Fire at Lansdowne.
 Lansdowne, Aug. 6.—About eleven o'clock last night, the store owned by H. S. Morrill, and occupied by S. DeWolfe, milliner; A. W. Latimer, general merchant; and F. Latour, shoemaker, was discovered to be on fire. The fire made rapid progress, but by hard work was confined to the one building, although burning might have been flying in all directions. Most of Mr. Latour's goods were removed, but the rest was a complete loss. Latimer has $1,500 insurance which will not helpfully cover his loss. The fire is believed to have started in the millinery section, though its origin is a mystery. The lack of even the simplest fire fighting apparatus was woefully apparent. Perhaps now some action will be taken towards providing some fire protection.

IT WAS IDENTICAL

KING AND PREMIER HAD A DIFFERENCE.

Campbell-Bannerman Was Insistent However, and Carried His Point.
 London, Aug. 7.—King Edward and Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman have been at odds recently over a matter which, while not very important in itself, was regarded as of considerable moment by both his majesty and the liberal premier. It was the question of royal household past changes in the royal household had been impending, and there was a good deal of gossip as to the reasons why the announcement of the new appointments, which were made only this week, were so long delayed. It was generally supposed that the reason for the delay was the difficulty in finding a peer for the post of lord steward of the household, this appointment being a political one and always going to a nobleman attached to the party which happens to be in power. Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman had his candidate selected long ago, but it so happened that the king also had a candidate, and, as his majesty's post, there was a clash. King Edward was stubborn, so was Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman. The king said he would leave the post vacant, and the premier would not budge an inch from his uncompromising attitude.

The king wanted to appoint Lord Farquhar to the post. "C.B." had no objection, whatever, personally, to Lord Farquhar, but the appointment was a political one, and a political one it should remain. Mr. Gladstone had had to hold out against Queen Victoria in a somewhat similar matter, and it was even more difficult to disregard the wishes of a woman. The party in power has always jealously guarded its prerogatives in the matter of court preferment. "C.B." did not mean to create a precedent which might be used by a monarch less careful of his constitutional role than the present king.

In the end the premier won the day, and this week Lord Bannerman was gazetted lord steward of the household. To King Edward's credit it must be said that whatever political preferences he may have as between liberal and conservatives, he never allows them to appear, and his instance was the entirely personal, not political, reasons.

Personal Paragraphs.
 Napawa, Aug. 7.—Edwin Giroux, eldest son of A. Giroux, night operator at the G.T.R. station, met with quite an accident on Monday evening. Trying to change the trolley in the electric line, that he had picked up from older boys before the holidays, and the staff exploded, blowing the end of his thumb and fore finger off. The doctor had to amputate the disabled fingers at the joints.

J. J. Johnston, Toronto, spent a few days this week with his family in town. A. D. McKenna and daughter, Mrs. Bessie, are spending a few weeks in town. Mr. Melrose came over from New York, where he has spent the past few months, to dispose of his household effects. He is a young man, and in his collection of books, lamps for reading "traps" is an outburst of university radicalism; is called, because the authorities of Christ Church, Oxford, refused permission to the university to go to the Duke of Marlborough's coming-of-age ball at Blenheim.

Whitney's Brother in All Else An Independent.
 Toronto News.
 There are three brothers in the Whitney family. All are prominent figures in public life, and each represents a different phase of political faith.

Hon. J. P. Whitney, prime minister of Ontario, is a conservative.

Alfred Whitney is a pronounced liberal and ex-president of the Liberal Association.

E. C. Whitney declares to The News that he is an independent, heretofore with liberal leanings, now "supporting J. P."

The latter, one of the lumbermen of the province, is registered at the Queen's.

Speaking to The News on the question of the exporting of pulpwood, he remarked:

"I would not prevent it because I do not believe in any policy of that kind. I believe in the freest possible conditions of trade. If I believed in such policy at all, I would certainly put it into force against our neighbors to the south on account of the tariff policy that country has maintained against us."

"You do not adhere to one of the main principles of the conservative party, then?" observed The News.

"No, I do not, for I am not a conservative. I support J. P., but I am an independent in my views on political matters, and I will favor and oppose what appeals to my own judgment."

A CAREER OF FRAUD

ADVENTURES GATHERED IN BY POLICE.

She Confessed Her Identity and Admitted Passing Worthless Cheques on Various U. S. Hotel Men.

Toronto, Aug. 6.—Ella Strangways, the English adventuress, wanted in New York on a charge of grand larceny and also in Montreal, where she is better known as Mrs. Eva Fox-Strangways, was arrested in this city, Sunday. From confessions made after the arrest, and from documents and papers found on her, it would appear that the operations of Miss Strangways, while not on an extensive scale, have been conducted with fully as much skill, daring and finesse as the financial schemes of the famous Casse Chadwick.

New York hotels, modistes and tradespeople generally, were fleeced to the extent of nearly $20,000 by the smooth-talking, proceeding, John W. Strangways, brother of Ella, who is the author of notes, in both American and Australian, were taken in completely and seemed proud of her acquaintance.

A batch of full calling cards, some bearing very well-known names, were found among her belongings.

She has admitted her identity and the swaying extradition proceedings will go back to New York, with an officer, who is now on his way for her.

The Toronto police received word of her arrival here some two weeks ago. Since that time they have been busy looking for her. Acting on information received from a source which the police do not care to divulge, she was traced to a boarding house in this city; the location of which is withheld. It was learned that she had been at the house for two weeks, going under the name of Miss Margaret Sinclair.

The arrest was made by Detective Mackay and Constable Wilson, Sunday afternoon. The two officers went quietly about the business and did not allow the other occupants of the house any intimation as to what their business was. They were shown into the room of "Miss Sinclair," by the lady of the house.

The woman first denied the charge completely. She maintained that her name was Sinclair, but she pressed for further details as to her home occupation and business in Toronto she soon weakened and finally gave up confessing her identity. Her arrest was then effected quietly and she was taken to Inspector Duncan's office, where she gave details of her life and previous history.

Among other matters, she admitted having got away from the other side after settling hotel bills by worthless cheques for the following amounts: Park Avenue hotel, New York, $60; Holland hotel, New York, $250; Savoy hotel, New York, $75; Bellevue hotel, Philadelphia, $75; in the form of a cheque on the Bank of England; Gladstone Apartments, Philadelphia, $50; Manhattan hotel, New York, three years ago; $200; in the form of a check on the hotel bills, trades bills, etc., in the neighborhood of $1,750.

Other statements made by the prisoner were to the effect that she was "lying low." She had intended to stay here for a short time only.

Previous to her arrival here she was very low in funds. This was evidenced in letters which were written to her at about that period and which the police have secured.

Miss Strangways had during the course of her career made numerous acquaintances among the "elite" of New York four hundred. Calling cards found among her possessions prove this.

Among the titled persons who have left their cards with this versatile wanderer are Sir Malcolm McEachern and Lady McEachern, of Gotham, Stadel Park Row Road, Melbourne, Australia; His Grace the Duke of Algonquin, of no stated address; Lady Williams, no address; Lady Victoria Lambton and Miss Alice Lambton.

The New Yorkers of note whose cards appear in the collection include the following: Mrs. Ward, G. McAllister, 603 Madison avenue; Miss Lyons, 132 Washington street, Newark; and Miss Ethel Guston, 245 Sixth street. Miss Mackay, 77 Madison street; John W. Schley, 311 Fifth avenue; Benjamin A. Gould, 152 Madison avenue; and Mrs. J. Parker Whitney.

FIFTY HUMAN SKELETONS.

Found in Pit on South Dakota Railroad.

Sibon Falls, S.D., Aug. 7.—Skeletons were being found in a gravel pit from which the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad company is obtaining ballast for its extension through western South Dakota, from the Missouri river to the Black Hills. The gravel pit is situated on the eastern end of the extension, near the town of Tacoma, and but a short distance from the Missouri river. In the neighborhood of fifty human skeletons have thus far been unearthed.

Most of them were found at a depth of from four to eight feet beneath the surface, and all were buried in either a standing or sitting posture. The majority of the skeletons are those of people of a small stature, much below the ordinary or average height of the present North American Indians.

One skeleton, however, is that of a man who in life must have been fully seven feet in height. In close proximity to the skeleton of this giant were found implements of copper and bone, these being found in the same grave as that of the giant, while in another grave was discovered a copper idol about eight inches in length.

REV. C. W. CASSON, OTTAWA.
 Unitarian.
 In the Splendor of Strength.

What is better than strength? What religion is better than that which makes the soul strong? Insofar as religion tends to make one weak and submissive and dependent, it cannot give the splendor of strength. Healthy religion ever makes strong. It is the truest test of reality. Strength of soul is the most splendid contribution that religion can make to life, and if it does not, it is counterfeit. It is artificial and unreal. Show me the strong soul, and I will show you the one whose religion is most real and true.

Address, Mr. Casson for free literature.
