. The church held the solution of the problem that confronted the churchmen and people. The church had a duty to perform for the nation. The speaker was a strong believer in foreign missions, but argued that the first to receive attention should be the North-West. The North-West should be the centre of our attack. Thousands of newcomers were settling in this new country every year, and if the church did her duty, she must concentrate missionary efforts in this country.

Continuing, Dean Farthing stated that much had been said during the two days of the synod about the increased cost of living. The cost of provisions and other necessities for the country clergy had increased a great deal within the past twenty years. It was pointed out that there were three clergymen in the Ontario diocese who were receiving less than $400 each per year. A man could not be secured to clean the streets of Kingston for that amount. The speaker had heard a complaint made about one of the clergy appearing shabby in appearance. How could the man keep from being shabby when he was not to clean his stable perhaps twice a day? It was desired that the clergy be up-to-date, and read the latest books, but some of these books cost as high as $5 each, and with such small salaries it was out of the question.

The duty rested upon the members of the Kingston churches to arouse themselves and prevent such grovelling treatment of the missionary. The people should be willing to put their shoulder to the wheel, and further the interests of the good cause. Another hymn was sung at the close of Dean Farthing's address, and later the offertory was taken up. Canon Tucker afterwards being called upon.

Canon Tucker said that the church itself was a missionary organization, and pointed out the need of missionaries in foreign lands, as well as in Japan there were great opportunities for the carrying on of the work. The province of Ontario had been referred to as the premier province. What was the meaning of this? It was not the meaning that instead of being the premier state it would be the empire state.

National life, in Canada, promised to be a great thing, if we chose to make it. It was not worth or the golden rule that made a country great, but it was the citizen and his life in the inward call to consecrate his life to God and His work. Citizenship had been the result of two thousand years of struggle of wars and rumors of wars. The blood of freedom was British citizens, and yet, Canada called themselves Canadians, with citizenship in their hearts. Canada could be found selling their honor for $10. The day under our flag, will not a man living under our flag, will not dare to do such a thing. Citizenship was a good thing, but good citizenship was the keynote. And how was it to be secured? By teaching the young of the Christian family.

Canon Tucker reviewed at length, missionary work being carried on in Cobalt, and said that the diocese was either too poor or too mean, to send an ordained man there. He also paid a high tribute to some of the great missionaries now dead, paying particular attention to the work of the McKenzie River diocese, who worked in the McKenzie River diocese.

The meeting was brought to a close with the singing of a hymn, and prayer.

The handiest remedy you can have in the house. Only 25c. at Wadsworth's drug store.

A Much Needed Rain.

It was feared that Kingston was again to get the go-by as regards rain, but enough clouds got together about seven o'clock to cause a very marked leakage. For a few minutes there was a light shower, but it was a couple of substantial down-pours followed, but all was over in half an hour. The rain, however, did much good. What was needed was ten hours fall.

Band Concert Postponed

There was to have been a concert in Macdonald park, last evening, by the 14th Regimental band, but the rain at seven o'clock brought the "weather permitting" clause in the notice into force, and the concert was postponed, much to the disappointment of the hundreds who had looked forward to the pleasant time on the lake shore park. However, the concert is still to be given. It will have marked the first of the season.

County Charitable Grants.

The county council has yet to make its grants to the charitable institutions. It is expected that increased will be made to the general hospital and the Hotel Dieu. The House of Providence will be put upon a basis similar to that of the House of Industry, so much a week being paid for each county inmate. The grand jury recommended an increase grant to the Infants' Home, which is a very great benefit to Frontenac.
