COMMUNE WITH CHRIST

SERMON BY DR. MILLIGAN, OF TORONTO.

The Obligation of the Christian Set Forth—The Way to Get Near to the Saviour Set Forth By the Great Preacher.

Despite the snowstorm, which raged yesterday afternoon, Convocation hall was filled to its utmost capacity, the exceptionally large attendance being doubtless due to the fact that the speaker was Rev. G. M. Milligan, D. D., LL.D., pastor of old St. Andrew's church, Toronto. His text was, Matthew VII, 7: "Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you."

The sermon on the mount, of which the text formed a part, set forth the obligations of the Christian, obligations which could only be discharged through divine aid. The followers of Christ must set aside every worldly idol and entrust God alone in their hearts. What was impossible to man was possible for God, and hence we should never cease to avail ourselves through prayer, of His infinite power. A proud, vain man could receive nothing from God, and herein consisted one of the great dangers of learning. We could enjoy no peace and quietude in life so long as we were harassed with doubts concerning our relation to God. We should impress upon ourselves the fact that God had forgiven us the slightest trace of hostility in His attitude toward us. To realize the sinfulness of sin we must bring home to ourselves the truth that God alone could deliver us from our guilt. We should pray for humility,—one of the greatest obstacles to the Christian life was egotism, the conviction that we were not as other men.

Why should the Christian man seek intercourse with God? Because, in himself, man was but a poor fragmentary creature at best, and hence his approaches to God should be characterized by the utmost humility. We did not commune with God to have our nature suppressed, but to have it strengthened and enriched through His spiritual endowments. We should not be content with mumbling prayers, reading theological works and attending prayer meetings; we should strive to exercise the power of initiative with all the energy at our command. The follower of Christ kept in view one standard, and the path which led thereto shone more and more into the perfect day. And the Christian's efforts to attain his ideal proved that this world was an ordered, intelligible system, not a mere chaos, in which things came to all. Christ had no disturbing fears to dissipate. His peace of mind, as His consciousness was of the unbroken, religious character. And this religious consciousness resulted, in mortal man, from the intensifying of his own self-consciousness. But to become possessed of this intensity of self-consciousness, and to bring forth fruit, we must be joined to God; apart from Him we could do nothing.

That God was a social being was established by the very conception of the Trinity. And as a social being, He was necessarily communicable from the human point of view. But we should realize that God's truth could not be manifested in any fantastic fashion—Jesus did not hurl Himself from the pinnacle of the temple at the devil's instigation. Determined seeking would reveal our own nature to ourselves, and would also bring us into fellowship with God.

"Knock and it shall be opened unto you," said the text. We could not be too bold in our supplications to God, as it was His desire to be near to us. We would find it utterly impossible to lead a Christian life unless we kept good company, the company of Christ. By causing our light to shine we would make men covetous of our Christian attributes, but before our light would shine we must keep company with God and ever press forward to the mark of our high calling. In the poet's words:

"Oh, that a man might rise in me, That the man I am—might cease to be."
"Be nearer to us than breathing, and closer than hands and feet." Prayer was not a presumptuous attempt on the part of the finite human being, to dictate to the Infinite Being; it was but an effort, encouraged by

JAPAN WANTS INDEMNITY AND APOLOGY.

Will Resort to Force Unless Demands Are Conceded—China Wants Matter to Go to a Mixed Court.

Tokio, March 2.—The Japanese government is maintaining a determined attitude concerning the seizure of Tatsunaru, and demands both an apology and an indemnity from China.

The Chinese foreign office wants to submit the entire question to a mixed court. This is refused by the Japanese government unless the vessel has first been released and an apology made for insult to the flag. It appears that Tatsunaru was regularly cleared from Kobe with a consignment of arms and ammunition for Manchu. The Portuguese minister at Peking supports the contention of Viscount Hayashi, the Japanese minister of foreign affairs, that the vessel was seized in Portuguese waters.

It is believed here among officers that the Chinese will finally yield to the demands of Japan. It is said by the Japanese officials that no ultimatum has been issued, and that the sailing of the Japanese cruiser Izumi for Hong Kong is not intended as a threat.

It is evident, however, that the Japanese will resort to force unless their demands are conceded within a reasonable time.

MARRIED FIFTY YEARS.

Mr. and Mrs. James Keen, of Loughboro Township.

An event of unusual interest took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. James Keen, Loughboro, on Sunday, being the celebration of their golden wedding, the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage. Fifty years ago, on March 1st, 1858, wedding bells rang out from St. Mary's cathedral, and on Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Keen looking back after the lapse of half a century were reminded of that happy event. In that half century great changes have taken place both in their native city and the township in which they reside. Fifty years ago, Kingston could boast of but few of the thriving industries she is now a thickly wooded, uncultivated land. Mr. Keen was one of the first enterprising young pioneers to help make what it is to-day, rich in fertile cultivated soil, with a happy and prosperous people.

Owing to the continued ill-health of Mrs. Keen only a few of the most intimate relatives were invited to felicitate the golden jubiliarians, but congratulations and kind wishes from Kingston, Gananoque, Syracuse and Seattle, Wash., as well as valuable and useful presents testified the affectionate good will of loving children.

Mr. and Mrs. Keen are the only residents of Loughboro who have lived to celebrate their golden jubilee, and their numerous friends join with the Whig in wishing them still many long years to nobly fulfil their sphere in life.

"There's No Money In It."
Rev. Dr. Milligan, in his sermon in St. Andrew's church, last evening, spoke regretfully about money being the object of young men's endeavors to-day. "Ask most young men to-day what the chief end of man is and he'll say to make money and have a good time."

"Not long ago, on a Sunday afternoon, I asked a boy if he would not like to be a minister. 'No,' he replied. 'And why?' I asked. 'There's no money in it,' was his answer."

"When on a visitation in Toronto, lately, I thought I would make further inquiry to a kind spirit in life in a certain quarter. So I asked another young man the same question: 'Would you like to be a minister?' And the answer was the same as before. 'No.' 'Why,' I asked, 'because there's no money in it.'"

Case Again Enlarged.
The case in which a young man is charged by the humane society, with ill-treating a horse, was again enlarged for a day, at the police court this morning. Magistrate Farrell spent Sunday in Bedford, and as the train from there had not reached the city at 10.30 o'clock, the adjournment was crowded with witnesses and spectators. J. B. Walkem is appearing for the prosecution, and T. J. Rigney for the defence. This was the only case on the docket this morning.

Presenters For Their Teachers.
At the conclusion of the musical recital held in the Y.I.C.B.A. hall, on Friday evening, Miss Sullivan's pupils presented her with a very flattering address, a handsome clock and a jardiniere. Miss Ida Shaw, on behalf of the pupils, read the address, and Miss Marjory Clifford and Miss Grace Smith made the presentation. Miss Sullivan was completely taken by surprise, and requested Rev. Father Hanley to say a few words in reply, which the reverend gentleman did in his usual kindly manner.

Concentrate At Quebec.
It is rumored that the military authorities are considering the mobilizing of 25,000 men at Quebec and Point Lewis in lieu of the various camps throughout Ontario and Quebec. The men would undergo training and would also be a special attraction at the ten-centenary proceedings in the ancient capital. It is also said that Gen. Sir John French will be a British visitor to the great camp.

Married At The Palace.
A quiet wedding was solemnized at the Bishop's Palace, on Monday morning, by the archbishop, when Miss Annie Lybch, was married to Robert E. Harpell. Miss B. Lynch, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and John Tierney was groomsmen. Mr. and Mrs. Harpell left at noon for the west on their honeymoon, after which they will take up residence at Escott.

May Go To The West.

FOUR BURNED TO DEATH.

Father and Three Children Perished—A Son's Heroism.
Buffalo, N. Y., March 1.—Anthony Schultz, fifty-five years old, and three of his oldest children, Nellie, thirteen, Joseph, eleven, and May, eight, were burned to death in a small fire in the business section of Depew, ten miles from here, early Sunday. Mrs. Schultz had her four youngest children with her, and the family lived up a staircase in a frame house. Downstairs George Hedneack runs a saloon, living in the rear with his wife. Last night Hedneack and his wife slept in another part of the town, where they had gone to visit a relative. The flames were discovered by a watchman at the Gould Coupler Works, a few blocks distant. He gave the alarm. By the time the firemen had arrived Walter Schultz, the oldest son, who lives next door to the Schultz home, had been awakened. He ran up the flame-choked staircase and carried his mother safely to the street. Again he went into the burning building and located the youngest children and helped rescue them. By that time the whole house was wrapped in flames. The fire was too fierce to attempt further rescue. The blackened bodies of the others were found an hour after the fire started.
