Rheumatism

I have found a relief and cure for Rheumatism. It is a remedy that will strengthen the weakened limbs of chronic cases, but will keep the joints back to their normal position. It is impossible to tell you how much relief it has given me. I have been suffering from Rheumatism for many years, and have tried every remedy known to me. I have found that Corbett's Rheumatism Remedy is the only one that has given me relief. It is a simple, natural remedy, and is the only one that has given me relief. It is a simple, natural remedy, and is the only one that has given me relief.

THE TALK OF LONDON.

The Brantford Courier is necessarily concerned about the liberal party in Ontario. It feels the loss of Mr. Graham, who surprised friends and foes alike by his splendid leadership. But the party will not be long without some one to take his place. There is no telling what men can do until they are tried, and the liberal party in Ontario will produce the leader when its representatives in the legislature have a meeting and the opportunity is given to express a choice.

The liberals have never passed through the straits of the conservative party in this respect. How many leaders did it try in Ontario before it succeeded? Marthew Crooks Cameron struggled for years against all sorts of discouragements, and accepted a judgeship finally as an escape from political turmoil. His successor, Mr. Meredith, was a brilliant man until by a couple of defeats in general elections he lost heart, and the party cursed his misfortunes. Mr. Carter appeared to be the salvation of the party for a season, but his was a very short reign. Then appeared the great Mr. Whitney who had his period of depression and his experience with a disatisfied following.

Mr. Graham has the pleasure of knowing that he was appreciated, and because of his good management. Sir Wilfrid Laurier called him to a sphere of wider activity. When the local house meets the opposition will select a new leader, and when there is a general election the liberals will have a larger number to represent them in the assembly. That is fully acknowledged by even the conservative press, though it does not admit that defeat is yet starting Mr. Whitney in the face. The outlook is, however, more promising for the liberals than it was for the conservatives in many a conflict.

WILL IT PASS AWAY?

Time was when the offender demanded to be tried by jury of his peers. The assumption was that he would receive fair play at their hands, that they would have a fellow feeling, and at the same time be influenced by exalted motives in deciding upon his case.

A great jurist, no other than Mr. Bryce, the American ambassador to the United States, declares that confidence in the wisdom of the jury, in civil actions, is waning, and that the tendency has been to narrow the sphere of its employment. He does not say why this is, and the reason can only be inferred. The civil action is sometimes the result of a misunderstanding which has to do with rare complication in business, and the correct analysis of the evidence can only be successfully accomplished by experts. A jury of trained men, skilled in the arts and devices of the business under discussion, would be necessary in order that the judgment might be reasonably accepted. Failing to get that the parties to a cause prefer to leave the issue to the judge.

It is to be feared, too, that the sympathies of the jurymen are sometimes invited, and not in vain. They are influenced more, of course, in the case of a criminal prosecution, and it is evident that the result may be erroneously effective against the prisoner as well as for him. It may be to correct this misplacement of judgment that the criminal court of appeal has been established in England, and that recourse may be made for the review of a case when the trial judge favourably reports in that direction.

Men sworn to do their duty, without fear, favour or affection, can be depended on to do it without hesitation, but they are human, and may, under peculiarly affecting conditions, not see some things as others view them, and still be honestly and sincerely desirous of righteous service. Whatever the reason the jury system is not, as Mr. Bryce alleges, "the bulwark of freedom," which it once was, and sooner or later, like so many other things, it may pass away.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

What awful strain is now resting on the water department that the superintendent cannot lift his eyes off it for a few days?

What is the Ontario government selling its pine timber for when it is not hard up and regards the limits as a valuable asset?

Toronto is pining for a world's fair. It had better be satisfied with what it has. Who ever heard of a world's fair making money?

Mr. Borden says he has, among his associates as good, if not better men for cabinet making than Sir

Witful Laurier. They include Foster, Fowler & Co.

Some of the veterans who hold land in New Ontario have been strangely excited by the news of gold finds in the vicinity. The vein had better keep a firm grip on their possessions.

Mr. Bergeron advises the Montreal labor men not to bother about strikes, conciliation courts but "to put into power a party which will give them what they want." What awful rot!

The Toronto World questions whether the railways should be allowed to run excursion trains which are not adequately equipped and manned. What says the railway commissioner?

All the teachers in separate schools, who went up for special examination during the summer, have passed, and with a record, says the Catholic Register, which is "hardly likely to be excelled."

There is a new and louder call for the continuation classes in this city. They would certainly be a great boon to the poor man's children. They would be in connection with the public schools and free.

The board of works seems to be drifting into a state of complete helplessness. Perhaps if it gave the engineer a chance to use his judgment and do things as he wants something might be accomplished.

The Syracuse Post-Standard describes the manner in which the American fishermen, with motor boats, have been clearing the river of pickerel. Fishing, for the sport of it, seems to be almost a thing of the past.

Brookville has been represented in the assembly by D. Derbyshire, and in the assembly by G. P. Graham. How would it do to change places? George going to Ottawa and Dan to Toronto? Brookville cannot do without either.

The torics are breathing easier at Halifax, now that the scandal incident to the candidature of E. L. Borden, and J. O. Mullen have been suppressed for the time being. They paid the expenses of the witnesses, who were called and not heard.

The rate on municipal debentures to the buyer, not the seller is still rising. Much of the money now on special deposit would be invested in municipal debentures if they were in smaller denominations. The $1,000 debenture is the rich man's security.

The Ontario bureau of agriculture estimates the yield of grain to be less in value by $12,000,000 than that of last year's crop. There is a great gap between that figure and $80,000,000, in all the crops, which the president of the Ontario Farmers' Association talks about.

SPIRIT OF THE PRESS

Clerical Marriage-Brokers.

The shameful brokerage in runaway marriages that has been the scandal and blush of the Windsor clergy for years is a flagrant abuse of the power conferred on the government, and for the sake of the name of the profession clerical men of high ideals ought to protest against it, even to the point of resigning, if need be, that the offending ones be stripped of their privileges.

Truly A Liberal Conservative.

Mr. Borden's speech and platform are worthy of all praise from liberals even more than from conservatives. But they certainly provide no reason for any liberal to cast a conservative vote. On the contrary, they might serve as an admirable recommendation for the promotion of Mr. Borden from the position of opposition to a portfolio in the present government.

Beauty Of Protection.

American manufacturers of saws sell to foreigners at a reduction of 43 per cent. from the domestic price; manufacturers of agricultural implements favor the foreigner by something like 20 per cent. discount; the manufacturers of carpenter's tools give a discount of 37 to 50 per cent. to foreigners, and the manufacturers of percussion caps demand from domestic dealers an advance of 85 per cent. over the foreign price. The United States Steel Corporation sells steel rails at home for $28 a ton, while to Mexicans and Canadians it sells for $21 a ton. But things like that, you know, will be.

Generous To Mother Country.

There surely was never in the world before so great a political and economic curiosity as our imperial preferentialists. Who so generous as they are to the mother country in talk—who so lavish; and who so light-hearted when it comes to deeds? When Mr. Deakin, the prime minister of the commonwealth of Australia, was in England attending the conference of the prime ministers of the empire, his voice was the one which cried most insistently for imperial unity based upon some variant of Chamberlainism. Who such an imperialist, who so ready to tax the poor Britisher for the sake of imperial and colonial brotherly love and last-but-not-least unity? Alas, among the first work out for him at home, has been to put in force the Australian tariff, which raises the duties against all countries, including Great Britain, to what is meant to be a prohibitive height. In some cases, the duties are raised a hundred and more per cent., and that of goods the bulk of which Great Britain formerly supplied. Having protected home manufacturers, to the great detriment of the Australian parliament has very considerably put a further handicap on foreign goods averaging some five per cent. This tariff, too, was put into operation without any treaty, and the British manufacturers, through the colonial office, made representations to Australia concerning the hardships entailed upon them by such protection. Mr. Winston Churchill, under-secretary for the colonies, was asked in the House of Commons to communicate the reply of the Australian government to the English complaint, but, he said, "there is no answer." Were there ever such topsy-turvy gross contradictions, between the profession and performance?

Enlivening Blue Ruin As An Ally.

A well known worker of the conservative party recently stated that ten days would do more to help the party to power than any tour that Messrs. Borden, Foster and Fowler may make. Given such a front with its attendant ruin of the crop, and consequent general depression, the conservative would stand some chance of ousting the Laurier government. The poverty of the once great political party now led by Mr. Borden could hardly be more strikingly portrayed, yet the conservative party, which is "hardly likely to be excelled," is about the most definite pronouncement yet made as to how they propose to regain the confidence of the electorate. And when they had climbed the ladder of power, they would offer for him what? Doubtless a Canadian edition of the McKinley tariff.

Remarkable Sagacity Exhibited in Novel Contest.

Paris, Sept. 5.—A novel contest was held in Paris this week, styled the "Cocottes International de chiens policiers," its object being to test the sagacity of dogs employed to help the police in their duties. Among the tests for which marks were given were: "For attacking and the dog will march in front of its master, or follow him, and obey at a distance the directions given by voice or gesture."

TWO BASEBALL MATCHES BILLED FOR TO-MORROW.

Gananoque, Sept. 5.—The barbecue and harvest home dinner at Bethel church, yesterday, was brought to a successful issue, although the rain interfered to some extent. A plenteous dinner of roast beef and chicken pie was served, followed by a programme of music, song, recitation and speeches. The Misses Essie DeLong, Fannie Ballou, Timberlake, of Gananoque, and Miss Gies, of Kingston, furnished the vocal and instrumental part, and Gordon Hurd gave an excellent recitation. There was a large number of Gananoqueans present.

BUDGET FROM ARDEN.

The rains have extinguished the forest fires.

Arden, Sept. 5.—The late rains have extinguished the forest fires, and revived vegetation. Farmers are busy harvesting hay and grain. The crops are light on account of the long drought. Minor Williams has disposed of his blacksmith shop, and is succeeded by C. W. Scott.

On Saturday last, Rev. J. W. Andrews, of St. John the Evangelist church, Berlin, came on a short visit to his uncle, Thomas Andrew, stayed over Sunday, and left on Monday afternoon. On Sunday evening, at the request of the incumbent, Mr. Andrew preached in St. Paul's English church in this village.

Yesterday, a sitting of the division court was held in the town hall. Judge Madden presiding. The following cases were disposed of: McGregor vs. Hayes, claim of $65 for loss of horse; judgment for plaintiff. E. Keller vs. C. E. Hayes, claim for damages, question of title arising; court had no jurisdiction.

The township council met on Monday. Mrs. D. C. Clancy has returned from her visit to Toronto, where she has been spending a few days. A. Hadis, merchant, has left Arden, and gone with his family to settle in Cobalt. The showers of the last few days have greatly improved the appearance of the country, laid the dust out of view, and helped crop, potatoes, roots and pasture.

AFTER PRESIDENT

USING NAVY FOR HIS PERSONAL ENDS.

New York World Denounces Roosevelt For Sending Fleet to the Pacific Coast.

New York, Sept. 6.—The World accuses President Roosevelt of jingoism toward Japan. "What," it asks, "is the motive or excuse for this parade of battleships to the Pacific? Not our relations with Japan. There is less justification for such a demonstration now than there was two months ago. Then there might have been room for doubt as to Japan's peaceful intentions. Now there is none. Every American with intelligence to read and write, know, or ought to know, that nothing is further from Japan's purpose than war with the United States and that the intense competition of the empire demands peace at any price short of national humiliation."

"Why then is almost the entire effective fighting force of the United States navy to be concentrated in the Pacific, leaving the whole Atlantic coast unprotected? Plenty of practice can be obtained without sending 800,000,000 worth of battleships on a 14,000-mile cruise through the dangerous Straits of Magellan. What other nation would consent to the most populous ports, its most important sea coast, and the overwhelming bulk of its maritime commerce with naval protection in order to bolster up its sea power for months? Mr. Roosevelt is judged by his past, would be ashamed with indignation if anybody else proposed it."

"If Roosevelt is not using the navy to capture the delegates to the republican convention, what is he doing? If he is not taking the risk of disturbing the peaceful relations with a friendly power in order to restore his tarnished political prestige on the Pacific coast, what is he doing? It is not amplifying the naval power of the United States to further his personal political programme, what is he doing? Has Roosevelt any sense of his personal responsibilities as president of the United States?"
