Plan For Technical Training. Principal Errett of the Brantfor nanual training school, has a scheme o prepare boys between the ages of twelve and sixteen years for actual ndustrial vocation by giving them s more extended and thorough technical education, Mr. Errett's plan is to begin tentatively at the opening of the hext fall term a class of boys of entrance standing, where they would be taught manual training for at least two hours every day, and here they could be provided in the Collegiate Institute a course in English, mathematics and science, which is proposed should be free of charge. In this way he boys would secure a very material advantage which would redound to ter greatest good and make them or better fitted for an industrial ocupation than these who left the ourth book of the public school to to out to work,
