LIMIT IMMIGRATION

This is What Will Be Done By Negotiations.

Ottawa and Tokio Have Been Busy for Weeks

--Canada Will See Rioters Punished--

Not Safe to Abuse Japanese.

Ottawa, Sept. 10.—Negotiations are now in progress between Ottawa and Tokio for a limitation of the Japanese immigration into British Columbia, following the immigration of the Japanese into the United States this summer, through the Hawaiian port of Honolulu. It has been hoped all along that by this means an effective and safe means will be found of preventing the flooding of the labor market of the Pacific coast with Oriental labor.

The negotiations have been in progress for some weeks, and K. Ichi, of the Japanese foreign office, is now in this country for the purpose, it is believed, of reaching an understanding on the subject. In the meantime Mr. Ichi, who arrived in Vancouver on Saturday morning, has been studying the question both in the United States, Pacific ports, and in British Columbia for himself, so that he may be able to take up the matter on Saturday morning, when he will be in the Canadian government, eight years ago, entered into an arrangement with the Mikado's ministers that not more than five or six hundred Japanese should be allowed to immigrate to Canada each year. It had not been the intention of the Canadian authorities that the treaty of commerce recently negotiated between us and Japan should in any way interfere with the previous understanding in regard to the limitation of Japanese immigration into this country, and it is confidently believed that the Japanese government themselves have no desire to depart from the agreement made in 1899. What the dominion wants is a bargain that will not more than five or six hundred Japanese be allowed to enter this country yearly, whether they come from their own country direct or from some other part of the world.

The Canadian government will not tolerate the course which has been pursued toward the Orientals in Vancouver in the recent riots, and looks for the speedy punishment of the offenders. It is understood that regret will be expressed for those threats, and that the authorities in Vancouver will be asked to see that the rioters are fully punished. The enforcement of criminal justice, of course, is a matter that rests primarily in the hands of the provincial authorities, but if the local authorities in this case fail to name someone to enforce the law, the federal authorities will doubtless step in and do so themselves.

FRUGALITY OF A PRINCESS.

Shilling Buttons Too Dear For Kaiser's Daughter.

Berlin, Sept. 10.—German feminine frugality has been displayed in excited circles at the autumn review of the fleet. The Princess Victoria Louise ordered a pretty naval costume, which pleased her in every way except as to the buttons, which did not seem worthy of the dress. The dressmaker suggested that they should be replaced by others, which she showed and which were worth a shilling each. The price appeared to be too high for the young lady, who said she must first ask her papa. When the dressmaker returned in the evening to hear the decision, the princess said that her father would not let her have the buttons. He said they were too dear and that she must not be extravagant. The princess wore for the review a pretty dress with the despised buttons.

MILLIONS ARE UNFIT

Condition of Children in the Schools of United States.

Defects of American Children are Appalling

--Five Millions Have Enlarged Glands; and Seven Millions Defective Breathing.

New York, Sept. 10.—The reopening of the public schools throughout the country is to be the occasion of a report on the physical condition of school children by a committee of prominent educators, headed by Chairman (Burlingham, former president of the New York Board of Education. The enquiry has taken wide scope, and the observations apply not only to the school children of New York, but also to those of Boston, Chicago and other cities. In general, the report shows children in the United States are behind their proper grade because of physical defects that could be remedied. A synopsis of the report says in part:

"Based on the physical defects and home conditions of 1,400 school children of New York city, it is estimated that 12,000,000 of the children of the United States have physical defects which should receive attention from parents and physicians. If the percentages recorded by the board of health should be maintained throughout the country (and it seems likely that they would be) as adenoids and enlarged tonsils, malnutrition, and defective breathing are found in rural as well as urban schools there must be 1,400,000 ill-nourished children, 5,615,000 with enlarged glands, and 6,925,000 with defective breathing in the United States. In New York city the estimated figures are: Malnutrition, 48,000; enlarged glands, 137,000; and defective breathing, 230,000. The large percentage of the defects indicated are easily remedied and many could be prevented by proper care, though, except in the case of defective vision, the cases are not always easily determined. A comprehensive plan for dealing with the physical defects of school children, is outlined in the report, including a thorough examination of all children, application to parents, the enforcement of existing laws, and securing proper authority, where this is not lacking, to compel parents, who refuse to take necessary steps, enforcement of existing health, tenement house and child labor laws, the enforcement in connection with the enforcement of school hygiene regulations. It shall be to see that school buildings are so constructed and so conducted that they do not themselves produce or aggravate physical defects, and that school curriculum be so devised and executed as neither to produce nor aggravate vice, to study the effect of school on study, physical training, building, home life, and to teach hygiene, so that children will themselves cultivate habits of health, and see clearly the relation of health and vitality to present happiness and future efficiency."

FATAL RUNAWAY.

Wife of Col. Notting Killed Four Others Injured.

Halifax, N.S., Sept. 10.—In a runaway accident at Bridgewater, on Saturday, Mrs. T. Notting, aged sixty, wife of Col. Notting, retired United States army officer, was instantly killed; her daughter, Mrs. Philip A. Moore, had her wrist broken and several ribs fractured; Quitta Moore, aged two years, daughter of Mrs. Moore, had her hip broken, and the driver of the team was severely cut and bruised. The party were returning from a drive, and, as they reached the top of a steep hill, the harness broke and the incline the horse collided with an ox cart, upsetting the wagon, with the above result. Mrs. Moore is the wife of P. A. Moore, manager of the Miemac gold mine, who owned the run-out.
