AN UNFIT FIRE HORSE

THE CITY COUNCIL HEARS THE EVIDENCE.

Ald. Ross Admitted the Horse Had Splints When Purchased—Ald. Carson Declared it Should Never Have Been Bought.

The fire department horse question received three-quarters of an hour discussion at the city council meeting last evening. It arose when Ald. Elliott moved, seconded by Ald. Carson, that the committee on fire and light be requested to report to this council forthwith the number of horses now owned by the corporation; from whom purchased; price paid for each and by whom purchased; and their condition when purchased; and their present condition for the service of the city.

Ald. Ross, chairman of the fire and light committee, said he was willing to have a full investigation, and put the witnesses under oath.

Ald. Chown accused Ald. Elliott of unworthy motives in bringing the matter before the council at this time. He termed his action as nasty and cowardly.

Mayor Nowat insisted that Ald. Chown withdraw the word "cowardly" and Ald. Chown did so. The chairman of committees were scarcely expected to be authorities on the purchase of horses. Ald. Carson perhaps was an exception. Horses purchased even on the recommendation of veterinary surgeons had turned out had after purchase, and even the veterinary might not be to blame. Ald. Henderson thought it would be better if Ald. Elliott brought some definite charges against some particular horse in the fire department. Nothing was to be gained by going into the history of all the department horses.

Ald. Angrove wanted some definite charges made. It was unfair to throw out insinuations as he claimed Ald. Elliott had done. Let the latter make some particular charge.

Ald. Elliott stated that the first insinuation he had of there being an unsound horse in the fire department was in an article published in the press and signed by "Taxpayer." He did what he conceived to be his duty as an alderman, and brought up the matter at the last meeting of the city council. Unfortunately, Ald. Ross, chairman of the fire committee, was not present, and he should be at the council meeting. As for Ald. Chown's statement that his action was cowardly, Ald. Elliott wished to say that he might lack some qualities, but not cowardly as he had been called.

The horse in question, Ald. Elliott declared, was now lame. It is in a boarding stable at the corporation's expense and another horse has had to be hired at the expense of the city to take its place. Ald. Elliott referred to an article in the News, stating that if all the city horse dealers were looked into, Ald. Carson would show up favorably. If Ald. Carson was guilty of purchasing a damaged horse as the present committee had done, then Ald. Elliott said he wanted him brought to justice. The fire committee was partly responsible for the purchase, but more so the veterinary surgeon in the employment of the city.

Ald. Elliott declared that he was prepared to prove that the last horse purchased by Ald. Ross and his committee was unsound when purchased; that it was lanky, and had rimbones and splints. He had sworn to this in his possession of the horse. For this horse was given $230 of the city's money. The person responsible for the report of the soundness of the horse should be asked to pay up the $230 or pay the difference between the cost of a good horse and the sum that would be realized by the sale of the unsound one.

In reply to Ald. Nickle, Ald. Elliott said he would be satisfied to receive a report upon the horse in question rather than to bother about going into details concerning long past purchases for the fire department.

Ald. Ross said that he had appointed a sub-committee to purchase a team of horses last summer. They couldn't get what they wanted, and decided to wait. Then in September one of the department horses gave out and they had to make a purchase in order to give a proper fire service. They could do no better than purchase a horse getting from John Mahoney, of Wells Island, for $230. When the animal was bought, Ald. Ross said he knew it had a splint, but held that that did not interfere with its value. He declared that Ald. Elliott's other charges as to the horse's condition. It was never lanky, he said. For nearly two weeks it did its work in the station. Then something went wrong with it. Ald. Ross produced an affidavit of John Mahoney, who sold the horse, declaring that the animal showed no signs of lameness when he sold it, and that it was quite sound at the time of purchase. Mr. Mahoney offered to take it back and replace it with its half brother, six years old. Ald. Ross said that the horse being used in its stead was sound, and the other horse is now ready to be shod and be put to work again.

Ald. Carson denied the News or Ald. Elliott to connect him with any crooked deal inside or outside of the city. As to the horse Ald. Ross had purchased, Ald. Carson declared it was barfooted when bought, and that it had two splints. No veterinary surgeon, he declared, should recommend for a fire department a horse with splints or blighted in any way. The city depends upon good horses for safety from fire, and it is folly to put poor horses into fire stations. The horse in question, the speaker said, was sore on those splints at the present time. Splints are at unsoundness. A perfect fire horse must have sound legs. A man accustomed to buy horses would not buy that horse, purchased by Ald. Ross's committee, as a true horse. The city should not buy young horses but all broken horses for its fire department.

meat. Ald. Carson said he had purchased many horses, and he had put up his money on his judgment. He could never sell to any fire department a horse that would interfere or had a splint or was flat-footed.

Ald. Elliott pointed out that by the admission of Ald. Ross, a horse had been purchased having splints. That was enough. He held that he was quite justified in seeking the information he asked for. The splints are on the horse to-day. The horse was worked only two weeks and has been kept at the expense of the city ever since. Some plan should be adopted, for the purchase of only sound fire horses, so that the city's money be not wasted and so that the fire department be not placed in a dangerous condition.

Ald. Nickle criticized Ald. Elliott for his action in bringing up the horse question. His purpose, he declared, was to raise evidence to tumble on Ald. Ross, a mayoralty candidate. The city veterinary, Dr. Nicholls, says that the horse became lame because it was crossed at its mid-section. Splints did not necessarily lame a horse. The animal likely bruised his feet when being driven over the city streets.

Ald. Elliott said he wished it understood that he did not accuse Ald. Ross of being a party to any crooked deal. The purchase of the horse was simply a lack of good judgment. This ended the discussion.

A Year-Book Problem Solved—The Junior Year Social-Dramatic Club to Buy Scenery.

Prof. P. G. C. Campbell read a paper on "The Roman Religion," at the regular meeting of the Philosophical Society, last evening. The attendance was large and was by no means confined to the philosophy students. Prof. Campbell's paper dealt in an interesting and comprehensive manner with the religion of ancient Rome, dwelling at considerable length upon their conceptions of the various Roman gods. The speaker stated that the paper was but a cursory survey of the subject, and did not enter upon questions such as the Roman conception of immortality, etc.

Secretary D. A. Carmichael, of the Alma Mater Society, has arranged to be in the A.M.S. executive room during the following hours, to issue railway certificates: Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, 11-12 a.m. and 1-2 p.m.; Wednesday, 11-12 a.m. and 3-4 p.m.

Heretofore there have been two candidates for the vice-presidency of the Alma Mater Society. The candidates receiving the larger number of votes has been accustomed to fill the first vice-presidency, while the defeated candidate becomes second vice-president. In future there will be two candidates for each office, according to notice of motion on the A.M.S. records.

A meeting of the students whose homes are in Western Ontario, was held in the new arts building, yesterday afternoon, when it was announced that the G.T.R. would furnish a special coach from Kingston to Toronto on condition that at least forty students travelled in the car. The committee in securing the signatures of those who are willing to accede to this arrangement, and there is little doubt that the coach will be secured.

Many of the students who, for good and sufficient reasons, such as approaching examinations, did not have an opportunity of seeing the Dramatic Club's presentation of "Twelfth Night," last Thursday evening, were present at the Grand, last evening, when the play was repeated. The members of the cast were perhaps in even better form than on the previous occasion, and accounts of several rehearsals in the interim.

Many of the students who are attending Prof. Cappon's course of lectures on "Art," attended the exhibition of paintings held under the auspices of the Ladies' Art Association of the city, on Friday.

The arts students of the junior year are holding their annual social evening in the new arts building, this evening. There had evidently been revealed to the energetic committee in charge of the affair, a pretension that the attendance would suffer as a result of several mid-session examinations, which will form a dire termination of the autumn term. According to the bulletin, announcement of a large social evening concluded with the earnest exhortation, "Be sports, and do not let exams interfere."

Sinclair Hamilton, who has been in charge of the Dramatic Club for the past two weeks, left for his home in Brampton to-day.

The sophomores consider that they have at length solved the year-book problem. Their year-book will be published next year, and by this means they hope to dispose of every book published, rather than having a large number of books left on the committee's hands, as was the case with the '07 year-book last spring. The idea is an excellent one, and, if successful, it will probably be adopted by the various year societies of posterity.
