Invalid Ladies This Is For You.

There are thousands of females who suffer untold miseries common to their sex. This is largely due to the peculiar habits of life and fashion, and the improper training of girlhood. Then, too, the physical changes that mark the three or four of womanhood (the maiden, the wife, and the mother) have much to do with her sufferings, most of which are endured in silence, unknown by even the family physician and most intimate friends.

To all such whose hollow cheeks, pale faces, sunken eyes and feeble footsteps, indicate nervousness, palpitation of the heart, weak, faint and dizzy spells, we would earnestly recommend a course of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Mrs. Jos. Sharp, Brighton, Ont., writes: "I was troubled with palpitation of the heart, weak spells and nervous trouble, and found no relief until advised to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I got one box and that helped me so much I sent and got five more. I am now cured completely."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. per box or three boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

CITY COUNCIL SESSION

THE FIRE HORSE QUESTION AGAIN DEBATED.

The Horse Criticized Last December is Now to Be Sold—Aldermen Elliott and Rigney Were the Chief Speakers.

Mayor Ross and Aldermen Angrave, Chown, Couper, Craig, Elliott, Givens, Graham, Hanley, Henderson, Kent, McCann, McCartney, Nickle, Rigney, Robertson, Toye and Hoag were present at the city council meeting, last evening. There was very little business to transact and adjournment took place at 8:50 o'clock. These communications were referred to committees:

Communications. I. McConville, secretary public library, asking for annual grant, $500. Manager Bank British North America, asking repairs to messenger's premises.

E. G. Gildersleeve, asking to have the agreement regarding an electric pole line between J. M. Campbell and the city of Kingston, dated December 19th, 1904, transferred to him.

Cereal company, asking to have a by-law passed giving them ten years further exemptions from taxation on the elevator.

W. J. Burns, asking for rebate of taxes. R. J. McLelland, asking for increase in salary. George Sexton, complaining of unsanitary condition of cellar.

George Darragh and others, asking for an arc light at the corner of King and Union streets.

The following recommendations of the finance committee were adopted: That the Trades and Labor Council be notified that in reference to their communication that whereas the present agreement with the street railway company will terminate during the term of office of this year's council, that they call attention of next year's city council at the time this agreement is being considered.

That this council petition the dominion government to prepare and make Cedar Island a public recreation park. Reports of the board of works, water works, light and power and fire committees were adopted.

In connection with the board of works' report, information was asked as to the proposed contract with Alexander Tait. Ald. Graham said that Mr. Tait would be able to supply all the stone the city required. By making a contract with him, the city would be saving purchasing an $8,000 crushing plant.

Ald. McCartney asked why Street Foreman Timms' salary was being increased to $60 a month. Ald. Graham said Mr. Timms was worth the money, and that he had better offer to go elsewhere. Ald. Toye, McCann and Craig supported the increase, and declared that the foreman was a valuable official.

Ald. Toye wanted to know why the fire committee wished to sell the department horses known as Frank and Charley.

Ald. Rigney replied that the city veterinary had recommended that the two horses be sold, as they were unsuited to the department.

Ald. Elliott wanted to know if the horse, Frank, was the horse of affidavit fame and over which there had been a heated discussion by the city council last December.

Ald. Rigney replied that this was the horse in question, but that it was recommended to be sold, not on account of any infirmity, but because of its nervous temperament.

Ald. Elliott pointed out that the horse cost $230, and according to the affidavit of the veterinary was sound in body and limb. Ald. Nickle, he said, had defended the horse and the veterinary surgeon. Now, it had been proven that a mistake had been made in purchasing this horse. Veterinary Nichols, he said, was responsible.

Ald. Elliott wanted to know how much the city would lose by the whole transaction. The horse had done very little service, and had to be fed at the city's cost. It was up to Ald. Nickle, the speaker said, to square himself in regard to his defence of the city's veterinary. Ald. Elliott wanted to know if Dr. Nichols was prepared to put up the loss the city would sustain.

Ald. Rigney said it was not anticipated by the fire committee, that there would be any loss in the sale of the horse. The animal was being cast aside, not because it was unphysical, but because it was a hindrance for fire work, it being a high strung horse, and of nervous temperament. He couldn't give figures as to what it had cost the city to keep the horse.

Ald. Couper held that it had cost the city $280 to maintain the horse. Ald. Rigney stated that the animal that amount must be set an allowance for the work performed for the department by the horse. The discussion then dropped.

The city assessor was, on motion of Ald. McCann and Kent, instructed to bid in for the city any lots which at the tax sale do not bring the amount of overdue taxes and interest.

THE KING AND QUEEN.

Impressions Upon a Little Kingston Girl.

Possibly the many in Canada, who love the royal family will be interested in the personal impressions of a little girl who lately visited London. Up to that time my only idea of them was formed from the pictures of the king and queen that hung up in school rooms and public places. The actual view in flesh and blood is so different that one can hardly realize that it is indeed the king and queen. I could not forget the first time I saw them. It was when the king laid the cornerstone of the new St. Bartholomew's hospital.

It was a very hot day, and I pitied the king for his costume must have been very heavy and uncomfortable. He wore a robe of lavender or pale purple colored cloth, trimmed with ermine, and although he looked grand and imposing, the first sight of his snow white hair and beard gave me quite a shock, and had a saddening effect. But in spite of his gray hair he is certainly a handsome man, and there is something noble in his appearance.

But how far this feeling was due to his being my king, I cannot say. As I thought of him as the representative of England's line of kings, and only a link in the succession to come, I must have caught the true British estimate of him. He had a happy contented look and seemed to be enjoying himself well. But I could not help remarking his look of indifference to the crowd which represented his loyal subjects.

On this occasion I saw little of the queen, but on a later occasion I had a splendid opportunity of seeing Queen Alexandra, being quite close to her. We were walking in Hyde park one beautiful afternoon when the word was passed, "Her majesty is coming."

At once we were all attention, and in a few minutes the carriage came in sight. I thought the "queen" very beautiful, and said so. But we were informed that it was a mistake; it proved to be only the Princess of Wales, as any Londoner would tell from there being no mounted policemen in advance, generally the way that the people can know whether it is the Queen or the Princess of Wales who is passing, so closely does the daughter-in-law copy the dress and appearance of her royal mother-in-law.

Soon the regulation mounted policeman rode past and we were once more all attention. A carriage appeared and a cheer went up from the bystanders. I was struck with the queen's beauty and her youthfulness and cheerfulness, and her air of grace and selflessness in her, as she bowed and smiled with kindly interest to the people on every hand. No wonder our Alexandra is popular. I loved her at first sight. Who could resist the attraction of that pale, delicate, kindly face, lighted up with such a bright smile? As far as appearance goes she might easily pass for a daughter of King Edward. The pictures that we see do not in the least flatter her. There is one on a calendar before me as I write, which is like her, but it is highly colored, while she is pale and delicate looking.

The carriage she rode in did not differ from any other lady's carriage in the park—simply the regulation pair of horses with footman and coachman. Afterward I saw her several times. On one occasion I was close enough to have a good look at her. She might easily pass for a daughter of King Edward. The pictures that we see do not in the least flatter her. There is one on a calendar before me as I write, which is like her, but it is highly colored, while she is pale and delicate looking.

The king's habit of automobile speeding seems to be well recognized, and I was glad to witness a sample of it. One afternoon, as we were driving in the park, there was a wheeler in the air and we were told that the king was passing. All traffic and movement in the street was instantly stopped. But when I turned to look nothing was to be seen but a cloud of dust and the outlines of an automobile in the distance. I found it gratifying only to be welcomed at the house of a certain relative after the king's visit there was over, as children, to say the least, could not be accommodated during the stay of royalty. I do wish it could have been otherwise for I felt a great longing in my heart to see more of our king and queen.—MUANITE DOBBS, Oakbank, Man.

ADVANCE IN RICHELIEU.

The Stock Has Been Steadily Absorbed.

Montreal, March 16.—The advance in the price of Richelieu stock, which has sold up nearly seven points within a few days, has attracted considerable attention on the street. Richelieu in the general slump in prices last year was carried down to the ridiculously low figure of 48, from which it gradually recovered until lately it sold for some time around 64. Within the past few days there has been an active movement in the stock, and to-day it sold as high as 71, closing strong. Richelieu has been one of the favorite stocks in the steady investment buying that has been in progress on the local market for months, and the number of shareholders has been largely increased, while there has been a corresponding reduction in the floating supply of the stock. As shown at the recent annual meeting, the company's finances are in fine shape, it has an able and energetic direction, and with the forward policy that has been inaugurated and the increased traffic that the coming season promises, there are prospects of largely increased earnings. Even at to-day's price the stock returns over 7 per cent. as an investment.
