Theologians' Sermon

Rev. Ernest Thorneycroft, delivered an address at the weekly Convocation hall, noon. The subject of his address was "The changing form of Joseph's coat." The father soiled and torn in pieces. The man jumped to the my son's coat. Joseph's coat was torn in pieces. In the morning he is followed by voices to-day, Men, Mark Antony, in the cause pain by a sign that a torn garment is a lost life.

Religious life cannot be expressed, nor is it a thing. The form is religion. Some men of Paul and of John picking out the com that this is the co so far from being the is a faith which ne tence, indistinctly exist for a time, l soon assume definite
