KATHLEEN LAUNCHED

THE PRETTY CRAFT SLID MOST GRACEFULLY

From the Ways Into the Water—Miss Harty Christened Her—There Was Great Gaiety at the Yacht Club House.

The launch of the eighteen-rater racing yacht Kathleen yesterday afternoon was a very gay event. Some time before four on Wednesday, people began to gather down to the wharf by way of Simpson street, groups came in from the Mattland street way, the amateur photographer displayed himself ubiquitously, on many a vantage point were perched men and girls to see all that was to be seen, and the old women and the small boy eyed with each other in sympathetic interest in the slim, black hulled little craft, Kingston's very own, which he to do battle for Kingston's supremacy on the waters hereabouts.

Calamities of The Past. On April 20th, 1853, the steamer Ocean Wave was destroyed by fire on her way from Kingston to Toronto.

On May 24th, 1857, the boiler of the propeller steamer, of Kingston, exploded as the vessel was backing out from Brown's wharf, Toronto, killing her entire crew, consisting of eleven men, and seriously injuring the only passenger, a young lady.

Had a Happy Time. Wednesday evening the employees at McKelvey & Birch celebrated the opening of the new building, erected in place of the one recently destroyed by fire. About fifty guests gathered to take part in the house-warming, which proved to be one of the best and most enjoyable parties of the season. The polished floor downstairs furnished ample space for the dancers, who tripped about to the strains of suitable music from Watson & Salisbury's orchestra. Upstairs those who preferred cards found tables daintily arranged for their accommodation. During the evening refreshments were served and it was early in the morning before the merry-makers were able to tear themselves away from the happy scene.

What Liment? When you have need of an external heating and pain-relieving remedy you should always get Smith's White Liment. It does all that any other liment can, does things that others cannot do, and does them all promptly and surely. Cures lumbago, neuralgia and rheumatism and any ache or injury. 25c., at Wade's drug store.

Called On The Staff. J. Herbert Higgins, of Pictou, and formerly a much-prized member of the Whig staff, dropped in on old friends on Wednesday and got an effusive welcome. The young ladies were happy in their looks after he went away.

Lotions and cold creams for sunburnt faces and arms are sold at Gibson's Red Cross drug store. Fresh to-day.

Some Old Time Papers. The Bee was the first newspaper in Kingston, appearing in 1851 from Rev. G. D. Greenleaf, editor, and proprietor. It was printed on a press of the owner's own construction, and continued two years, being succeeded by the Emporium, published by the same person. Its existence was extended but little over a year. The Standard, the third journal established at Kingston, besides the above, was a joint stock company, in the interest of the conservatives. Its first editor was Dr. McLean, formerly of Kingston. Subsequently, the paper came under the management of Alexander Campbell, and continued for a few years. It then passed into the hands of Alexander Henry, and expired about 1858.

The first newspaper published between Kingston and York was the Halfway Free Press, of demy size, the first number of which was issued December 29th, 1850, by Joseph Wilson, proprietor, of Belleville; W. A. Wells, editor, was from Utica, N. Y. Attention had been made at Cobourg, Port Hope, as well as at Hallowell, prior to this, to establish papers, prospectors having been acknowledged by the Kingston Gazette. A letter in the first number of the Free Press, signed "Reclus," says: "A number of attempts have been made to publish a journal in this county, but none have succeeded, subscriptions obtained to a considerable amount, and the expectations of the public wrought up to the highest degree, yet every attempt has proved abortive, except the present, repeated imposition has no doubt had a tendency to create in the public mind a spirit of indifference, and apathy respecting newspapers. Mr. Wilson's journal is published weekly, by the Kingston Gazette, although a very indifferent affair, it was used for a year, when Mr. Wilson procured an iron press from New York, probably the first iron printing press in the province. The Free Press was continued for five years, Mr. Wells was editor for a short time only. This journal was evidently intended for the public weal. No one can read the first issues without being convinced that the proprietor was intent upon rendering service to the public. He allowed himself to no party; contending political aspirants and names of the columns of the Press, and could thereby challenge unbiased attention. The Traveller, or Prince Edward Gazette, published every Friday by Cecil Mortimer, commenced April, 1857, and continued about four years, when the printing press was removed to Cobourg. In 1840, the Prince Edward Gazette appeared at Pictou; J. Dorman was publisher. It was discontinued by Rev. Mr. Plator. In 1847 and 1849, T. Donnelly became editor and proprietor, changing the name to the Pictou Gazette, which name it still bears. Mr. Donnelly was succeeded as editor in 1853 by Maurice Moore, and he again by S. M. Conger, in 1856, whose family continues to publish this old and popular journal. The Pictou Sun was established in 1841, by J. W. Douglas, who was succeeded in 1845 by J. McDonald, and he again, in 1849, by Mr. Striker, who removed it to Cobourg, in 1855. The following year Dr. Gillespie and R. Boyle commenced the Pictou Times, which still continues to thrive. The North American was removed from Newburgh in 1861, and published by McMillen & Co. until 1864, when it was removed to Kingston, 1866, but went the way of most newspaper fish.

The Anglo-Canadian, established in February, 1851, printed and published by Alexander W. Wilson, and edited by W. A. Wells, was the first paper published in Belleville. The Phoenix arose from the ashes of the Anglo-Canadian. It was first issued July, 1851, and published every Tuesday by T. Sillier, editor and proprietor. In one of the early copies is a prospectus of the Canadian Wesleyan; the subscribers to the announcement are H. Ryan and J. W. Douglas, proprietors. The name of the paper, issued July 18th, 1852, "is issued by W. A. Wells, for the proprietors," says: "As the present number completes the year, it is intended to give the paper a new name, which, though less classical, may be considered more appropriate."—The Hastings Times, published by J. Benedict.

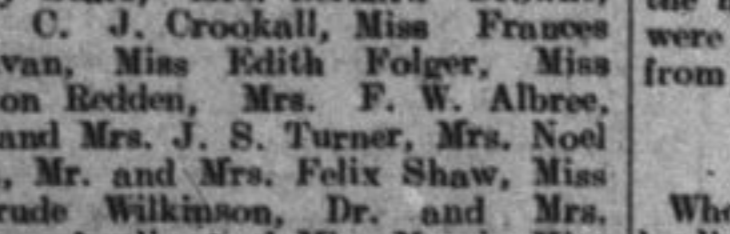

The Intelligence and News, was founded by George Benjamin, September, 1851. He continued as its editor until 1858, when Mackenzie Bowell, now Sir Mackenzie, succeeded him. He remained the proprietor, Mr. Benjamin was an Englishman, born 1799, and died 1864. He was a gentleman of more than ordinary ability, a consistent politician, and a true friend. He held the highest municipal office, and was M.P. from 1856 to 1863. The Victoria Chronicle was founded in 1841, by S. M. Washburn and J. Sutton, who removed from Brockville. Sutton remained partner for years. In 1849 the establishment was purchased from Washburn by E. Miles, who, with T. R. Mason, continued for a long time as proprietor. The name was changed from Victoria to Hastings Chronicle, still published in connection with the Daily Ontario, of Carman & Son.

This is a good town to learn history. It was made here for the past two centuries. The streets bear the names of famous men who once walked upon them.

If you had taken two of Carter's Little Liver Pills before retiring you would not have had that coated tongue or bad taste in the mouth this morning. Keep a vial with you for occasional use.

The laws and avenues about Queen's university are at their best about this time of year. Each summer sees an improvement in the appearance of the grounds and lawns as they are they will soon be able to compare favorably with those surrounding any public institution in the city.

GANANOQUE TIDINGS. A Burglar Seize Brought Many From Their Beds.

Gananoque, July 18.—Quite a commotion was caused, on Main street, opposite the International hotel, early yesterday morning. The home of Mrs. W. B. Fullerton was entered by some person, or persons, unknown, presumably with burglarious intent. The house is a stone one with a balcony in front, by which means entrance was gained. Mrs. Fullerton heard steps on the balcony, listened and heard them in the house. She called her daughter screamed for help and Robert Henderson, conductor on the Thousand Island railroad, living nearby, and Charles Macdonald, of Blinckton, were promptly on the scene, followed by dozens of others, but no one could be found. The police are on the lookout for suspicious characters.

Mrs. (Rev.) Edwin Triplett, of New York, accompanied by her daughter, have arrived to spend the season on Tremont Park with her mother, Mrs. Wilson. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest W. Kendall, of Guilford, are spending some time in town, the guests of Misses Macdonald's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson, corner King and Hickory streets.

"Rocklands," generally known as Fullerton's Island and now in possession of J. A. Janny, of New York, was opened up for the season, yesterday.

Frederick Pratt, who has been located in Delta, for some time past, and a former resident of the town, arrived last evening, to spend the summer. John Lash, Sr., River street, left yesterday, to spend the season at Chaffey's Locks, Mr. Colwell, of New York, is spending a few weeks' vacation in town with his sister, Mrs. Victoria Miranda. Miss Osborne, of Toronto, is spending a short time in town, the guests of the Misses May and Edith Rogers, Stone street.

Mr. B. Stevens, of Alexandria Bay, N.Y., spent, yesterday, with friends and relatives in town. Miss Annie Hughes, of New York, who has been spending the past two weeks on Tremont Park, the guest of Mrs. William Watson, at her summer residence, "Upton-Soveren," has returned home. Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McCann and son, of Watertown, N.Y., old residents of Gananoque, are spending a short time in town, guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Bishop, North street, and Herbert De Witta, of Toronto, arrived in town, yesterday, having been summoned to the bedside of his father, Jacob De Witta, Stone street, who is in a very critical condition. The steamer Brockville brought up a well-attended excursion from Brockville, yesterday afternoon, it being the regular excursion to the Granite Falls, arriving at five o'clock and leaving about 7.30.
