'Saved Her Friend.

Ottawa, Ont.—Acquaintances of Mrs. M. E. Dewar, of this city, are showering her with congratulations on being rescued from what promised to be a hopeless invalidism. Mrs. Dewar had not been herself for years. Physicians treated her for various complaints, but none of them did any permanent good. Finally, a friend determined that something must be done and that quickly. So she insisted on Mrs. Dewar trying "Fruit-a-tives"—those wonderful Fruit Liver Tablets that are curing so many people. Here is what Mrs. Dewar says about "Fruit-a-tives": "I have much pleasure in stating that I have found 'Fruit-a-tives' the best medicine I ever used for Constipation and Biliousness. I suffered from headaches of a severe kind for a long time, but, after taking 'Fruit-a-tives,' I have become entirely well. I can, with every confidence, recommend 'Fruit-a-tives' to anyone suffering from Constipation, Biliousness or Headaches."

Calomel, salts, oil and other violent cathartics act simply on the bowels. "Fruit-a-tives" are a liver tonic and stimulant. They act directly on the liver, reducing inflammation and increasing the flow of bile. Besides insuring complete digestion, bile makes the bowels move. That is why "Fruit-a-tives" also cure Constipation. They are made of fruit and tonics. 50c a box; 4 for $2.00. At all druggists, or sent on receipt of price. Fruit-a-tives, Limited, Ottawa, Ont.

The most conclusive evidence that there is no tonic better than Obstinate coughs yield to its grateful soothing action, and in the racking, persistent cough, often present in Consumptive cases, it gives prompt and sure relief. In Asthma and Bronchitis it is a successful remedy, rendering breathing easy and natural, enabling the sufferer to enjoy refreshing sleep and often effecting a permanent cure."

Mrs. C. Townsend, Lockport, N.S., writes: "I feel it my duty to let you know of my experience with Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I was troubled with a cold and severe cough all the time, and very severe spells of Asthma. The doctor did all they could for me, but could only give me relief for a short time. I happened to see your medicine advertised and purchased three bottles, and it gave me great relief, and I do not cough at all. I do not know how to express my gratitude for what Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup has done for me."

FASHION'S FORM.

Design For Gown of Cloth or Velvet.

The costume pictured is a very graceful model for cloth or velvet. The gown is in princess style, the skirt portion being cut in a pointed tunic, which falls over a sweeping under-skirt. The model was in marine blue broadcloth, trimmed with satin bands or edges to match and souche braid. Ball ornaments or fringe in the same shade of blue finish the edges of the open sleeves, the guimpe and elbow length undersleeves being of Chantilly lace. Oriental embroidery in blue, gold and green was used for the little plastron in front, a band of the same embroidery being used about the sleeves.

REPORTER GOT INCREASE.

Prepared For "Scoop" in Way Which Proved Him Honor to Journalism.

The new reporter came in covered with dust as the last form went down to press.

"Did it take you all day to do that water work report?" snarled the editor.

"Seh; speak low," whispered the new "specialist" in the editor's ear. "Get on an AI-roads in the park—deflation, probably."

"Great Caesar; and we've gone to press," gasped the editor. "The afternoon papers will get ahead of us to-morrow."

"Wait much," chuckled the reporter. "I knew I couldn't get here in time for the last edition, so I just queered the find."

"Why, I dragged the body into the bushes and covered it over with grass and things. A bloodhound couldn't find it. To-morrow we develop matter, and give 'em a two-column sensation."

With tears in his eyes the editor arose and fell upon his subordinate's neck. "You are an honor to your profession," he sobbed. "I'll see that your salary is increased half a crown a month. I will, by Jingo!"

Booth on Marriage.

General Booth, after eight weeks' incessant labor in the United States, had departed for England.

"A quarter of an hour before he sailed the septuagenarian leader, after bidding an affecting farewell to his daughter, whom he leaves behind as commander of the Salvationist forces in this continent, expressed his delight at the progress of his great work in the United States.

"The Salvation Army," he said, "is rapidly adapting itself to the needs of this great nation."

"At one time I entertained a fear that it would be more difficult here than in other countries to induce the average citizen to accept a religion that dragged him down to a level, as it were, with the rough for his salvation. There is no such in such work, but the American soil is becoming a splendid seed-ground for the highest kind of Salvationist."

The general said that if his life were spared he intended traveling in the spring to Africa.

"I shall there," he said, "put into operation the most novel colonization scheme since Moses led the Israelites. Africa is neither so cold as Canada nor so far away as Australia. It has room for all the unemployed in Britain, and I intend to plant them there."

A lady reporter here intervened with the inevitable series of questions on American morality. "Ah! it is a bad world," answered the aged evangelist, "but it is growing more civilized every day. In America I have noticed greater material progress, but the hearts of the men and women are harder burning from God."

"The men are worse than the women, for they should direct the women. They snare their innocence. They dazzle them with the glitter of gold. Then these women become trappers in turn to ensnare men."

"The difference is that when the men are tired of setting traps they go home to their mothers, and say, 'I am going to be good now.' And the mother says, 'Come to church next Sunday. Your father will find you a fine position and I will get you a beautiful girl as wife.' That is what happens to the fallen man. But who cares for the fallen woman? Only the Salvation Army."

The general's remedy for prevalent evils was to teach women not to look at marriages as the sole end of life. "Let women be saved by the grace of their own, and leave getting married to the Lord. He will find them husbands if they need them."

Relics of Ancient Civilization.

Discoveries of considerable importance to students of ancient Hebraic history are communicated to the German Palestine Society by Prof. Ernst Sellin, the chief of the excavations between 2300 and 4300 years B. C. Excavations conducted by Prof. Sellin near Eriha (Jericho) seem to confirm the theory first mooted by Flavius Josephus, the famous Jewish historian, that the site of the original city of Jericho destroyed by Joshua at the sound of the trumpets is to be found a mile beyond the Fountain of Elisha, spoken of in II. Kings, ii., 18-22.

After the clearing away of a huge mound of debris the remains of an ancient stronghold were laid bare, measuring some 1,300 feet long by 600 feet wide, surrounded by a wall of burnt clay, ten feet high. These, Prof. Sellin declares are the best preserved relics of those remote times ever found in Palestine.

In the seventeen apartments or chambers of this fortress interesting household objects were found, such as cooking ovens and stone knives. The most important finds are a hitherto unknown kind of ceramic, consisting of jars and lamps, many of exquisite workmanship and ornamented with images of animals, which remind experts of the best examples of Babylonian art. Among other objects brought to light are plates, mortars, grindstones and weights.

Of special interest, according to Prof. Sellin, is a stone image eight inches high and a jar, unfortunately damaged, bearing ancient Hebraic characters, which are held to furnish proof that the Canaanites were well acquainted with these peculiar inscriptions at an earlier period than previous researches indicated.

AN INTELLIGENT ANIMAL.

Hunter With Sagacity Almost of a Human Being.

A horse which is better than a watchdog, and has a speaking tube installed between his table and his owner's bedroom, is an example of animal intelligence which it would be hard to excel even in a circus.

The horse referred to belongs to Mrs. Wadhams-Petre of Mauds-vale, England, and is an old bay hunter of fifteen hands. As a consequence of good treatment and pelting for several years he has developed a really remarkable sagacity.

His name is Birthday, and when called he opened two doors, raising the latches with his nose, and came out in response to the summons.

Birthday's stable is under part of his owner's house, and Mrs. Wadhams-Petre has had a trap-door made in the floor of her room on the second storey and a speaking tube about five inches in diameter fixed to run straight down to the stable, where the horse's end of the tube is over his manger.

Birthday is often heard neighing or whinnying in the night, and, said Mrs. Wadhams-Petre, "there are about thirty different calls he can make. If I go to the trap-door and say, 'Hello, boy,' I can tell by the tone of his response whether he is disturbed by anything or is hungry, or merely quite comfortable and content."

"The other night we heard him neighing persistently, and my husband at last went down to see what was the matter. The horse had evidently been disturbed, and, though we found no traces of undesirable visitors, it is certain somebody had been prowling around. Birthday is even better than a watchdog, because he knows exactly who is approaching the house by the sound of the footsteps."

Dogs On the Battlefield.

Since dogs have proved to be such able assistants to the Paris police corps why shouldn't they be trained to re-enforce the hospital and ambulance services of the French army?

The advantages of this innovation have been set forth at some length by Dr. Bichelonne and Capt. Tolet, of the French army, in a volume which has just been published. It is entitled "Dog as an Aid to the Sanitary Corps."

That dogs should be taught to seek out the wounded on the battlefield is no new idea. The experiment was tried with success at the time of the Boer war, and at the battle of Cha-Ho in the conflict in the Far East three dogs sent out by the German Alliance discovered twenty-three soldiers who had been given up for lost.

In 1880, by the order of the German War Minister, dogs were added to the sanitary corps of one of the crack regiments. Since then clubs for the training of dogs in war time have been formed in Dresden, Cologne, Cobourg, Aix-la-Chapelle and Newswick. Similar societies have been organized in Holland, Sweden and Italy. In fact all of the European countries have turned their attention to the subject at one time or other except France.

Dr. Bichelonne and Capt. Tolet urge the military authorities to repair this omission. There are many good breeds of dogs in France which would take easily to the military training.

It is an unappreciated fact, these authors say, that after an engagement there are many wounded and dying who are overlooked by the nurses and litter-carriers. A case in point is quoted. At the battle of Rezonville, in 1870, two injured soldiers lay for three days in a ravine. The ground had been gone over many times by the ambulance service and yet they had not been found. In instances like this the usefulness of dogs as scouts is unquestioned.

It is a wonder that European armies have not awakened long before this last decade to the importance of dogs as practical helpers in war time, the author thinks. On the battlefield the role of these canine assistants would be very much the same as that of the St. Bernard dogs—and they have been rescuing snowbound travelers for several centuries.

Blind Men Get Lost in Fog. Nothing has such a bewildering effect as fog, says a London exchange. Only animals which find their way by scent can get about in it with any certainty. Birds are entirely confused by it. Tame pigeons remain all day motionless and half-asleep, huddled either in or just outside their houses. Chickens remain motionless for hours during heavy fogs. No bird sings or utters a call, perhaps because it fears to betray its whereabouts to an unseen foe. During one very thick fog a blind man was found wandering about a certain district of London. This man was in the habit of coming up every day from a suburb, carrying noise and parcels, and had scarcely ever lost his way before. Asked why he had gone astray, for he was quite blind, and it was supposed that weather would have made no difference, he said that in a fog the ground "sounded quite different."

Turtle Hung On.

Jimmie Roberts, the ten-year-old son of William Roberts, a Big Beaver township farmer, teased a twenty-pound turtle by poking sticks at it and getting too close it seized his leg, and all efforts to make it let go proved futile. Red pepper was thrown into its eyes. Kerosene was squirted into its mouth, and finally a red hot poker was thrust between its jaws, but still it held on. Finally Mrs. Roberts grabbed the turtle's tail, and while she pulled until its neck was well stretched, the farmer cut off its head with the cutting-knife. This detached the turtle from the boy, but the jaws retained their hold on his leg.

The parents were afraid to attempt cutting the head loose, so Mr. Roberts, Jimmie and the turtle's head got into the harness and hauled to the office of Dr. E. C. Kerwin, of Homewood. The physician succeeded in cutting the turtle's head from the boy's leg. An ugly hole that will be a long time in healing was left.

Read Dr. Hamilton's Explanation On Real Cause of Indigestion.

My experience and study indicate that 90 per cent. of dyspeptics have slow liver, weak kidneys and constipated bowels.

These important organs get out of gear, then—an extra burden on the stomach which can't handle and the result is indigestion.

My remedy will cure you. I call my remedy Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butterfat, and I recommend it, because I have proved it does cure chronic stomach trouble.

When you look at the formula of Dr. Hamilton's Pills you will see that they contain vegetable extracts that every physician admits are splendid tonics for the kidneys, liver and bowels.

Everyone knows the virtue of Mandrake, Butterfat, Dandelion and Hyocscamus. These health-giving juices and extracts are carefully combined with other principles so as to produce a pill of wonderful efficiency that even children can safely use. If you feel heavy and dull after meals, use Dr. Hamilton's Pills. If your tongue is furred, or you have bad taste and offensive breath, use Dr. Hamilton's Pills. If you have a full, choking feeling in the throat and chest, Dr. Hamilton's Pills are badly needed. If your head aches, you feel dizzy, no appetite and a desire to rest, your liver is at fault and needs the stimulation given by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Think it over, Dr. Hamilton's Pills are a system cleaner and health bringer of unusual merit, and they are safe for young and old.

My guarantee stands behind each box, proving my great confidence in the remedy I recommended: 25c. per box or five for $1; at all dealers, and be sure you get the genuine Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butterfat.
