A CONTRAST IN FINANCES.
Hon. Mr. Fielding, said the Ottawa correspondent of the Toronto News, did not make an election speech. He certainly did not. He has never aimed at this, in which respect he differs very materially from Hon. Mr. Foster, who was accustomed, as a writer for the Canadian Courier remarked, "to make his budget speech electoral events."
Mr. Fielding's are the business statements of a business man, clear, concise, convincing, and devoid of all oratorical frills. Mr. Foster has dwelt on figures "with evident impatience, and was only happy (in office) in painting the prosperity of the country with the vivid imagery of figures of speech." Now, in opposition and out of office, he is painting scenes of awful desolation in a political and national sense.
The ex-finance minister is the country's greatest pessimist, and sees no hope for it until the finance department is handed back into his custody, which may never be.

RALLY OF YOUNG MEN.
The young liberals of the city are making a beginning in the campaign which has been announced. There will be a smoker in the Whig hall on Wednesday evening, under the guidance of Ald. Hart, and it will no doubt be a success.
The young men have their place in political life. The liberal party has always recognized them as a force, and has paid tribute to their activity. They have not to be initiated into the mysteries of organization. They have been trained, many of them for service on committees and at the polls, and they need only the call of duty which has now gone out to produce the desired rally.
The future of the country depends on the young men, and they are to be commended when they take an active interest in political issues, when they study the questions of the day, and exert, as they should, a wholesome influence on the affairs of the party.
They begin the campaign hopefully, with candidates for both the dominion and provincial parliaments in the field, and endorse the challenge, to the conservatives, issued by the seniors, for a renewal of the compact for an honest and clean election.

MR. COCKSHUTT TALKS.
Mr. Cockshutt is very much annoyed because the prime minister, when the banks could not advance the money wanted to move the western crops, lent about five millions of the government reserve. It was, he said, a deplorable example to set the banks, and many a broker had gone behind the bars for no greater offence than that of the finance minister.
There never was an occasion like this in the history of the country, and there never may be an occasion like it again since it is Mr. Fielding's intention to legislate so that it can be met in a different way.
Mr. Cockshutt has not been reading the comments of the press—especially the declarations of the Toronto World and the Montreal Star, pronouncedly conservative—or he would save his breath. These papers have commended Mr. Fielding's action in the unusual circumstances, and in the public interest.

SPEECH OF THE SESSION.
Of the speakers so far upon the budget, the one who fascinated the house the most, who held it spell-bound by the newness and the vigour of his address, was Hon. Mr. Sifton. He did not weary the commons with a long and tiresome recital of figures which one could not understand without study. He criticized no one severely, or adversely, but commanded the close and interested attention of the house as he suggested conditions making for the future development of the country.
Hon. Mr. Patterson had contrasted the growth of trade and commerce between the periods of conservative and liberal rule, and did it well. Mr. Sifton pointed to what could be accomplished by trained consular agents, such as Canada did not have, but must provide in the very near future.

WORK FOR GRADUATES

NEW OCCUPATIONS OUTLINED IN PARLIAMENT.
Demand For a Consular Service—The Trade of Canada Needs Developing By Foreign Agents—A Boost For Genuine Civil Service Reform.

In his budget address Hon. Mr. Sifton wished to call attention to the desirability of taking certain action in a direction which had been suggested in the public press at various times, and which has received consideration in some quarters, but which he thought had never been discussed in the house. He referred to the establishment of a thoroughly equipped department, or rather the changing or reorganization of a department, for the purpose of dealing thoroughly and completely with the question of foreign trade in this country. "My hon. friend from North Toronto," he continued, "had a few grains of wheat in the volume of—I won't dare call it a paper—but the volume of oratory which he presented to us, and one of the grains of wheat which I detected was his suggestion that some department of the government ought to be organized in such a way as to collect carefully and systematically information in regard to the internal business of the country."
But his hon. friend might have gone farther, because while that information is of value, it is of value largely for statistical purposes only unless it is utilized in some other way, and it ought to be utilized by a complementary system, which complementary system should be a system of Canadian consular trade agents in other countries, who should be thoroughly qualified to deal with the questions which would come before them. If the hon. gentleman will look at the reports and papers which are available with regard to trade at the present time in the case of our trade with Japan, they will find that at present we are not getting our share of the trade with that country. They will also find that we are actually furnishing the goods to the United States merchants, who are selling these goods to Japan, and getting a considerable portion of the profit that is in that trade, and all of which ought to come to Canada, and that is because a proper system is not furnished for bringing Canadian merchants and manufacturers into communication with the world's purchasers in Japan. I believe that we are largely increasing our trade with Great Britain, that we are, owing to the French treaty, largely increasing our trade with France, and that we could increase our trade with South Africa, with which Canada could do a large trade.
"Now, it is perfectly true that we have not got any men in Canada at the present time qualified to act in this capacity, but if we can train our students and geologists to go to the field, if we can train men for other pursuits in life, surely we can go to the trouble of training men to deal with the most important subject in connection with the commerce of Canada. Our universities are turning out graduates by the hundreds every year, men of the best qualification, men of the best blood and the best brains. Many of these young men are glad to take a special course to qualify themselves to act in such a capacity as I speak of if they had the assurance that after they had gone through the necessary preparation they would get employment."
Mr. Sifton then took up the question of civil service reform. The minister always appoints in Parliament knows that the greatest nuisance in connection with public life concerns dealing with the question of patronage. Every minister knows the same thing. It is an entire mistake if anybody supposes that dealing with this question is a political advantage to the party in power. I am sure that Canada will outgrow this system very soon, and that the people of Canada will demand that it be changed, and it is the duty of a progressive parliament to anticipate the enlightened sentiment of the country and put these reforms into practical shape before they are forced to do so by the abuses the people will no longer stand. In England they tell me that the graduates of Oxford, of Cambridge, and of the great public educational institutions are constantly appointed in large numbers to the public service.
"What have we in Canada? From one end of Canada to the other we have universities. In my judgment they are most creditable to the people of Canada. In the face of great difficulties these institutions of learning have been established, they are turning out young men by the hundreds every year, and every person who is familiar with college life in Canada, knows that perhaps there are not more than half of the men who are trained by the universities—which are carried on at great expense to the country, either directly or indirectly who want to go into business or professional life on their own account. They prefer, for one reason or another, to have some clerical occupation; and we all know perfectly well that thousands of these young men have left Canada and gone elsewhere for the purpose of getting the occupation they could not get here. All these graduates of Canadian universities, instead of seeking occupations elsewhere, should go into the public service of Canada. It would be a good thing for the public service (Cheers)."

EDITORIAL NOTES.
Mr. Cockshutt would hoist the tariff and shut out the imports. But he does not move to that effect. Funny man, isn't he?
Mr. Foster spoke for five hours on the budget, but refrained from moving any resolution which would put him on record upon any point. How is that?
Organized labour in Toronto is out against the inspection of bread in the shops and the standardizing of the weight at one and a half or three pounds per loaf.
The number of libel suits a man may stand is not the test of journalistic success, but the number he has stood without conviction Mr. Macdonald, of the Globe, is a hero in this respect.
Something should be done to check the slaughter of men employed upon Canadian railway construction. The accidents from the use of dynamite suggests that something is amiss, and a government commission should determine what it is.
By order of the senate, and against the mind and will of the president, the Americans are going to restore the words, "In God we trust," to the coinage of the country. If the act will help the senators to act or scrap better it will be formally applauded.
The Montreal conservatives bewail the fact that they have not papers that reflect their ideas. The Montreal Star and Gazette are conservative papers, but they have ideas of their own. They do not simply re-echo other people's ideas. Hence the difference between the paper and the party organ.
Mr. Sifton says the college should train its students for the civil service, and especially for the foreign departments of it. Students, do you hear that? Read Mr. Sifton's address on the subject if you want to see the new way of usefulness that is opening up.

DEPRESSION IN THE SPRING.
Its Cause Explained By a Physician.
When asked why tiredness and languor is so prevalent in the spring, Dr. Hamilton explained that the cold of winter drives blood from the surface of the body to the liver. Normally, one-fourth of the whole blood supply is in the liver and when more blood is accumulated in that organ, everything goes wrong. No better remedy exists than Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which are composed of such vegetable extracts as Mandrake and Butternut, which are well-known for their liver stimulating effect.
