THE HALLS OF QUEEN'S

THE MEDICAL CONCURSUS HAD A SESSION.

President Falconer, of Toronto University is to Preach in Convocation Hall To-Morrow Afternoon.

The annual session of that supreme and august court of justice, the medical concursus iniquitatis et virtutis, was held on Thursday evening in the medical building and terrible, indeed, was the punishment which it inflicted upon the half-dozen students of the medical faculty, who had been guilty of unseemly conduct. Every official of the venerable court, from Chief Justice N. J. McKinley, who presented an awe-inspiring appearance in his judicial robes, to the humblest constable, appeared to be fully cognizant of the grave responsibility of the duty to which he had been called. Throughout the evening the three judges sat with calm dignity in their high estate, while opposing counsel wrangled and witnesses gave their evidence. The chief of police was a stately man of color, as were also his burly assistants on the constabulary force. The medical experts gave forth words of professional wisdom concerning the mental and physical condition of several unfortunates, while the findings of the grand jury were unbiased and strictly in accord with that justice which is no respecter of persons, and for which the court has always stood. Here and there one caught a glimpse of a small group of arts and science men who had become so bold as to enter the arena a week before the court's punishment was meted out in no stinted fashion. The session of the court is over, but disturbers of the peace should beware lest the officials exercise their right of holding a second session.

Capt. D. E. Mundell, of the Garrison Signalling Corps, announces that any student who is a member of the Canadian militia, is cordially invited to join the signalling class which opens at the Armouries on the evening of Feb. 10th. At the close of the regular meeting a special meeting was held to consider the advisability of appointing a permanent secretary for next session. Prof. Tracy, Ph.D., of the department of philosophy, Toronto University, was to have been the speaker at the meeting of the Philosophical Society next Tuesday, but, as he has been obliged to discontinue his lectures at Toronto, on account of a recent nervous breakdown, it is scarcely likely that his address will materialize.

"Those who know," say that this evening's meeting of the Alma Mater Society will not be marked by the unanimity of a political convention or the resolutions of confidence in its leaders. LECTURE ON CHINA

By Rev. Mr. Boshart, of Stanstead College.

A fairly large audience gathered to hear the lecture on the celestial Empire, in the Sydenham Street Methodist lecture hall, on Friday evening. The conspicuous absence of young people, however, showed a pronounced Canadiana to the Chinese, who were very numerous. Nevertheless, they missed a great treat and an instructive lesson.

Rev. Mr. Sykes, on behalf of the Sunday school missionary committee, welcomed the lecturer, Rev. Mr. Boshart, of Stanstead College, Quebec, and introduced him to the audience. Mr. Boshart, a typical "real live Methodist," captured his audience almost with his first sentence.

It was his purpose, he said, to depart from the usual missionary description of China, although it was impossible to give one side of the question alone. But he desired to present China at its best and in a word to show that China was worth saving. He had been asked a good deal about the Boxers and whether he thought there would be another uprising. He said: "I hope so and if I were there I'd be a Boxer of Boxers."

Mr. Boshart said one of the first things he saw on reaching Shanghai was a sign posted in the pleasure gardens of the British legation, "No dogs allowed," meaning the Chinese. "Tell me," he said, "if the Chinese opened a garden in Canada and put up such a sign what do you think the result would be? I tell you it would only be there until I, for one, could tear it down and go for the man who attempted to replace it."

At Foochow, on the jetty, he saw a Britisher take his umbrella and brandish it right and left in a Chinese crowd to clear his path, shouting "Get out, get out!" After that who could wonder at the Boxer rising.

He went on to describe the business ability, the ingenuity, and the civilization of the Chinese, even while our fathers were yet painted savages. He warned Canada as a nation that China should come to Canada, either as Christians or otherwise. Japanese officers are training their cavalry, in one province, there are 600 troops and China has practically a standing army of a million. He prophesied revenge for the opium traffic, which Britain thrust on her and which she has never legalized. The pictures of Chinese life and customs with an abundance of souvenirs, constituted a unique and instructive lecture.
