SIX MONTHS IN JAIL

DADAN WILCOX SENTENCED IN POLICE COURT.

Watertown Young Man Said He Was Without Money and Was Tempted to Steal—The Magistrate's Remarks.

Dan. Wilcox, the Watertown young man who pleaded guilty to three charges of theft, was on Saturday morning sentenced by Magistrate Farrell, to six months in the common jail, on each charge, sentence to run concurrently. Wilcox made a plea for leniency on the ground that he was out of funds, and did not want to write home for money, but the magistrate remarked that this was a very flimsy excuse.

The magistrate told the prisoner that the owner in Watertown had been very lenient, and if had been brought that he had been before the court before for theft.

"Three times you deliberately took money from the Chairman's till," said the court to Wilcox. "I understand that the money could not be secured by merely pulling open the drawer, and the shows that the theft was well thought out."

Continuing, the magistrate said that the prisoner, by his conduct, was breaking the hearts of his relatives and all interested in him. But was not the case with all criminals? If offenders were allowed to go unpunished, not for the sake of their relatives and friends, all the criminals would go unpunished. Society must protect itself. If the offenders were allowed off, the law would become a farce.

The prisoner told the court that he had been looking for work, but had been unable to secure it. He was the victim of getting employment in a printing office. He money gave out, and he did not want to write home for assistance.

"I had no money, and had to go without three meals," said Wilcox.

"When I was in the restaurant I was tempted to steal the money in the till."

The magistrate said that this was very poor excuse. The prisoner might have told some of his friends about his financial difficulties, and secured the loan of some money.

"I will sentence you to six months in jail on each of the three charges," said the worship, "sentence to run concurrently."

Wilcox, when outside the court room made a gesture of hurling, but as it was only a bluff, he was soon hustled off to the cells by the police.

A Charles street resident was fined $5 and costs for using abusive language towards a neighbor. It appears that the trouble arose over the fact that the latter ran off the road of one house on to the other.
