THE 5 P.M. EDITION DREW A JACK-KNIFE

GEORGE WILSON MADE THREATS TOWARDS WIFE.

Sixteen-Year-Old Daughter Came Between the Two—Magistrate Farrel Imposes Fine of $20 and Costs, and Three Months.

For abusing his wife and threatening to cut her throat with a jack-knife, George Wilson, an employee of the locomotive works for the past seven years, residing on Division street, was, on Saturday morning, fined $20 and costs, with the option of three months in jail, by Magistrate Farrel, at the police court.

When called to the witness box to give evidence, Mrs. Wilson said that on Thanksgiving night, her husband came at midnight, under the influence of liquor, he was very quarrelsome, and when she went into a bedroom he followed her, and struck her in the face, afterwards pulling out a jack-knife, threatening to cut her throat.

Witness said that her daughter, Mary, who is about sixteen years of age, came between her and her husband, and the latter did not strike her with the knife. A few minutes later he pulled out the knife again, and a second time her daughter prevented him from doing her harm.

"After this, he said that he would be sure to give me a black eye or run my throat," said Mrs. Wilson. "He kept swearing all the time, and we had to sit up with him until three o'clock in the morning."

Mary Wilson, the daughter, told of her father having come home under the influence of liquor.

"He was very ugly," she said, "and took out his knife and threatened to cut mother's throat. I was in bed at that time, and jumped out when I saw father with the knife. Mother had the baby in her arms, and I fell on my knees between the two, and father did not strike."

"Every holiday it is the same thing," continued the witness. "In the winter we have had to sit out in the snow."

"Now, don't tell lies like that," interrupted the father. "In the truth," witness replied.

When asked by the magistrate, witness said that she saw her father strike her mother in the eye.

"For the sake of my five children I would ask you to give me a chance," pleaded Wilson. "I have been drinking your worship."

Magistrate Farrel said that the case was one in which the members of the family were not dependent upon the father for all the support. He understood that Mrs. Wilson was able to care for her family.

Speaking to Wilson, his worship said: "You have been warned before. Your wife came to me and I warned you at the time, others also warned you. Some men treat their wives as if they were a piece of property. They use their wives as if they were a piece of household furniture, and abuse them instead of carrying out the vows they made. Linger in no way two together. There are only two ways to open—you must either leave your wife alone, or leave liquor alone."

QUEEN'S REGISTRATION. Is Not Likely to Be Larger Than 1,300 This Session. Queen's University registration this session is not likely to be above 1,300. There have been estimates of 1,400 and 1,500, but these figures are out of question. Last session, the arts freshman class increased beyond all expectations, and brought their total registration to near 1,300. This year's arts freshman class is not so large. The freshmen in medicine and science will show a slight increase, but the extramurals are not so numerous as before. Of course there will be the pelopony class to add. But, 1,300 is likely to be the outside registration figure.

Rough Day For Rugby. This was an awful day to play league rugby, but it had to be done. Lincolnton and Westmount were scheduled to come together this afternoon at Queen's Athletic grounds in their return senior contest. The heavy wind would make the result very uncertain, but Lincolnton hoped to pull out a win. Cadet Carson, who is a member of the military college, was refereed. The Westmount team did not reach the city until after one o'clock this afternoon.

Aberdeen Street. The long-petitioned-for drain in Aberdeen street is now being constructed. Two more houses are to be erected there next year.

Rain Delayed Completion. The last of the concrete walks to be constructed this year would have been completed to-day, only for the rain. Men are at work at the lower end of Princess street, digging for the concrete water table to be constructed on one side of the block below King street.

Cow In Harness. A rather unusual sight was witnessed on the city streets to-day. A cow was harnessed up to a rig, the outfit being used as an advertisement for the Limestone-Westmount football game. The cow travelled alone at a lively clip, and appeared to enjoy the trip.

What $8,000 Would Do. The $8,000 of the $15,000 road improvement would rebuild thirty blocks with limestone macadam. It would take the corporation the whole season, from April to November to do this amount of rebuilding.

All You Who Gave So Generously. The convenor of the Farm Products booth at the "Made-in-Canada" fair, on looking over the names and addresses of those who contributed to make this booth the most lucrative feature of the fair, has found that her original idea of thanking each one personally, or by letter, is an impossibility. Truly as she and her helpers judged of the generous hearts of the people in the country about, they realized how very warm and responsive to need they are.

From most unexpected quarters, from many an undreamt of person, the abundant offerings came. And every giver in a grateful remembrance, will find in the rack of other branches of the work, that she cannot possibly convey her thanks other than by this newspaper notice.

Will the kindly donors consider the grateful editor as written, the word of warm thanks as said.

IS STILL A MYSTERY.

The Mysterious Disappearance of Richard Manning. The disappearance of Richard Manning, aged seventeen, of Brewer's Mills, is still a mystery. The young man's father has been scouring the country in and around the home, but thus far no trace of the missing young man has been discovered. The father does not believe that his son ran away from home, as he always appeared contented in his home, and was a hard worker. Besides, if his son was to get away from home, he would have taken all his clothes, money and other valuables; and these were left in the house.

One story circulated, was to the effect that the young man had been at a party at the hotel, but this story appears to be without foundation.
