RING WORM AND DANDRUFF.

They Are Each Caused by a Parasitic Germ.

Ring worm and dandruff are some what similar in their origin; each is caused by a parasite. The germ that causes dandruff digs to the root of the hair, and saps its vitality, causing falling hair and finally baldness. Without dandruff there would never be baldness, and to cure dandruff it is necessary to kill the germ. There has been no hair preparation that would do this until the discovery of Newbro's Herpicide, which positively kills the dandruff germ, allays itching instantly and makes hair glossy and soft as silk. Take no substitutes. There is nothing "just as good." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Two sizes, 50c. and $1. G. W. Mahood, special agent.

METEOR FELL INTO LAKE.

Man Saw it During a Thunder-storm.

Oswego, July 31.—During a thunder storm on Lake Ontario, according to the report of S. W. Calthrop, who arrived here in a motor boat shortly after the storm, a large mass of some heavy substance shot out of the sky and buried itself in the water at some distance from his boat. He was unable to describe the object.

TORMENTERS TURNED

And Made to Feel Very Small After Their Many Pranks.

An American Avenged the Onslaught Made by Giddy Guys Upon Foreigners—A Jew Proved a Good Samaritan to an Englishman.

A Jew and an Englishman fighting side by side!

That was the rare spectacle witnessed by citizens the other evening, and at that the Jew was there to hand it out and took the initiative which gave the Englishman the necessary nerve to follow suit.

Four well-known citizens were out on a time. They approached the ferry which at the foot of Clarence street and there found the newly-arrived representative from the old sod and the German Jew. They were following in Isank Walton's tracks. This seemed to tickle the local representatives who, immediately, started throwing stones into the water. Any fish that had not already been scared away certainly sought shelter when the last boulder struck the surface, for it was of no mean size. Calmly the anglers took in his line and walked away. Then the four stopped their childish amusement, which tempted John Bull's offspring to ask why they did not continue. To the shame of the tormenters, they turned about and pounded the immigrants.

This is where another Jew came along. He saw the Englishman in distress and proved a good Samaritan. This aroused the ire of the four heroes and they turned upon the rescued and the rescuer. The Hebrew ran to the Western house, where he happened to be staying. But no further, for, at last, the tide was to turn. No sooner were the pursuers inside the hotel than another row started, and another Jew, arrived, this time, and with a fairly strong stake, took a hand in the game. He went after the tormenters

TROOPS SENT IN.

Unrest Due to Poor Pay and Bad Service.

Belfast, July 31.—The failure to reach a settlement of the industrial trouble and the unrest among the police, have caused the government to decide to concentrate a large military force in this city. The Cameron Highlanders, with a machine gun, and other regiments arrived, yesterday, and others are due to arrive today, when the garrison will number 6,000 men. An official enquiry shows that the discontent of the Belfast police is largely shared by the Royal Irish Constabulary throughout the country. It is not political, but is due to dissatisfaction with the pay and condition of service.

HE IS DYING

A Notorious Criminal Nearing End.

HE DID BIG THINGS

HIS ROBBERIES WERE OF UNUSUAL MAGNITUDE.

He is Now Poverty Stricken—Shang Draper's Record—He is Suspected of Having Stolen Millions in His Career.

New York, July 31.—Of the thousands who read that Shang Draper was dying at Mountain Valley, near Hot Springs, Ark., many were not interested in Tom Byrnes, formerly inspector of police, who won a good part of his fame as detective by establishing Draper's connection with perhaps the biggest criminal job ever pulled off in New York—the $3,000,000 Manhattan Bank robbery.

Once upon a time Draper was a chief among those of the underworld, a man whose influence seemed to be unlimited. He made g fortunes, which he afterwards lost, and it is said he is now next to poverty. He is more than sixty years old. Broken in health, and having lost that cunning which enabled him for a long time to baffle the shrewdest detectives in the country, he long ago quit his criminal life and directed his energies to fighting off death.

Draper is the last of a gang that was once known to the police all over the world. For a long time Jimmie Hope, the leading spirit of the Manhattan Bank robbery, was the head of the organization. Associated with him and Draper were Red Leary, Big Frank McCoy, Billy Porter and others of unusual daring.

A story about Draper which has been kept quiet as the other secrets of the most secretive fraternal organizations in the world tells of his deception of the Masonic order. Everybody knew Shang Draper, but few recognized him under his real name of Thomas Draper. He got into a Masonic lodge and might have been secure there had not further investigation, made when he attempted to get another step higher in the fraternity, disclosed his real identity as the world-famous crook.

The grand master of the Masons seized the charter of the lodge in which he had held membership, and, with the usual formalities somewhat abridged, he was expelled. His friends say that when he went into the Masons he had resolved to reform and that action was a part of his general scheme toward carrying out his idea.

The Manhattan Bank robbery was pulled off in 1878. Two years previous Draper and others by torturing the cashier of a bank in Northampton, Mass., learned the combination of the safe, and got away with more than $1,000,000. Strangely, Draper was never prosecuted, though others of the gang were. Later his connection with a long series of robberies in Brooklyn was practically established, but again he escaped punishment. Then came the Manhattan Bank robbery, so noted in criminal history.

For a long time Draper had been a notorious London gambler. Byrnes got one of his gang drunk, and learned the facts from him, but till then the police had worked for many months, seemingly with no clues. Only two years ago Byrnes declared that someone had charge of $2,716,700 of the government bonds taken from the Manhattan Bank twenty-six years before. These bonds were in the possession of old Jimmie Hope, who had kept them hidden in the basement of a house in Brooklyn, but again he escaped them. He kept them until he died two or three years ago, and his family turned them over to the bank.

WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY.

The Man Who Invented the System.

William Marconi, noted as the practical developer of wireless telegraphy, was born at Bologna, Italy, on April 27th, 1874. Marconi was educated at Leghorno, Italy, and later attended the University of Bologna. He began in 1890 on his father's country place to study seriously the problem of wireless communication with electrical energy. Five years later he interested Sir William H. Preece, the head of the English Postal Telegraph department, and messages were sent from Queen Victoria's yacht to the shore.

His success was assured after this and in 1899 Marconi visited the United States. He established wireless communication across the Atlantic in 1902. On March 16th, 1905, he married the Hon. Beatrice O'Brien. The Marconi home is in Bologna.

All-cream ice cream, in bricks, any flavor, delivered at any hour, at Price's.

and drove them along the street, in one door of the Anglo-American hotel and out the other, and made them seek refuge in another nearby hotel.

But though safe from danger now, the quartette had to run their necks into the noose once more, but this time they met their Waterloo for keeps. In the meantime one of the party had occupied his spare time in another blow with a German, and stalled him, too far. Apparently it was fight they wanted—with the odds unmistakably in their favor, of course—and light they got. One little stroke too many and the Yankee wheeled about and to in the corner at the other end of the bar room. One, two, three, and the others were down and out, for the quiet chap, with the American accent, could deliver the goods as required. It was a sight for sore eyes to see the four carrying one another out of that room. They had got theirs and no mistake. Unknowingly the stranger had revengeed the foreigners.

The aftermath of the whole affair was a police court case this morning. The four men, William Gilley, Frank Morrison, George Horton and John Mackey, were charged with assaulting Theodore Funka and Edward Ashworth, a German. All entered a plea of "not guilty."

JAPAN REFUSED OFFER.

Failed to Make Island Kingdom Come to Terms.

Washington, July 31.—Efforts to negotiate a protocol between the United States and Japan, whereby Japan would accept the principle of cooie exclusion in return for the privilege of naturalization of Japanese now in the United States and hereafter to be admitted, have failed. It is guardedly admitted here that the attempts to induce Japan to give more definite and unreserved countenance to the exclusion policy have been fruitless.

Eclipsed Speed Required.

Kiel, July 31.—"G. 137," a new German torpedo boat, had its first speed trial at Eckernförde Bay, yesterday, and developed a speed of thirty-two knots, as against thirty knots, called for in her contract.

KOREAN ARMY TO BE DISBANDED

Believed That This Will be Powerful Means of Restoring Order.

Seoul, Korea, July 31.—The strong hand of Japanese military force has finally put an end to rioting in Seoul. The Japanese had a hard fight and considerable damage was done in rioting. There is still uneasiness and it is doubtful if order can be permanently maintained until the arrival of the reinforcements now on the way.

Outside Seoul it is vaguely rumored there have been serious disturbances.

PASTOR MARRIED ON TRAIN.

Hanlet, Ind., July 31.—Word was received here of the marriage on a road train in Kansas of Rev. G. M. Veach, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church here, to Mrs. Mary Jarrett, a wealthy Winamac woman. Mrs. Jarrett boarded the train on which the clergyman was, at Wymora, Col., where Mr. Veach telegraphed to the next station for a clergyman to get aboard. After the Kansas line had been crossed the ceremony was performed in the presence of several score of passengers. Mr. and Mrs. Veach are touring the west on their honeymoon.

MRS. MARACLE KILLED.

In a Runaway on Tuesday Last.

Napanee, July 31.—Yesterday afternoon a runaway with fatal results, occurred about three miles from Napanee. Gilbert Maracle, with his wife and two other women, were returning to town from an excursion for berries, when the horse became unmanageable and ran away, throwing the occupants out. Mrs. Maracle, aged about sixty-five years, was thrown on her head, and instantly killed. The other occupants were more or less injured, but not seriously. Mr. Maracle is badly shaken up and the extent of his injuries cannot be determined. Coroner Cowan was called out, but deemed an inquest not necessary.

PITCHED BATTLE AT SERES.

Athens, July 30.—There has been a pitched battle between Turkish troops, supported by Bashi Bazuks, and a small band of Greek insurgents, who had entrenched themselves in a house on the outskirts of Seres, Turkey, fifty miles north-east of Salonika. The band was completely wiped out, secured in capturing the miniature fortress. During the fighting the Bashi Bazuks pillaged more than a hundred houses and burned a number of Greek buildings in Seres.

NO MISUNDERSTANDING.

London, July 31.—The Swettenham incident has again been brought before the public by a letter in the Times from Sir Frank Swettenham, brother of the ex-governor of Jamaica, giving a consecutive account of the whole story. In the letter sent by Admiral Davis to the mayor of Kingston in reply to the latter's apology for Governor Swettenham's action, Admiral Davis says: "I am particularly anxious to remove the impression that there has been any misunderstanding between myself and the constituted authority of Jamaica." This letter is now published for the first time.

WERE NOT INDIFFERENT

The Canadians Help Naval Defence in Their Own Kind of Way.

London, July 31.—In the House of Lords, yesterday, Lord Brassey called attention to the proceedings at the imperial conference respecting naval questions. He said the country had heard with satisfaction the government's assurance that the "All-Red" route would receive careful consideration. Baron Tweedmouth said he thought that the conference had gone in a long way towards coming to an arrangement with the colonies regarding naval defence. He gave the details of the colonial contributions to the navy, and he declared, it was unfair to say that the home government had been indifferent to the colonies. The case of Canada was different from that of other colonies. Canada had always refused to contribute directly to the cost of the navy, though now it had taken over certain docks and harbours which would be of great service. Lord Tweedmouth regretted that the Canadian government could not see its way to becoming more active in the matter of naval defence, but the dominion had its own views, and the line taken by the home government was that it was for the colonies to decide in what way they should help. Dealing with the general policy, Lord Tweedmouth said that the admiralty had in view a new extended cruiser construction policy.
