COMMERCIAL MATTERS.

What is Going on in the Business World—The Markets.

A New York Stock Exchange sent was sold last week for $71,500, as compared with $72,000 a short time ago. The output of the Crows' nest collieries for the week ending August 19th, was 25,725 tons, a decrease of 3,799 tons.

Grand Trunk Railway system's traffic earnings, from August 2nd to 14th, 1907, $1,200,912; 1906, $1,044,512; increase, $156,400.

A Canadian Associated cable from London says that a company named Brussels Societe Generale Enterprises in Canada has been floated, with a capital of $2,500,000 francs.

Exportation of butter is an immense business in Australia, and the colony's trade with Great Britain alone is of immense proportions, amounting in a year to something over $1,000,000.

Saturday's Ontario Gazette announces the incorporation of two mining companies with a combined capitalization of $5,000,000, and eight industrial companies whose total capital reaches $481,000.

The Ontario government has purchased twenty-five heavy American locomotives to be used on the better grades of the state railways. They are found to give better service than the English or German engines.

The new $400,000 coal-mining plant at Durham has been completed by the Ontario government. Its completion marks another step in the work, probably as well equipped as any south of the equator.

The Ontario victory has given authority for the forming of a commercial company for the working of the various coal deposits in the different parts of the province. Agreements are now being made with the owners of the coal fields. A number of Baltimoreans are interested in a company which will operate in the South, with headquarters at New Orleans, and which has had patented a process by which resin, waste oil and turpentine may be extracted from the waste pine.

HEAD IS MISSING

HE HAS BEEN GONE OVER FIFTEEN MONTHS.

Gave His Books to a Mate at School and Disappeared—The Family Are Greatly Distressed Over Absence.

On May 23rd, 1906, Wallace Collins, a sixteen-year-old boy, of Seely's Bay, attended his classes at the village school as usual. That evening he gave his books to a schoolmate to take home for him, and disappeared as completely and mysteriously as if the earth had opened up and swallowed him. His parents and friends were grief-stricken. At first they thought the boy had gone some-where to spend the holiday that fell on the day following his departure. But days grew into weeks, weeks into months, and a year dragged by, and no word of the lost boy ever came to the quiet little cottage home, where before all had been peace and happiness. A year and three months have now elapsed, but the search has not been given up. Hope still burns bright in the hearts of the sorrowing parents, who believe that some glad day will see their much-loved boy restored to them.

No motive for his disappearance could ever be found or imagined. He was a bright pupil at school, a favorite with teacher and playmate alike. On his father's broad acres he had done a little muscle and brain, and although but sixteen years old when he disappeared, was a solidly-built, husky lad. He was a boy of a quiet, retiring disposition, never given to talking about his own affairs, much less those of others. His nervousness would probably explain his action in going away without a word to anyone—for he did not even hint to his companions that he had a desire to travel. The parents were told that someone had seen him in the vicinity of Ganouaque the day after his disappearance. A friend who visited a psychologist in Buffalo, was told that the boy had adopted another name (which, by the way, was his mother's maiden name), that he had gone to New York, thence to San Francisco, and had enlisted there as a seaman on board a United States warship on route to the Philippine Islands. All efforts to secure a trace of his whereabouts have proved futile. If he could but realize the deep sorrow that his mother, his father and his friends, he would not long hesitate, if living, to send them the word of hope so long awaited.

PERSONAL MENTION.

DR. MACLEAN DEAD

PROMINENT PHYSICIAN OF SALT LAKE CITY.

Dr. Maclean had an innate dislike to newspaper notoriety and his wishes in regard to his funeral were disregarded. The Salt Lake Tribune gives a brief outline of his career, an active one while health permitted. It declares that he was a worthy representative of the noble families of Dringmen, Lochauy, and Argyle, to which he belonged, being the fifth son of the late Charles Maclean, Kingston, and Jane Campbell Maclean, who still survives. "He was a true, stalwart, out-spoken man," says the Tribune, "a sturdy, vigorous denouncer of lawlessness and vice and will be much missed and regretted in Salt Lake. The sympathy of the entire community goes out to his widow, Susan Mariner Maclean, and his only daughter, Miss Aileen. He himself was loved, revered and respected. Two bright, lovable boys died some years ago." The funeral services were conducted by Rev. R. Stephenson, an intimate friend of the family, and though intended to be private, the cortege was large and representative.

Dr. A. C. Maclean was born near Kingston, June 22nd, 1855. He graduated from the University of Michigan in 1877. There he studied under his older brother, the late Dr. Donald Maclean, M.D., who occupied the chair of surgery at Ann Arbor for eighteen years. Upon his graduation Dr. A. C. Maclean was given a position as house surgeon in the University Hospital at Ann Arbor. A few years later he was appointed medical director of the famous "Iron Silver Mine" at Leadville, Col. He held the two positions for about eight years, then moved to Salt Lake City in 1888. For eight years he worked hard and built up a large practice, his energy causing him to overwork himself; this, and the injury to his spine seven years ago, obliged him to give up part of his practice, but he did not fully withdraw from the medical work until 1904. Since that time his health has been gradually failing, the nervous system becoming more and more affected and his sufferings increasing. The solicitude and sympathy of Dr. A. M. Maclean, the only surviving brother of six, left nothing undone for the comfort of the invalid. The two brothers were devoted to each other from infancy.

A GREAT RAILWAY ROBBERY.

Registered Letter Pouches Were Carried Off.

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 21.—The biggest robbery of the mail ever pulled off occurred between Denver and Omaha, last Thursday night, when three through registered pouches, two of which contained $250,000, were stolen from the Burlington railway fast mail train between Denver and Chicago. Although the robbery occurred on Thursday night, only now has the news leaked out. To-day every postal inspector and secret service man in the entire west is working on the case.

Stabbed Old Commander.

Victoria, Mo., Aug. 21.—Capt. S. J. Waters, commander of the 2nd Iowa Infantry, Whitehead Post, G.A.R., here, with an old musket and bayonet, last night, stabbed to death the former commander, George Patton, following a quarrel over the arrangements for the veterans' annual picnic. The stabbing took place in the post hall, and Waters grasped the musket with which he slew his comrade from the wall. It was a civil war relic.

Fire At South Mountain.

Brockville, Ont., Aug. 21.—Fire completely destroyed the dwelling occupied by George Barry, of South Mountain. The blaze originated from the stovepipe in the kitchen, and spread so rapidly that nothing could be done to save the building. A considerable portion of the contents were rescued. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

International Not In It.

Watertown, N.Y., Aug. 21.—Anson R. Flower, director and member of the finance committee of the International Paper company, says there is absolutely no foundation for the report that the International Paper company is backing the movement to consolidate the western paper mills. The International Paper has no mills west of Niagara Falls.

Wouldn't Use Lash.

Wilmington, Del., Aug. 21.—Disproof of the Delaware whipping post, declaring that it is a failure, and refusing to further lash prisoners, Anson S. Merve, warden of the Newcastle county workhouse, now here, and one of the leading criminologists of the country, has resigned.

Suffers From Typhoid Fever.

Harold A. Craig, of the Merchants Bank staff, Yarker, was brought in on the Bay of Quinte railway this morning, and was removed to the hospital in R. J. Reid's ambulance. The young man contracted typhoid fever a few days ago, and Dr. McQuaid brought him to the city for treatment. Several cases of typhoid have developed in Yarker during the past couple of weeks, due to the bad water.

Eager For The Results.

School Inspector Kild had been enquiring about the marks received by candidates in the departmental examinations. The inspector says that he does not receive a report of these examinations, but that they are handed to Principal Ellis, of the Collegiate Institute.

Are You Good Figher?

The battle for commercial success may be closely compared to a prize fight. It is a round in the battle of trade conditions offering opportunity for you to treat your forces. It is a contest in which you can win. It is a contest in which you can lose. It is a contest in which you can succeed. It is a contest in which you can fail. It is a contest in which you can be a champion. It is a contest in which you can be a loser. It is a contest in which you can be a winner. It is a contest in which you can be a loser. It is a contest in which you can be a winner.
