GIANT PHEASANTS EVOLVED.

Crosses Breeds And Produces Heavy Stock.

Hamburg, July 8.—Herz Carl Hagelbeck, the celebrated Hamburg dealer in wild animals and birds, says that he has produced a new breed of pheasants.

By cross-breeding between the European and Asiatic pheasants and a careful process of selection he has produced a stock that weighs three to four pounds heavier than the present European bird. More than 300 birds of the new breed have already been sent to Walter Rothschild at Tring, and more are to follow.

Herz Hagelbeck declares that in a few years the game of Europe will be revolutionized if his ideas are carried out.

IF BUSINESS IS POOR

Advertising will make it good. If business is good advertising will make it better. If your business is doing well advertise to keep it so. The other fellow is delighted when his competitor is a "dead one" and has it all figured out why he does not have to advertise. Doing business on reputation is like trying to collect a bill twice, because it was an honest bill.

The other fellow is just just as keen on making reputation as you are.

ENDS HIS LIFE

He Could Not Stand Constant Twitting

MADE A FAILURE

OF SCHEME TO BURN ASHES AS FUEL.

Altoona Physician Could Not Stand Joking Over His Backing of a Financial Venture Which Proved to be Really Only Ashes.

Altoona, Pa., July 8.—Being unable to stand the continual twittings of his friends about the failure of the scheme to make ashes burn, which he backed financially, Dr. H. K. Hoy, one of the best known homoeopathic physicians in the state and one of Altoona's wealthy men, committed suicide by swallowing the contents of a bottle of carbolic acid.

Dr. Hoy went into the bathroom and took the poison. Mrs. Hoy heard him fall and summoned assistance, but when the door was broken in her husband was lying dead on the floor, his hand clutching the empty bottle.

Dr. Hoy was fifty-eight years old, and had a fine practice as an eye and ear specialist. He accumulated a fair fortune and then invested in oil lands, which increased his wealth until he was worth about $250,000.

John Elemeney, an Altoona cobbler, started the company about six months ago by the announcement that he had discovered a process by which he could make ashes burn. Dr. Hoy, who had known Elemeney all his life, became interested in the invention, and for a half interest became the financial backer of the cobbler. It took only a short time for scientists to declare the scheme a failure.

Dr. Hoy did not mind the loss of the money, but he could not stand the ridicule of his friends. Letters were received from all over the country ridiculing him and he became morose and moody. He was unable to sleep recently, and had passed a sleepless night just before he took his life.

Dr. Hoy was the owner of several fine trotting horses. He leaves his widow and one married daughter.

London, July 8.—John Redmond, the Irish leader, in a speech at Battersea, denounced the Sinn Fein as cranks and sore heads. They were crying for the adoption of a new policy, but it was the old policy of discrediting and trying to destroy the nationalist party. The present parliament would not last more than a year and a half, and the next government would not have such a majority as the present one.

WHITE GIRL A SLAVE.

Has Been Forced To Work Since Childhood.

Richmond, Va., July 8.—It is almost beyond belief that in the enlightened commonwealth of Virginia a young Anglo-Saxon woman should come out of a country only a hour's ride from the city of Richmond with a startling story of abject slavery and penance since her childhood. The girl, who is generally known as the "white slave," answers to the name of Eleanor. Her case will soon be brought to a climax when Attorney Kelsey institutes a suit in her behalf against J. J. Cawley, a dairyman of Chesterfield county, in whose home the girl has spent the better portion of a laborious existence.

The plaintiff to the suit is now twenty-one years old. Her mother alleges that she was sold to Cawley when a child, for whom she was forced to work without compensation until the intervention of friends secured her release. The young woman is prepossessing in appearance and timid to a degree. She has large brown eyes, and an abundance of dark hair.

"OLD BLEACH" LINENS AND THEIR ADVANTAGES

Four reasons why "OLD BLEACH" are so much superior to any other linen goods.

- (1) They are made of Pure Flax, of the best quality.
- (2) Elaborate preparations are taken to ensure perfect weaving.
- (3) They undergo the tedious process of grass bleaching, as practiced by our forefathers, who relied not on strong chemicals, but on the generous rays of the sun to whiten their linen fabrics.
- (4) They are finished without a grain of starch by the special "Old Bleach" process, the only one which can produce the everlasting silky luster and beautiful soft feel so characteristic of "Old Bleach" linens. We offer them in
