VERY LIVELY SCENES

RIOTS IN VANCOUVER; ORIENTALS ATTACKED.

Many Chinese and Japanese Stores Demolished and Several Persons Wounded in Demonstration—City Police Were Powerless.

Vancouver, B.C., Sept. 8.—For five hours during last night Vancouver was a riot town ruled by a mob. It was daylight this morning before the crowds were dispersed. Police records show that the Chinese and Japanese quarters of the city were wrecked, seven men only were placed under arrest, a dozen persons were stabbed and bruised and rendered subjects for the hospital.

The proceedings began with the burning of the lieutenant-governor in effigy in front of the city hall on the public street. Then followed the wildest scenes ever witnessed in Western Canada. The police were powerless and unable to control the mob, and had actually to appeal to the Japanese merely to resist attacks on themselves and their property and not to go out into the street and fight openly.

Hundreds of the Mikado's subjects had come to town early in the day to witness the parade and Oriental demonstration of the evening. They were itching for battle in the streets, which if it had occurred would probably have resulted in many fatalities but in only one case did they make a determined fight, and then they put the rioters to flight.

It was early this morning that this battle occurred at the corner of Westminster avenue and Powell street. Four blocks along the latter thoroughfare are lined with Japanese stores.

Profiting by their experience in the Chinatown riots, the police had stretched ropes across the street and were defending the entrance to all comers, but at this corner are three handsome Japanese general stores. Two thousand men surged around this point. Suddenly from away up the street come the sound of smashing glass, as some plate-glass front was broken in. Instantly hundreds of bricks flew from all directions at the corner stores, and in fifteen seconds thousands of dollars worth of damage was done. The Japanese would stand it no longer. From the stores, from hallways, from roofs they hurried into the streets, and, armed with sticks and bottles, and even knives, they charged the mob.

In five minutes the Japanese had cleared the street. Away up Powell street a volley of pistol shots were heard at this moment and the crowd turned its attention to the new scene of fighting. The Japanese pursued and the white men fled, only to take up the fight in another place, where the little brown energy was not nearly so well organized.

The Nipponese had been well prepared for this street corner attack. They used broken bottles to perfection. Grasping in his hand the neck of a broken bottle the Jap would jab into the face or body of the nearest rioter, and many nasty wounds were inflicted by this system of warfare. Knives were used in this fight too. Two white men were so badly injured that they had to be carried away by the crowd.

Up to this time not a single arrest had been made. But by two o'clock the crowd had begun to become thinner in places, and one by one, seven rioters were gathered in. But even then the police had literally to fight their captives' friends every step of the way into the station, which stands only two blocks away from the Japanese district. Few rioters were gathered in, but seven for heaving a brick through a window, or assaulting Chinamen, three or four dozen of his comrades would rush forward and snatch the arrested man from the policeman.

Burned Governor In Effigy.

The trouble started when the procession had ended at the City Hall. The purpose of the meeting held there was to bring to the attention of the federal government the need of stopping altogether oriental immigration. Long before the parade reached the meeting place the auditorium was crowded to overflowing, and it was to find entertainment for itself that the overflow meeting, seven or eight thousand strong, sought the diversion of cleaning out Chinatown. But before this occurred there took place an incident of the burning in effigy of James Dunsmuir, lieutenant-governor, who brought himself into particular disfavor with the workingman at the last session of the legislature by declining to assent to anti-Japanese legislation.

It was a sorry figure of the governor that was burned last evening. The effigy burned brightly, and the crowd cheered lustily. Westminster avenue, in both directions, was one mass of straining and yelling humanity. From the side streets the crowd continued to pour in. Then came A. E. Fowler, secretary of the Anti-Asiatic League, of Seattle, who told the crowd the Hindus had been driven out of Bellingham. Five minutes later, the crowd was wrecking all that was movable and breakable in Chinatown. In the meantime a series of resolutions were carried at the meeting indoors.

Down in Chinatown the orientals took to the woods. Some hid in cellars, others went out on roofs, and in all cases doors were locked and blinds drawn. New Chinatown is a brick and stone and plate-glass affair. Bricks and rocks did frightful havoc with the fronts of these handsome buildings.

Chief of Police Chamberlain called out the fire brigade with the intention of turning the hose on the mob, but he was afraid to do this for fear that in revenge the rioters would burn Chinatown. As a matter of fact this was attempted on several occasions, but none of the fires amounted to anything. Finally a big hook and ladder truck was thrown across Carrall street at Wood's Hole, and the crowd held behind this.

Just at the time when the festivities were at their height, the steamer Charmer arrived from Victoria with five hundred Japanese aboard. They had come across from Yokohama on the trans-Pacific liner, and could not have arrived here at a more inopportune moment. One lucky feature was that the mob was otherwise engaged, but some of the rioters scented the arrival of the brown men, and started for the Canadian Pacific wharf, where the new arrivals were debarking. Unceremoniously, seven of the Japs were thrown off into the inlet. The others dropped their baggage and fled. The men thrown into the water were rescued by the steamer officials.

Curiously enough while riot was at its height last night Kishi, a director of the Japanese foreign office, who has been sent to America especially to investigate the labor and immigration question arrived in Vancouver. The Great Northern depot is in the centre of Chinatown, and the visitors had not been in Vancouver two minutes before they were overwhelmed in the riot. Their carriage finally broke through the crowd and they reached the constable safely. Kishi immediately sent word to the leaders of the Japanese section counselling moderation. And later paid a visit himself to this district.

Died In The Hospital.

The sad death occurred at the general hospital, on Saturday evening, of Dorland E. Hayes, aged eleven years, youngest son of J. E. Hayes, reeve of Kennebec township. The deceased had only been ill for a few days and was brought to the hospital on Saturday afternoon, where he died two hours later. The remains were taken to Arden at noon, to-day.

Amherst Island Lady Dead.

On Saturday evening, at seven o'clock, Mary Flemming, Amherst Island, passed peacfully away at the residence of her son, 33 Colborne street. The deceased came from the island about three weeks ago, to visit her son, and eight days ago suffered a stroke of paralysis, from which she never recovered. The deceased was eighty years old and a Roman Catholic in religion. The remains will be taken to Amherst Island, where they will be laid in the family plot.

A Child's Death.

Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Bean, of Albany, N.Y., are mourning the death of their only child, James Henry, aged three months and ten days. The mother had come to Kingston on a visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Canfield, 35 Cherry street. While here the child took ill, and on Saturday night the child's spirit was recalled by Him who gave it. Considerable sympathy is felt for the bereaved parents. The funeral will take place at 10.30 a.m. on Tuesday, and will be conducted by Rev. T. E. Burke, of Brock Street Methodist church. The remains will be laid to rest in Cataraqui cemetery.

Watertown Winners.

Canadians were very much in evidence at the Watertown, N.Y., meeting. Aylife, owned by B. R. Hepburn, Picton, and driven by Edward Herrington, won the $1,000 stake for 2.27 class trotters. Sid Barnes, owned and driven by "Billy" Hodson, Montreal, won the 2.16 trot, beating Col. Osborne. "Jack" Roxbough landed the 2.18 pace with the Kincardine mare, Anna V. Brino. Major Brino was first in the 2.12 pace and Jubilee won the free-for-all.

Peter Miller, owned by Al. Proctor, of Newmarket, was a starter in the 2.28 pacing stake and although he was second in the fourth and final heat of the race, he landed outside the money.

September Rod And Gun.

Extent of ground covered and variety in subjects dealt with are the dominant features of the September issue of Rod and Gun, published at Woodstock, Ont. Fishing, shooting, exploration, natural history, mountaineering, clubhouse building, how to carry firearms, are some of the matters in which all sportsmen are interested which find places in the pages of this number. Fishing incidents in Newfoundland, New Brunswick, Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia are recorded. In the Heart of the Rockies is quite as delightful in its way as Nova Scotian Woodcock is in another, and "How to Carve Firearms" is as useful and as informing as the full and interesting summary of the new game laws of Alberta.

Davidson and Dorenperes, Montreal, have instituted eight actions in the superior court, districts against the Phoenixville Bridge company for relatives of the victims.

GAVE HER $200,000

EARLE'S GIFT TO WIFE HE PUTS AWAY.

Rights of Son Are Also Safeguarded By Father—His "Affinity" is Decidedly Wealthy.

New York, Sept. 9.—An estate of over $200,000 was, Saturday, formally settled upon his discarded wife by Ferdinand P. Earle, the Monroe artist, who sent Mrs. Earle to France to divorce him that he may marry Julia Kuttner, his "affinity," in accordance with the forcordination that he recently discovered.

Besides this, Mr. Earle legally safeguarded the rights of his little son as heir to his $1,000,000 estate.

Julia Kuttner is the name of Mr. Earle's "affinity," notwithstanding his statement that the name was an assumed one given to hide her identity.

Miss Kuttner lives with her widowed mother, Mrs. Anna Kuttner, in a fine house on the upper West Side.

Their home is now boarded up for the summer and she had not been there since June 1st.

The tradespeople in the neighborhood say that Miss Kuttner is a quiet, demure little woman, pleasant and refined, and that the family, judging from their household expenditures and prompt payments, have plenty of money.

INCIDENTS OF THE DAY.

Newsy Paragraphs Picked Up By Reporters On Their Rounds.

"The Gingerbread Man" is on his way to Kingston with the very best of actors.

Wise mothers buy infants' foods at Gibson's Red Cross drug store. Always fresh there.

Miss K. Sullivan will re-open her dressmaking parlors on or about the 12th of September.

The annual retreat for the priests of the diocese began at St. Mary's cathedral to-day. It is being conducted by Rev. Father McShane, of Montreal.

The granolithic walks around the City Park and King street west are receiving much-needed repairs. The walks on both sides of the street are being torn up and new ones laid.

The Grand Union hotel, corner of Brock and Ontario streets, is closed to the public to-day. The hotel was run for some time past by George Hammond, who closed the house owing to lack of business.

Rev. Charles A. Sykes, B.D., occupied his pulpit in Sydenham Street Methodist church, yesterday, after a month's vacation. He is a forceful preacher, and his sermons are splendid expositions of gospel truth.

The steamer Edmonton is still aground at the Narrows, above Brockville. The Donnelly Wrecking company hopes to have her released by to-morrow. Very slight damage is done to her hull by coming in contact with the rocks.

A question about which there is much speculation nowadays, and a wide difference of opinion among scientific folk, namely "Is Mars a Habitable World," is interestingly discussed in an article which The Living Age for September 21st reprints from the Fortnightly Review.

Hilaire Belloc's article on "The Mail," with which The Living Age for September 7th opens, is something more than a mere account of the recent rising of the winegrowers of the south of France; it is a brilliantly written study of the extraordinary power of the French people to organize under a common impulse without leadership.

Inverary Fair.

The Storrington Township Fair will be held at Inverary, on Wednesday, Sept. 18th. A splendid programme, good races, excellent exhibits. Better than ever before. Come and have a good time.
