

BEER IS GOOD FOR MOST FOLKS (HARDLY ANOTHER BEVERAGE FEELS SO WELL)

BEER really excels milk as a food-drink for most grown people. And many, because people cannot digest milk easily, because it is so lacking in food-contents. Moreover, milk is so liable to contagion that it is seldom pure when we get it in the cities. But Ontario-brewed beer is really pure, brewed in cleanliness, of sound materials, in a sanitary way, and brought to the user in the same fit-to-drink state.

Beer Is No Stimulant

Drink beer with meals and at bedtime, as an item of diet that will help the stomach do its work better, and will feed the body besides. Don't choose beer as a stimulant, though—it does not contain enough alcohol for that. Use it as a food-drink that induces lazy stomachs to do their work well, and so helps them get more good out of all food.

Beer Makes Better Nerves

Ontario beer is not only deliciously appetizing and refreshing, because brewed of pure malt and hops only; but, besides, all the power that hops possess to repair nerve wastes is kept in these brews. That is what makes beer so particularly good for women to drink regularly. Ask your own doctor what he thinks of beer for your household.

BEER is a term which covers Lager, Ale, Porter and Stout; and, in the practice of Ontario brewers, implies beverage made under most hygienic conditions from Ontario barley (the best in the world), malt, hops and pure water.

LIONS SCAMPER OFF TWO MEN CAPTURED LION ESS AT BAY.

Extraordinary Nerve Displayed in a Daring Feat on African Farm. Durban, Nov. 26.—A record in lion catching is reported by the Advertiser for East Africa. C. Trichardt, on November 20th, saw four lions on Messrs. Langridge and Taylor's ostrich farm on Abila Plains. He called Mr. Langridge, and the two went together to try to shoot the lions. When the two men approached three of the lions made off, but the fourth, a half-grown lioness, lay down and waited, charging twice when the men came up to within about fifteen feet of them. The lioness arrived and began to worry the lioness, which crawled into a patch of bush and tried to hide behind the projecting roots of a tree. Messrs. Langridge and Trichardt determined to try to capture her alive. They made a loop of raw hide rope, fastened it to a stick and attempted at close quarters to pass the noose over the lioness' neck. They failed. The dogs were then set on to worry the lioness again, and while the brute deflected herself loops were passed around each of her hind legs. The nooses were drawn tight and the lioness held fast. The other lions were bound. Then a cart was fetched and the lioness hauled into it and conveyed to the farm buildings.

TOOK THE NAMES. Police Wage War on Women Gamblers.

Paris, Nov. 26.—The police, last night raided a club in the Boulevard des Italiens and took the names and addresses of about sixty men and women who were gambling there. It is understood that the measure is a preliminary to the closing of all gambling clubs to which women are admitted as members. The premier, M. Clemenceau, has received numerous complaints from husbands and fathers whose wives and daughters have given way to the passion for high play, and have lost large sums of money at these clubs, principally at baccarat. After the raid the president of the club said that the police commissioner and his men had behaved with the utmost politeness, and had not even asked the ladies to state their ages.

SINGULAR INCIDENT. Sailors Saved By Mysterious Rope.

London, Nov. 26.—A singular incident has to be recorded in connection with the wreck of the steamer Netherlands, which went on the rocks near Linsey Head, a lonely part of the Pembrokeshire coast. The Netherlands, which was bound from Liverpool to Barry Dock, early on Sunday morning struck on the reef which connects Penhobly Stack with the mainland. The crew, fourteen in number, swam ashore, where there are cliffs rising some seventy feet. Two sailors were covering under the cliffs, when one of them noticed a rope hanging from the top. One by one they climbed safely to the top, and to their surprise found no one about save their own party, nor were there any houses in sight. At daybreak the shipwrecked sailors were discovered by coast-guard, who took them to Col. Lampson's house, where they were given food and shelter. Yesterday afternoon they were sent to their homes at Barry. The mystery of the rope is explained by the fact that a year ago the steam trawler Shamrock was wrecked at the same place. The captain was hoisted up the cliff by coast-guard. By a lucky chance the rope was not removed, and again proved of service to shipwrecked sailors. The Netherlands is badly damaged. When she was struck the captain was unaware of the new lightship of Linsey Head, and mistook it for Lundy, although the latter is many miles to the southward.

WOMAN ARRESTED. Wife Ties Husband to Family Bedpost.

London, Nov. 26.—Mrs. Mary Griffin, the wife of a colliery laborer at Blackpill, four miles from Swansea, has been arrested on a charge of attempting to poison her husband under extraordinary circumstances. It is alleged that Griffin, who is only twenty-four, and lives in a cottage near Clifton Woods, has been feeling unwell. His wife brought him some port wine in a cup, telling him she had put ginger in it, and that it would do him good. After he had drunk, Griffin accused her of attempting to poison him with carbolic acid. He alleges that he relapsed into unconsciousness after feeling very ill, and that when he recovered he found his wife kneeling and strapping round his neck, the strap being fastened to the bedpost. His wrists were also fastened together by another muffler. He had to be removed to Swansea hospital, where he now lies in a serious condition. That evening his wife was seen in the company of a soldier and was arrested.

BURIED WITH REVOLVER. Woman Who Feared Being Interred Alive.

Vienna, Nov. 26.—The Deutscher Volksblatt says that a workman's wife has been buried at Dux, in Bohemia with a revolver in her hand. The woman, who had always been haunted by the dread of being buried alive, expressed on her deathbed the wish that a loaded revolver should be placed in her coffin so that should any mistake have been made she would have the means of putting an end to her suffering instead of dying a lingering death. She was, according to her wish, buried with a crucifix in one hand and the revolver in the other.

YOU can absolutely depend on the oven of the SOUVENIR RANGE. No air can enter until it has been heated to the proper temperature of the oven—its aerated principle ensures this. Meats are cooked, and bread, pies or cakes are baked hygienically because of a constant flow of pure, fresh warm air through the oven. The aerated oven can be secured only on a SOUVENIR. For that reason there is not a range on the market that equals it.
