CURE SICK HEAD ACHE

Indigestion is but a symptom of, and not itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn and Indigestion as a disease, yet they are symptoms only of a certain state of the system—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of this now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. One will find out that original and highly vital principle, which has had such successful results, was never to be had. For stomach disease, biliousness, indigestion and mallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Choke or build-up—and you will see what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend

LIFE IN NEW ZEALAND

Prosperous Farmers—How Land Sales are Conducted.

An English traveller in New Zealand, describing the country around Auckland, says that "there are no haystacks in the fields; for the winters are so mild that grass grows as fast as it is wanted and there is no need to make hay, except for horses in towns."

"Snow and rain unknown in Auckland, and cattle maintain themselves out of doors all the year. This is a great saving of labor compared with what we have in Canada, where horses require hay for a long time, while cattle must be shut up in sheds and fed by hand for several months every year."

"Some of our English plants have run wild in New Zealand and become great nuisances, the worst being gorse, blackberries, thistles and wild roses, and indeed we passed many miles of good land which had been ruined by gorse. Now, however, an act has been passed compelling land owners under heavy penalties to cut down all noxious weeds."

"Farmers were at work with machines like great scythes driving gorse up by the roots, while others were cutting it down close to the ground, but this would only keep it in check and would not kill it. The expense was so great that some farmers found it cheaper to give up the land rather than begin to battle with the gorse, and such ground being abandoned becomes waste and reverts to the government."

"The country was very much like England, the grass being beautifully green and very different from yellow parched Australia. The settlers were all English, and every few miles villages were springing up, with churches, chapels and reading rooms. One man pointed with pride to a fine horse which he was driving, for which he had given £7, a big price in this country. It did not cost him a penny for food all the year, as he merely turned it loose in a paddock when not needed and the animal picked up his own food."

"In another place we were shown land covered with good grass which had been wild scrub less than twelve months before. This is done by cutting with hoes, allowed to dry in the sun, and then fired. The ashes are spread about, grass seed sown among them, and the first shower of rain brings up the grass."

"Hamilton is a rising town with two bridges over the Waikato, and possesses buildings and streets lighted by gas, while it even has a special reading room for ladies. This country is in a very prosperous condition, and I cannot remember that during our journey we met with a single disappointed settler, which was by no means the case in Australia, while in Canada many told us that they would be glad to go home if they could raise the fare; but this of course is a matter which cannot be discussed at length here."

"The prosperity is largely due no doubt to the progress of co-operation in butter making among the farmers. Central creameries are built wherever the land is cleared, and each one takes up a certain number of shares."

"They are equipped with an engine, boiler and machinery under a competent manager, and the farmers drive up in the morning with their milk. This is weighed, an entry made in the book and the milk is at once passed through the separator, whirling around at 2000 revolutions a minute. Cream runs out of one spout, skim milk at another, and the farmer takes back his own skim milk to feed his calves and pigs, while the cream is kept in the butter, and their places of worship, libraries, reading rooms, newspapers and public parks, and having all the signs of prosperous, thriving communities. The farmers were very kind, and owing to the splendid work of their butter factories."

"A rabbit on duty interested us. He was of course, on horseback, carried a gun and had two dogs following, while a spade was strapped to his saddle."

"The Queen."

"Sae lang's a've got strength and ma reason continues clear, a'm prepared to argue wi' ye concernin' the lawfulness of usin' anything except the psalms of David in the praise o' God either in public or in private."

Dear old Scot, the heir of many a Covenanted tradition and the worthy son of Covenanted martyrs, it was a strange subject for discussion for a man's last hour, but the man who could be true to the joys and titles of his faith in pain of body and in face of death in the stuff out of which heroes and saints were made. He belonged to a nation which might sometimes be narrow and over-concerned with scruples, but which knew that a stand must be taken somewhere, and where it took a stand was prepared to die.

The visitor was a wise as well as gracious woman, and grasped the heart of the situation. "No, no," she said, "we will not speak about the things wherein we differ, and I did not know the feeling of Scots about singing of hymns. But I can understand how you feel the psalms, and how dear to you is your metrical version. Do you know I have been in the Highlands of Scotland and have heard the psalms sung, and the metrical version so full of the grave sweet melody, for it was the music of a strong and pious people?"

As she spoke the hard old Scot's face began to soften, and his hand which was lying outside the bedclothes repeated the time of a Scotch psalm tune. He was again in the country church of his boyhood and saw his father and mother going into the table seats and heard them singing—

"O thou my soul, bless God the Lord, And all that in me is Be stirred up by his holy name To magnify and bless."

"More than that, I know some hot tears came into my eyes at the sound of your psalm tunes and I have words in my hymn book; perhaps I have one of the psalms which you would like to hear."

"Din ye think that ye cud sing the psalms?" she said, "I can, and it will please me very much to sing it, for I think I love that psalm more than any hymn."

"It never runs dry," murmured the Scot.

So she sang it from beginning to end in a low, sweet voice, slowly and reverently, as she had heard it sung in Scotland. He joined in no word, but ever kept time with his hand and with his heart, while his eyes looked into the things which were far away. After she ceased, he repeated to himself the last two lines:

And in God's house for evermore My dwelling place shall be.

"Thank ye, thank ye," he said, after a little pause, and then both were silent for a few minutes, because she saw that he was in his own country, and did not wish to bring him back by her foreign accent.

"Mem, ye've done me the greatest kindness any Christian cud dae for another as he stan's on the banks o' the Jordan."

For a minute he was silent again, and then he said—

"I'm gann't to tell ye somethin', an' I'm sure ye'll understand me. Ma wife and me were married 35 years, and ikkainticht o' our married life we sang a psalm afore we gaed to rest. She took the air and I took the bass, and we sang the psalms through frae beginning to end many times. She was ta'en from me 10 years syne, and the night afore she de'd we sang the 3rd psalm. A've never sung the psalm since, an' I dinna join wi' ye when ye sung for 'a'm waitin' to sing it wi' her in our Father's house the mornin' mornin', whar there'll be nae nicht nor partin' evermore."

And this is how one English woman found out that the Scot is at once the dourlest and the tenderest of men.

Bowel Troubles

Liver pills, cathartics, mineral waters, often make Constipation worse. They merely irritate the bowels and force them to move—stop taking purgatives and the bowels become "tight" again.

"Fruit-a-tives" are the one certain cure for Constipation because their action is upon the liver. "Fruit-a-tives" are a liver tonic. They stimulate the secretions of bile by the liver, this bile causes the bowels to move in the natural, regular way and completely cures Constipation.

"Fruit-a-tives are fruit juices with tonics and antiseptics added. In "Fruit-a-tives" one atom of bitter replaces one atom of sweet in the fruit juices—forming a new compound which is many times more active, medicinal, than the fruit juices could possibly be. Soc. a-box—$2.50 for 6 boxes. At all dealers."

It makes one think that perhaps some people WANTED to have Rheumatism. Because they want to take Bu-Ju. Now, isn't it a fact that there are a lot of people in your neighborhood who say "Bu-Ju completely cured me of Rheumatism."

When you read their letters; the agony they suffered with Muscular and Inflammatory Rheumatism, Sciatica and Lumbago; how they tried remedy after remedy without relief, and then found health in Bu-Ju, you will wonder how people will go on having Rheumatism when they can cure themselves at home.

ST. CATHERINES, ONT.
"No living person can realize what I suffered with Rheumatism for five years. The disease completely incapacitated me, and left me in a bed that I was getting worse. I began the use of Bu-Ju, when I soon found relief. After using a few boxes, I found I had recovered my strength, and I felt as if I was a new man. I had been taken, it left me without a vestige of the old complaint. Bu-Ju is by far the best medicine on record for Rheumatism."

MRS. DREDALE.

So confident are we of the powers of Bu-Ju in its unflinching success in coping with cases that have baffled even the best physicians, that we guarantee Bu-Ju will cure you or your money will be refunded.
