Extended Over Entire Body - Mouth Covered With Crusts as Thick as Finger Which Would Bleed and Suppurate - Disease Ate Large Holes in Cheeks - Hands Pinned Down to Stop Agonized Scratching-Three Doctors' Best Efforts Failed to Give Relief.

BUT CUTICURA WORKS A MIRACULOUS CURE

"When my little boy was six months old he had excema. The sores extended so quickly over the whole body that we at once called in the doctor. We then went to another doctor, but he could not help him, and in our despair we went to a third one. Matters became so bad that he had regular holes in his cheeks, large enough to put a finger into. The food had to be given with a spoon, for his mouth was covered with crusts as thick as a finger, and whenever he opened the mouth they began to bleed and suppurate, as did also his eyes. Hands, arms, chest, and back, in short the whole body was covered over and over. We had no rest by day or night. Whenever he was laid in his bed, we had to pin his hands down, make an open sore. I think his face must have itched most fearfully. "We finally thought nothing could help, and I had made up my mind to send my wife with the child to Europe, hoping that the sea air might cure him, otherwise he was to be put under good medical care there. But, Lord be blessed, matters came differently, and we soon saw a miracle. A friend of ours spoke about Cuticura. We made a trial with Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Resolvent, and within ten days or two weeks we noticed a decided improvement. Just as quickly as the sickness had appeared it also began to disappear, and within ten weeks the child was absolutely well, and his skin was smooth and white as never before. . Is The Fastest Growing Company In Canada

Over $2,700,000.00 MORE insurance was written by this company last year, than in any previous year.

The expenses were $10,224 LESS than in 1905, while the volume of business on its books was much larger.

Is it any wonder then that the whole Canadian people have confidence in the wise, conservative business management?

And they show their confidence by taking out enough insurance in The Mutual Life to make it the fastest growing company in, the Dominion.

JUNGLE OF INDIA.

Having business recently in London with the Chota-Nagpur Railroad of India, writes W. G. Fitzgerald, strolled one day into their head offices in New Broad street. I waited in the board room a few minutes, when my eye suddenly caught a big framed picture in an obscure corner. It seemed different from others on the walls, which were mere dull designs of bridges and locos, with plans and gradients on blue linen.

I walked over and beheld six remarkable photographs, pretty poor technically, yet seeming to me to tell an interesting story. They were mounted together in one large frame. I could see an elephant and a train "Here," thought I, "is something worth investigating. I'll ask one of the directors about it." I did, but he smiled in deprecation of anything sensational having ever happened on

"We are humdrum people," he said, care little for matters outside our freight of sugar and cotton, silk and timber and pilgrims. But you were right about those photographs." And he rang a bell. An attendant answered. "Bring me in that framed picture with the elephant photos in it. he said. And we inspected them together while I listened to a curious

"One September night the up mail left Chakardharpore for Nagpur at 8.20. There is a big railroad community here and the train was well found in every respect. All went well until Goilkera Station was passed at 9.15. Between Goilkera and Manharpur stations our line enter a district known as 'Saranda of the Seven Hundred Hills.' These hills form the water shed between the rivers Brahminee and Subanrika. They are most heav ily timbered and the whole country is as wild as it can be.

A Paradise of Big Game. "Four miles from Goilkera the line there, passes through the Saranda tunnel, and beyond this is a paradise of big game elephant, tiger bear, bison, spotted deer, and sambfrur. From the tunnel the grade is 1 to 100 downwards to the Karo River, on the opposite side of which is a high approach bank ending in a cutting. Now I am going to get you our engineer's

I tried to reverse and put on my brakes. My engine kept the rails at first, but a few seconds later she was plowing her way through the loose granite and providentially stopped short on the very lip of a bank 45 feet high. It was most fortunate that heavy rains had been falling and the way was very soft, so that my engine had no sooner left the track than she was plunged up to her axle in soft earth and loose stones. "I got down and groped my way back to see what damage had been done. Four cars, including that of

Mr. Faulds, the deputy locomotive superintendent, were also derailed, and our brake van was badly smashed, as also was one of the third-class cars containing pilgrims. Mr. Faulds joined me, and so did our guard A Monstrous Inert Mass.

One hind leg had been cut of and there were three severe injuries to the head and shoulders. I judged that the big tusker, angered by our approaching lights and the general uproar of the train, had stood full in the track and indeed had charged down upon us, only to be dealt a terrific stroke, which struck him dead He punished us pretty severely, however, for he has done damage to the extent of Rs 14,000 at least. bury cathedral, Ambassador Whitelaw Reid recently unveiled a handsome marble tablet in memory of those killed in the terrible accident a year ago, when by the derailing of the American line boat train 28 persons, mostly Americans, lost their lives. The eremony, the impressiveness of which was emphasized by the presence of the widows and children of the trainmen killed in the disaster, all in the deepest mourning, was attended by many dignitaries of the church, the mayor and members of the corporation in their robes of office, the American consul at Southampton, Mr. Slam; the United States consul at Portsmouth, Mr. Maim; numerous visitors and a large congregation of citizens of Salisbury, through whose generoeity the memorial was made possible. At the conclusion of the formal ceremony of the unveiling, for which the tablet was draped with American and British flags, the bishop of Salisbury, Dr. Wordsworth, dedicated the tabin a short address, concluding

The talk a while, and then sells at a profit. Waiters, cabmen, newsboys even, all make their bit. You can buy a hundred thousand pounds' worth or twenty pounds' worth with equal facility. Every second shop is a land shop. The windows are filled with attractive "snaps," and also with notices of labor wanted in all kinds of uncouth languages, of which Scandinavian and Icelanders are the least abstruse. Boom Is Overdone.

If you want work, you can engage yourself off-hand as a railway laborer, a farm-hand, an agricultural enginedriver, or a camp cook. If you want an investment you can walk in, plank down five dollars, the rest to be paid by instalments, and come out a landowner. And when you hear the large
