KINGSTON, THE CITY OF THE DEAD.

(We mean Kingston, Jamaica), but Kingston, Canada, is practically dead, as far as push and energy is concerned.

Twenty thousand people when it should be a hundred, with all its natural advantages, But contracted officials, who make by-laws to thwart the best interest of the ratepayers, with their brainless ideas will never boom it. Our advice (if you' cannot do better) is to import some good shrewd Americans, pay them decently, bury the dead men, give everyone who comes to your city, on the market or elsewhere, who are willing to pay for the privilege, a chance to do business without fear or favor.

Then a blessing will come instead of a curse, and EDWARD'S NERVINE will have a sale it never had before. Gibson's Red Cross Drug Store and at all Druggists, or direct from the ED-
