JAMES P. GILDERSLEEVE
ONE OF KINGSTON'S HONORED CITIZENS.

A Sketch of His Career—Was an Alderman Five Years—Thinks That King Edward Did Enter Kingston in 1860 at Night.

No name has been so prominent in the history of Kingston since the year 1818, than that of Gildersleeve, and no family has done more for Kingston, than the Gildersleeves. A prominent member of that family, is James P. Gildersleeve, city registrar. He is the youngest son of the late Henry Gildersleeve, of Connecticut, who came to Kingston in 1817 or 1818 and became the pioneer of steamboat navigation in this district. He started shipbuilding on the Bay of Quinte, near Bath, and carried it on there, and at Kingston, till his death in 1851. The eldest son, Overton, carried on the steamboat business till 1864, and was succeeded by his brother Charles P., who continued it till his death two years ago. All three brothers—Overton, Charles and James—were brought up in the legal profession, but discarded it.

Mr. Gildersleeve's first ancestor on this continent was Richard Gildersleeve, born in 1691, in Hertfordshire, Eng. and who came to America, and is mentioned in colonial records as the owner of 255 Acres of land in Wethersfield, Conn.

The career of James P. Gildersleeve has been quiet and uneventful, yet it has been one of marked interest. He was born in Kingston in 1840, and was educated at Mr. Coombs' private school, the Kingston grammar school and Upper Canada College. On returning home, he studied law in the office of Sir Henry Smith and James Henderson. In 1863, he was called to the bar, having previously, in the same year, won the degree of bachelor of laws at Queen's University. There was a class of five in the law course. Of the five three survive—A. T. Drummond, Toronto, and Judge Price and Mr. Gildersleeve of Kingston. Mr. Gildersleeve was the first graduate of Queen's law faculty, and received his instructions from the late Judge Burrows and the late Judge Draper, who were the lecturers of the faculty. He practiced law in partnership with the late Dr. R. T. Walker, K.C., for ten years, the firm being Messrs. Gildersleeve & Walker. Then he retired from the legal profession, and entered the insurance and steamship agency business, in which he continued till 1907, since which time he has been in charge of the city registry office.

From 1878, to 1882, Mr. Gildersleeve was a member of the city council, representing Sydenham ward for five successive years. For three years he was chairman of parks, and did valuable work. It was Mr. Gildersleeve who had the drainage system installed in the City Park. Prior to that time, the park could not be used till the middle of June. After the inauguration of a drainage system, the people were enabled to use it two months earlier (unfortunately, in later years, after Mr. Gildersleeve's retirement from the council, the benefit of this drainage work was largely nullified by the building of the King street walk in front of the park, which blocked up all the outlets of the surface drains leading to that fresh outlet).

During Mr. Gildersleeve's chairmanship and at his instigation, that old eyecore in the City park, the observatory building, was demolished and the telescope and apparatus removed to Queen's College grounds, where they have since been of real practical use in the education of the students.

Mr. Gildersleeve would up his municipal career by an act which immediately set a stunning example to the citizens of Kingston, viz., the removal of the park fences, those blotches on the landscape which had been allowed to exist from time immemorial. Residential property, in the vicinity of the park, immediately rose about thirty per cent. in value and front fences began coming down all over the city. He has always advocated a park commission, claiming that the parks can never be a complete success until managed in that way. In 1864, Mr. Gildersleeve went to Europe, remaining for eight months, during which time he visited nearly every country of that continent. He married a Miss Rose Morrisburg, daughter of the late Isaac N. Rose, superintendent of canals, and has three children, Arthur in Denver, Col., and Ernest and Miss Mabel, of this city.

In religion, Mr. Gildersleeve is an Anglican and in politics a Liberal. He always worked for physical sports, such as cricket, rowing, skating, tobogganing and snow-shoeing—and was prominent in them all. (Even yet skating is not a lost art with him.) In 1860 he recalls that the Kingston cricket team defeated all the crack clubs in Canada without exception.

In 1863-64, Mr. Gildersleeve took a course in the military school depot in Kingston, and received a certificate. It was a member of the First Provincial Regiment, known as the "Bloody First."

Since taking charge of the registry office, Mr. Gildersleeve has accomplished a very arduous, difficult and complicated work, which, now that it is completed, will be of lasting benefit to all real property owners on the old "Farm Lot 24," viz., the condensing, simplifying and abstracting of the title to all properties within the boundaries of the farm lot. Heretofore it has been practically impossible to examine the title to any of these properties, now, owing to Mr. Gildersleeve's thorough "cleaning of the Augean stable," it is easy work.

Mr. Gildersleeve was returning officer for the city at nearly all the dominion and provincial elections from 1886 to 1902.

In 1869, when about twenty years of age, Mr. Gildersleeve was aboard the old steamer Bay of Quinte, one of the fleet of boats that went down the river from Kingston to meet the Prince of Wales (now King Edward). In coming back, the Bay of Quinte had full steam on, and almost passed the steamer Kingston, carrying the prince. To have passed the prince's boat would have been regarded as a grave breach of etiquette. "I never heard such a noise in all my life as when the prince's boat passed the steamer Kingston harbor," said Mr. Gildersleeve. "The greeting given the prince from land and water was something tremendous."

Although the prince was not allowed to land, on account of the Orange demonstration, Mr. Gildersleeve says he is positive that he did set foot on Kingston soil at night, incognito. He thinks he landed in a small boat, and went up town with some of his staff. "I was down King street that evening," said Mr. Gildersleeve, "and noticed three strangers in front of S. P. White's cigar store. One of them went inside, and I am sure one of the others was the prince, for I had a good look at him in front of the lighted window."

A Safe Rheumatic Cure.
 In the effort to find something that would cure rheumatic affections, harsh and harmful remedies have often been used. This is totally unnecessary as has been proved by the results from Dr. Hall's rheumatic cure, which is a safe and harmless remedy. It cures because it does precisely what is required to cure in the most natural way. It assists the kidneys and liver to perform their functions properly. It neutralizes the poisonous elements in the blood and expels them from the system.

Years of success has proved its merit. Ten days' treatment, price 50c., at Wade's drug store.

Anniversary of Pastor's Reception
 There was a good number at the anniversary meeting of Calvary church, on Wednesday evening. After refreshments were served by the ladies of the congregation, the pastor, Rev. H. D. Whitmore, occupied the chair, and conducted devotional exercises. He called upon the different officers for their reports. All the branches of the work of the church and Sunday school were found very satisfactory.

QUEEN'S II TOOK IT
THE HOCKEY GAME AT THE RINK LAST NIGHT.

Both Teams Showed Lack of Practice—The Referee Was Very Strict—The General Sporting Notes.

The first intercollegiate game of the series was played at the Kingston skating rink, on Friday evening, before a very slim crowd, when Queen's II and Cadets I came together. At half time the score stood one all, and at full time five to two for Queen's. The game was fast from start to finish, and so fast a pace was set through the first period that the players could not stand it towards the end. During the last ten minutes Queen's forwards were lying back and only once or twice did they show any such speed as they did in the first period. Queen's won on Friday night, but their team is very little, if any better than the cadets'. Throughout the game lightning rushes, individually one of the sensational variety, and combined ones, when the forwards could charge down on the opponents' goal, were features of the contest. Cadets' charges were a little more frequently than Queen's.

The cadets can blame their defeat mostly on their shots, which were wide. The forward line, who would repeatedly rush on the Queen's defence, passing every one but the goalkeeper, and then they would shoot wide Queen's also made some very poor shots. Lockett being the main offender, numerical rush would get in a sensational rush from his own goal, passing the whole cadet team, and then shoot wide by four or five feet. Both teams showed clearly the want of practice; work can be greatly improved in many ways.

The game was quite vicious at times both sevens trying to mix it up. Referee Steacy put numerous men to the fence, and sometimes in his anxiety to get one, picked the wrong man. The game was full of close cross-checking, striking and slashing and jabbing with the end of the stick when in close quarters. Small penalties were imposed upon the offenders when caught. The referee at times cut his offences a little too close. Towards the end he became so strict on them that the players were passing back, and their team mates were skating over the puck.

The game was called promptly at 8:15 p.m., and was over before ten o'clock. The teams lined up:

Queen's II—Goal, Donohue; point, Hazlett; cover, Lockett; centre, Meikle; rover, Grange; wings, Roberts, George.

Cadets I—Goal, McLennan; point, Holt; cover, Parr; centre, Goodearle; rover, Watson; wings, Spain, McKenzie.

Referee—Noble Steacy.

Penalties—Queen's: Lockett, 2; Hazlett, 2; George, 2; Roberts, 2; Grange, 2. Cadets—Spain, 2; McKenzie, 2.

Second half—Queen's: Grange, 3. Cadets—Parr, 2; Spain, 3; Watson, 2.

For cadets McLennan put up one of the best games in goal that has been seen in some years. He was connected with seemingly impossible shots, and it was no accident as he would do it time after time. He received one bad one just over the heart, but was all right in a moment or two. Parr and Holt also put up a good game. The former getting in some odd individual rushes from time to time. On the forward line Spain and Watson exhibited the best form. Spain was inclined to mix up a little, but did not do any serious damage.

For Queen's Hazlett and Lockett were the best of the defence. They both played good hockey from the drop of the hat. They had some good fast charges to handle and got away with some of them in fine style. Donohue has a habit of falling in goal quite often. This is not allowed, and with some referees he would have been decried the fence so or three times during the game. Once he was stretching out full length in front of the goal posts. Meikle, Grange, Roberts and George, make a good forward line. At centre, Meikle showed up well. He is a hard worker and a clean player. He received some hard jolts at different times, but was always on his feet, when the whistle blew. Roberts, who was out of the game last year, played well his shots being always on the mark.

Is Making Good.
 "Dick" Mills is making good at hockey with the New York Athletic Club, holding down the goal in fine shape. The Athletic Club was defeated by the St. Nicholas Club this week by the margin of one goal. One report says: "Mills was a bit off kick at the start, but all the shots that got by him might well have passed the most expert goal keeper. Later, he played a brilliant game, and made some splendid stops when the St. Nicholas forwards shot the puck at him." Another report has the following: "Mills at goal, is the star Queen's University goal, whose reputation is greater than the form he showed in the opening game. It is said he is the equal of any goal tender in the league, however, when in form."
