DR. EDWARDS CHOSEN

AS CONSERVATIVE CANDIDATE FOR FRONTENAC.

He Defeated Mr. Avery By a Vote of 111 to 66—The Party is Split As a Result—Liberals Sure of Victory.

At the convention of the Frontenac Conservative Association in the Court House on Thursday afternoon, Dr. J. W. Edwards, of Cataraqui, was nominated as the next Dominion candidate. By a vote of 111 to 66, the association turned down Melzar Avery, the present member for Frontenac, who has won two Dominion elections quite handily.

The county association decided to "swap horses in the middle of the stream," and so they defeated a tried man of strength. The liberals are jubilant over the action of the tory convention. In Frontenac Mr. Avery is considered the strongest candidate the conservatives have. The grits are not afraid of Dr. Edwards, and already regard Frontenac as won for their candidate.

Dr. Edwards did not secure a unanimous nomination. In his desire to oust Mr. Avery he has hopelessly split his party, and gained the ill-will of the north of the county. The doctor is a vigorous speaker, and in his remarks before the convention he made several personal attacks on Mr. Avery and some of his leading standard-bearers, and the result is that many declare they will not support the newly-chosen candidate.

The convention was large and the proceedings were decidedly warm. President Langwith occupied the chair. There was a long discussion on the advisability of nominating a candidate at this early stage. Mr. Avery asked that the nomination be postponed until next March. He argued, this way: Suppose he was defeated for re-nomination, would he not be in an awkward position? Though member for Frontenac, he would go back to Ottawa discredited.

Dr. Edwards would not hear of postponement. Many other constituencies had chosen their candidates, and why should Frontenac not do the same? The doctor said that if he was fortunate enough to be elected as Frontenac's next member, he would press for better rural postal facilities. He charged Mr. Avery with ignoring the Frontenac Conservative Association in voting for increased salaries for members, when he was instructed to oppose the increase.

The meeting was very lively, and bad blood was shown in various parts of the chamber. The two factions were warmed up to the limit. It was seen that the Edwards party was somewhat in the majority.

Finally, nominations were called for, and the following were named: Dr. Edwards, M. Avery, M.P., Dr. Spankie, W. D. Black and J. S. Gallagher, M.P.P. The three latter retired, and a vote was taken between the other two and resulted 111 to 66 in Dr. Edwards' favor. When the result was announced Mr. Avery's supporters left the chamber. They refused to make the nomination unanimous. In a previous address, Mr. Avery had declared that Dr. Edwards had not supported him in his election, and many of Mr. Avery's friends, especially those in the north, will give Dr. Edwards no support in consequence.

The voting was done by so many representatives from each township. The Edwards contingent was better mustered than that of Frontenac's present member.

"Dr. Edwards has been organizing for this nomination for the past three years," declared a north man, excitedly, "and he has done his work well. Mr. Avery hasn't been bothering about organization. When he won two elections for the party, he thought he would again be the candidate. But that is the gratitude he receives. I tell you that because Frontenac has gone tory all along, that is no evidence it will continue that way. Mr. Avery is a stronger candidate than Dr. Edwards, and I'm pretty sure that the conservatives will lose the county by their choice of to-day."

After the balloting had been concluded, Dr. Edwards and Mr. Avery were called upon to speak, but as it was late, and near train time for the majority present, their remarks were very brief.

Dr. Edwards said that he did not look upon the nomination as a contest between himself and Mr. Avery. He thanked the convention for having chosen him as the standard-bearer of the conservative party, and expressed the hope that there would be no ill-feeling in any quarter, at the result of the contest. He was well prepared to fight for the interests of the party. He would put all his energy into the fight, which would be a fight to the end.

Mr. Avery said that he had always done his duty in the ranks, and he wished to thank all his friends who had stood by him. The fact that he had not been selected, would make no change with him. It had been left to the convention, and the members had chosen their leader. He had nothing to say about any person, and he hoped that they would all continue to be "good fellows" together.

At the Iroquois Hotel and the K. & P. railway station, Mr. Avery's supporters were wroth over the result, and expressed themselves most forcibly.

"The north of Frontenac has been grossly insulted by the treatment given Mr. Avery, who is the strongest conservative candidate this county ever had. If he's not good enough for the conservatives of the Front, Dr. Edwards is not good enough for us, and we won't have anything to do with his election. Edwards can't carry Frontenac without the help of the north, which is pretty much conservative, and he won't get that help. I'm quite sure he couldn't carry the county, anyway." These were the remarks of one very prominent in North Frontenac.

"There are 350 votes in Kennebec," said another north man, "and I'll guarantee that Edwards won't get seventy-five votes there. He has abused some of us too much to expect us to join in and help him win a seat in parliament. No, sir, Edwards will never occupy a seat in the Ottawa house as a member for Frontenac. The grit candidate will defeat him to a standstill. If Frontenac is lost to the conservative party, it will be due to Dr. Edwards, who has knifed Mr. Avery. We won't stand by and see our man so treated."

Mr. Avery did not care to say much about the result. He didn't think he deserved the turndown he got. It was most unusual, he remarked, for a party to make a change of candidate when one had proved himself a winner. However, he did not intend to grumble.

The probable conservative candidate for the next provincial election was a topic of discussion. It was stated that J. S. Gallagher, M.P.P., would not receive the nomination again, but that Dr. Spankie, of Wolfe Island, county inspector of schools, would be the conservative standard-bearer. This proposed change will cause still further trouble in the conservative ranks.

The Edwards party was highly pleased over the result of the vote, but afterwards began to wonder if Mr. Avery's chief supporters could be reconciled. They recognized that without the aid of some of the northern politicians, the county could not be carried. The association is pledged to Dr. Edwards, and with him the conservative fortunes must stand or fall.

One reason for the desire of the north men to defeat Dr. Edwards is to get him out of the way, so that Mr. Avery will have a chance again to get the seat. If Dr. Edwards was to win Frontenac he would try and retain his hold. To "kill" him now is the object of his tory opponents. "We will vote for the grit candidate," said one, "simply for the benefit of Mr. Avery. The downfall of Dr. Edwards means that we will be on top again."

GRAND OPERA HOUSE

"THE BOY WITH THE BOODLE" PRESENTED.

It Was Well Played and Well Staged—The Next Production at The Grand—"The Bonnie Brier Bush," To-Morrow.

"The Boy With the Boodle" was the attraction at The Grand last evening and was greeted by a large audience. The play is a melo-drama, with a chorus, staged in four acts. The play deals with the life of "Skidoo," a bootblack, ably portrayed by George Ovey, and "Taumany Ann," his pal. This part was solely in the hands of Miss Louise Horner, who, by her impersonation of a difficult role, showed herself to be a talented actress. Her songs and dancing received many encores. Frederick E. Wright, as Judge Fairchild, Tammany's father, was well suited to his part, and Joseph Weber, was at his best as "Plug Ugly." The singing and dancing of the chorus was far above the average, better than in some shows that have played here for twice the money.

The play is laid in New York, for the first and last acts and in the Nevada gold fields for the second and third. Many interesting and thrilling escapades of "Skidoo," and his girl are put through in their fight for honesty against the "powers that be" in Wall street.

The play is staged in an excellent manner, the New York dock scene, and the Nevada gold mine being fine, while the last scene, in Central Park, New York, where one sees the picnic party go by in boats, down under the high, stone bridge, was magnificent.

Bargain Matinee And Night.

In Kirke La Shelle's production of "The Bonnie Brier Bush," which comes to the Grand on Saturday, October 19th, matinee and night, we are to be entertained with a charming play, in which Scotch life is portrayed with a simplicity of treatment, together with a delightful combination of dramatic intensity and rich humor such as is rarely found in the latter day performances.

"I'm Married Now."

Considerable interest is being manifested in the coming engagement of that funny comedian, George F. Hall, in the new musical vaudeville mixture, "I'm Married Now." There is a merry jingle all the way through and the music is bright and catchy. The company, which is a large one, is uniformly strong and pleasing. To appear at the Grand on Monday, October 21st.

At M. T. Co's elevator: Steamer Dundee, from Chicago, with $6,000 bushels of corn and wheat; steamer Vail, from Chicago, with 43,000 bushels of corn, and consort Connolly Bros., with 45,000 bushels of corn; steamer Stormount, from Fort William, with 90,000 bushels of wheat; tug Nellie Reid, up, with three light barges, cleared for Montreal with three grain-laden barges.

The water of Rideau Lake, so low this autumn that through boats had to be taken off, has risen rapidly during the past two or three weeks and is now at about its usual level for this time of year. It gained five inches in height last week. One of the causes of the exceptionally low water is said to be due to the locking through of so many small boats during the summer. At one lock there were 2,700 lockages and of these about 2,000 were pleasure boats. To obviate this a new law is likely to be put in force limiting the locking of yachts and row boats to certain hours each day.

IN RUGBY CIRCLES.

The Various Local Teams Preparing For To-Morrow.

Queen's I and II teams had a good workout, yesterday afternoon, the last hard one before their games to-morrow. Both teams have improved considerably since their last battles and should win both games. The first team have improved in many ways since Saturday last. The combination of their halves is better, and their wing line is protecting better. With the proper care and coaching this team should go through the league very near the top.

Cadets Working Hard.

The Cadets have been working faithfully for the game with Queen's II to-morrow, and they are going to try hard to pull down the lead the college men gained on them in last Saturday's game. Gibson is out of the game, with a bad knee. He is in bad shape, being threatened with water on the knee. The Cadets II team is composed of a husky bunch of boys, who should make themselves felt in the junior series.

There May Be Trouble.

A Montreal despatch says: Uncertainty exists in McGill rugby circles as to the playing rules for their game with Queen's on Saturday. Last week Queen's refused to play according to the rules as amended by the meeting of the executive of the Intercollegiate Union, in Kingston, two weeks ago, especially with regard to the rule that the scrimmage should stand quite apart, and after considerable wrangling the game went on under the old scrimmage rules. Queen's, it is understood, will raise the same objection this week, that the action of the executive was not constitutional, while McGill will stand by the action of the executive and insist on playing under the amended rule. What the outcome of the dispute may come to is a matter of doubt. Queen's was represented at the meeting of the Intercollegiate Union executive by A. B. Turner, who was quite in line with his colleagues that the rules could be amended constitutionally and that the change was desirable.

The Essence Of Letters.

"Citizen" writes the Whig—and in too personal a way to publish all the letter—to enquire what License Inspector Wright is doing, touching raffling recently conducted in a city hotel. Is he afraid to act? Then again evidence was given in the police court of Sunday drinking, and a man sent to jail for three months for troubles thereafter. What is Inspector Wright doing about, it? Does Premier Whitney say the license law is enforced?

The children's service in the afternoon and the evening service will be conducted by sons of the congregation, Rev. Harper Gray, of Dundas, and Rev. Mr. McAllister.

Still More Truancy.

Complaints about truancy still continue to be received at the police station. The officers got on the track of another lad, to-day, but no action was taken on the promise being made by the youngster that he would go back to school. A large number of the lads who are playing "hookey" these days, loaf around the different parks and commons, and play football. A good live truant officer would be required to keep the boys in their proper place.

THE BOARD OF WORKS

ANOTHER SCHEME OF ROAD REBUILDING.

To Be Ready For Board at Next Meeting—City May Have to Do Part of the O'Kill Street Sewer Extension Work.

Alds. Gaskin (chairman), Graham and McCann were present at the board of works meeting yesterday afternoon.

The engineer pointed out that the concrete work in connection with the grit chamber for the O'Kill street sewer extension should be done before the frost comes, else it will be impossible to lay the two lengths of pipe from it. If Contractor Tait would allow the city to do the concrete portion, it could attend to that piece of the work at once. It was decided to seek the advice of the city solicitor upon the matter.

R. W. Smith wrote, offering to sell his quarry lots on Patrick street. No price was mentioned. The property consists of two and a half acres. The communication was held over for further consideration.

The chairman stated that at the next meeting of the board, he hoped to have a road improvement scheme to present. At present, much information as to material and plant is being collected.

It was decided to construct sewers on Main, Raglan, Ellice and Vine streets. The engineer stated that water was to be put in on Main street and one excavation would suffice, thus lowering the cost for both.

Avoid Biliousness.

The dull, sluggish condition usually termed biliousness and which includes constipation, headache, nausea and other symptoms, is due to a clogged condition of the system. Both stomach and liver are involved. Day's Dyspepsia Cure is an infallible remedy. This preparation has Digestive, Tonic and Laxative properties. Each bottle contains sixteen days' treatment. For sale only at Wade's drug store.

Soldiers In Trouble.

Two soldiers, who were under the influence of liquor, were disorderly on the street, last night. Sergt. Wolfe, with the assistance of Police Constables Driscoll and Craig, took them to the barracks, but some time later the men managed to make their escape. They will again be taken in charge, and put under court-martial.
