PIMPLES
 ALTHOUGH, NOT A DANGEROUS DISEASE, ARE A VERY TROUBLESOME AND UNSIGHTLY AFFLICTION...

They are caused by either poverty or impurity of the blood and require the prompt use of a good blood medicine such as Burdock Blood Bitters, for their eradication, which it speedily accomplishes, at the same time strengthening the entire system. Pimples also often arise from dyspepsia and constipation, and in these cases Burdock Blood Bitters has the double effect of removing the pimples together with their cause.

Mr. D. P. Samson, Oshawa, Ont., writes: "I was troubled with pimples all over my face and hands. I paid out money to doctors but they could do me no good. A friend convinced me to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and after using two bottles the pimples vanished, and I have not been troubled with them since."

Burdock Blood Bitters may be procured at all Druggists and Dealers.

SOLDIER'S DEVOTION
FOUND HER LOST CHILD BEGGAR ON STREET.

Sad Story of the Russo-Japanese War Has at Length a Joyful Ending.
 Moscow, Nov. 9.—A romantic story has just leaked out of the recovery by her parents of a little girl who was lost in the Far East in the course of the Russo-Japanese war. The father was an officer stationed in the Liao Yang Peninsula, whose wife and child had gone out to live with him before the outbreak of hostilities.

All went well until the retreat of the Russian army began. Then a party of the marauding Chingchuses, who gave both armies so much trouble during the war, fell upon the deserted station and sacked the house which sheltered the mother and child. In the panic the two were separated. The mother escaped and was able to rejoin her husband. The little girl disappeared, and careful search made by the parents after the close of the war failed to develop any clue to her fate, and the parents gave her up as dead.

She was not dead, however. She had been carried off in the first place by the robbers, but within a day or two they had fallen in with a detachment of Russian soldiers, and all of them were captured or killed. Among those taken alive was the little girl, and as she was able to prattle a little Russian she at once became a pet of the soldiers. The regiment into whose hands she fell kept her with them all through the campaign, and one man in particular, a private named Gritzko, made himself her special protector.

After the war the child accompanied the regiment to Moscow. It was disbanded, and Gritzko took charge of the child. He sought work in order to provide for her as well as himself. He fell upon hard luck, depending on begging in the street and odd jobs for subsistence, and so great was his devotion to the child that he almost starved himself in order that she might not want. At last in his weakened state he contracted pneumonia from exposure and died in a few days.

The little child was now utterly friendless, and those into whose hands she fell saw in her only a source of profit for themselves. She was driven out on the street by one of the places that she was ordered to haunt was the entrance to the Cafe Philippoff, a fashionable resort.

One day she was in front of this place when an open carriage drove up and a man and woman stepped out of it. The child stretched out her hands, begging for a few kopecks. The woman's eyes grew moist, and she turned to her husband and asked for his purse. Taking a coin from it she stooped and drew the child to her to kiss her as an accompaniment to her alms. As she looked into the little face it seemed as if she recognized something familiar in it. The little girl was gazing eagerly at her, too, and suddenly threw out her arms with a cry of "Mother!"

The mother gave a wild shriek as she clasped her lost child in her arms and fell to the ground in a swoon.

SENT IT BACK.
 Status of Virgin Returned by Dealer.
 Paris, Nov. 9.—Among the many valuable objects of art stolen by the churches by Anthony Thomas is the famous "Virgin of La Salette," the theft of which from the church at La Salette dates back to 1904. Thomas accuses a dealer in antiquities named Dufay of instigating this robbery, and says that Dufay sold the statue to another named Tricon for $3,000, probably not a fifth of its real value.

This statue is in unaltered copper, chased and enameled in parts. The figure of the Virgin is composed of fifteen or sixteen pieces, and that of the infant Jesus of six or seven. The height is less than twenty inches. All the enamel are Limoges work, but some are said to be modern additions.

On the back of the chair in which the Virgin is seated is an inscription in rounded Gothic capital letters, the customary abbreviations. This may be translated: "The Seigneur Odon of Montaigne, Prior of Auvergne, having been awarded the gold medal for the blessed and glorious Virgin, in the year of the Lord 1319; May the Lord God, Jesus Christ, by His holy pity, protect it for life everlasting. So be it."

This is the figure which was returned to the judge who is holding the inquiry into Thomas' robberies. The package came from London. No sender's name was given, and no clue has yet been found as to how it was returned. Presumably some dealer in antiquities, finding he could not sell so famous an article, decided that to return it was the safest way of getting rid of it.

HIGHEST AWARDS
 On Cocoa and Chocolate to Walter Baker & Co. Limited.
 The Jury on Food Exhibits at the Jamestown Exposition have awarded to Walter Baker & Co., Limited, a gold medal for "Chocolate Preparations, Breakfast Cocoa and Cocoa Butter," and also a gold medal for "most admirable, effective and artistic installation of exhibit."

This makes the fiftieth highest award from the leading international and local exhibitions in this country and Europe for the superiority of the cocoa and chocolate preparations manufactured by the Baker Company. No other food product has a like record.

It is an interesting fact that the sales of cocoa and chocolate made by this concern go on increasing from year to year more than five times as fast as the increase in the population of this country.

Costume of Chiffon Broadcloth.
 The sketch depicts a smart frock of cloth which could be easily made by the home dressmaker and would look well in various colorings. This model was in mauve cloth, the bodice trimmed with flet lace tinted to match. The skirt was almost plain, except for a bias band of satin matching the skirt just above the top of the hem. The high girdle was also of satin. The yoke was of pale mauve null and lace.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Wing, Hard Island, will reside in Athens, but will spend a part of the winter, at least, at Rhode Island and Boston.

Numerous and appropriate presents were received, showing the high esteem in which the happy couple are held.
