A bishop of a more sentimental turn was recently staying with one of his country clergy. About the breakfast hour he heard the strains of "Rock of Ages" and remarked how sweetly the hymn sounded. Then said the reserve last hore "That was cook."

Eastern Outlook for a change the boys were marched to Kedleston Hall to attend service in the private chapel. The vicar, Hon. Alfred Curzon, was an ancestor of the present Lord Curzon. The clerk had a two-fold duty, the charge of the boys of the neighboring villages, who sat on forms on either side of the reading desk; armed with a long wand, during the reading of the service, if a youngster misbehaved, the clerk nobbled him. Another duty was to walk to a railed-in space at the west end of the church to give out the hymns; there instrumentalists were gathered to accompany.
