GENDARME KILLED

AUSTRIAN TELLS TALE OF ATTACK ON TRAIN.

Held Up By Fake Signals, it Was Completely Looted By Bandits

Vienna, Oct. 19.—Dr. Kramarz, leader of the Young Czech party, who was in the Odessa express train, which was "helped up" on Tuesday night, gives a graphic account, which is published in to-day's papers.

He says the train was suddenly brought to a standstill in the midst of open fields by means of false signals. A number of men, with red lanterns appeared—mostly young fellows, apparently belonging to the Russian "intellectual" class—and ordered all the passengers to sit still or bomb the passengers to get out of the train. Two men were shot dead. Two the money safe was shot dead. Two wagons were loaded with naphtha and set on fire, which added to the horror. Much luggage was destroyed.

A lieutenant and two gendarmes were killed in the subsequent conflict. Two ladies going to Meran were wounded. A Prague tradesman was robbed of all his money and wounded. The engine-driver escaped with the locomotive and nine carriages, leaving the rest in the open fields. On the military arriving, the bandits made off with the booty, amounting to about $60,000. Cosacks pursued the bandits, but made no captures.

GALE AND RAIN.

Are Still Doing Serious Damage in Europe.

Numbers of small wrecks and drownings have been reported. A number of cattle have been washed ashore on the Isle of Man, and it is supposed they came from some transatlantic steamer bound for Liverpool. There has been an almost phenomenal rain in Great Britain for days. Tremendous areas are flooded and great damage has been done. Similar conditions prevail through the whole of Western Europe.
