TIME OF THEIR LIVES

"DRINK YOURSELVES TO DEATH"; ONE DID.

Crowd of Roughs Follow Pittsburg Policeman's Order and All Succumb—at Bar.

Pittsburg, March 27.—"Line up, at the bar, you fellows, and drink! The man that doesn't drink ten whiskeys, two gins and one beer is going to be licked and arrested besides," shouted Policeman David Lennix Monday, after he had chased six members of a rough gang into a saloon. "You fellows never get enough to drink," he added. "Get busy now and drink yourselves to death!"

One of the men, Henry Thompson, did drink himself to death. After nine whiskeys he dropped and died on the way to Passavant hospital. An unknown negro who consumed fourteen gins under Lennix's bearing, also fell in his tracks and is believed to be dying.

The four other men tried to come up to the standard set by the blue-coat, who also drank, but they failed, and succumbed to the effects of the liquor. They are in jail, where physicians are trying to bring them to their senses.

Lennix is missing. He has been an exemplary policeman, and his friends cannot conceive how he became so erratic.

THE SPORT REVIEW.

Interesting News From the Various Sporting Fields.

An international baseball league has been organized with Hamilton, Quebec and Niagara Falls, N.Y., as members. Kerr, Hamilton's crack 100-yard sprinter, is said to be going faster than ever. Kerr should make a good showing at the Olympic games.

They need more money to finance the Montreal baseball club and the long green is forthcoming at once. Hamilton may land the Montreal franchise.

Tommy Burns, the Canadian world's champion, has deposited $2,500 in connection with his proposal to fight two of the best English heavyweights in one ring in Paris in April.

The Canadian union championships and Olympic try-outs in fencing take place in Toronto on April 3rd and 4th, and the Ontario trials in swimming and water polo in Toronto May 1st and 2nd. Olympic rules are to govern.

The Maritime Province Athletic Association has identified "Claude Oren," who played hockey for the Capitals of Fredericton, as Oren Froot, the Ottawa Valley League professional, and will take decided action in the case of the individual and the club concerned.

The Cleveland baseball club has taken out policies on the lives of its players, insuring them in the aggregate for $210,000, in case of death while travelling. Lajoie is insured for $15,000, Brantley and Turner for $10,000 each, and the fourteen other Naps for $5,000 each. The policies do not insure the players against accident on the ball field.

It is not likely that any walkers will be included in the American team for the Olympic games, as it is not thought that any of the American walkers would have much chance. This time it will not be a running race, as at Athens, but competitors will have to go according to rule, and Canada can send several who can hold their own against the world.

CURATE HYPNOTIZED HIM.

Marquis of Townshend Has Queer Plea.

A remarkable case of hypnotism and blighted affection is occupying the attention of a London court, in which the funny little Marquis of Townshend is one of the principals. The other is the Rev. Arthur Robins, one time curate of the fashionable Holy Trinity church.

The marquis is the plaintiff in the case, and he charges the curate with having hypnotically wheedled from him various large sums of money and valuable heirlooms. But a greater loss than this the marquis affirms, as the priceless love of his beautiful wife which the curate has deprived him of by slander.

This estrangement affects the marquis more than the loss of gold and jewels, and he blubbered so hysterically when relating his woes on the witness stand that he could scarcely be understood.

The plaintiff's story is that he studied hypnotism with the defendant, on one night, who gave him directions subject that he put him under hypnotic control and in that state secured many of the Townshend paintings, works of art and jewels, and also the Townshend ready money—all under the beautifully simple scheme of making the marquis think he didn't need any of the possessions.

Donald's Independence.

A Highlander who had been ailing for some time, was advised by some friends to visit a professor. He happened to be in Glasgow and called on one Dr. Donald, who gave him directions thus: "You must stop drinking, smoking, snuffing, eat as little beef as possible, and work hard during the day to keep yourself in order." When he got this length Donald had got his cap and was making for the door. "Just one minute," cried the professor. "I must have £5 as a fee for my advice." "She'll no' pe takin' on' o' yer advice," said Donald.

BLAMES WOMEN'S SKIRTS.

For a Recent Theatre Horror, at Boyestown, Pa.

Philadelphia Record. "Do you know that if the truth were known you would find that the conventional dress of women had as much as any other factor to do with the Boyestown theatre horror, and for that matter, with any other theatre horror," said a dress reformer.

"Thousands of women have sacrificed their lives to the conventional female mode of dressing, which is obsolete, unnatural, unsanitary and absolutely dangerous. You know yourself that every time you walk down a stairway behind a woman you are obliged to watch yourself so that you don't step on the woman's skirt. Her skirt will nearly always drag behind her and partly rest on the step above her.

When there is no danger and people are quietly going down the steps the woman lifts her skirts as a rule, and accidents are avoided. But when several hundred people are rushing down a stairway, pressing closely behind one another, it cannot be avoided that somebody will step on a woman's dragging skirt, trip her, fall over her and start the general jam which shuts off escape. The same thing happens in every panic, but still women are held down by convention and obliged to wear garments that are ridiculous and a menace to themselves and the safety of other people. Thousands of women have lost their lives in stepping down because their skirts dragged behind them. Sometimes it is a woman who trips in her own skirt and falls from the second floor at her home, fracturing her skull. At other times passengers hurrying off a car step on a woman's skirt, trip her and again a skull is fractured and a life lost.

Then on the street women sweep up a billon perms a day and carry them into their homes. As a matter of fact, there is not one single argument to be advanced in favor of women's skirts. They ought to be prohibited by law as a nuisance and a menace to public health and safety. The sneers and ridicule with which suggestions of reform for women's dress are met prove only that, after all, we are not half as enlightened as we pretend to be in this twentieth century nor half as humane as we ought to be to the weaker sex."

Marvelous case of Leo Corrigan which shows that skin diseases heretofore considered hopeless can be cured. Since childhood, Leo Corrigan had been tortured with the burning agony and itching of Eczema. His parents had spent a great deal of money in consulting physicians and buying medicines—but all to no purpose.

As he grew older he sought other doctors—some of them specialists. He was eleven weeks in a Toronto hospital—eight weeks in bed. At times the irritation and pain caused by the Eczema were so severe, life was a burden. He would get so bad he could not walk. Several winters he could do no work.

He wrote, on February 20, 1906: "In November, 1905, I had another attack, and was advised to use Mira Ointment. It thought this would be like the other remedies I had tried, and of no use to me. But, to my great delight, a few hours after the first application, I felt great relief."

"I have used it, now, two and a-half months, and unhesitatingly state that it is the best remedy I ever used. It has worked wonderfully for me. Since using Mira Ointment I have been able to work every day—without irritation or pain—no stiffness of the limbs or soreness. I feel a new person."

"From a state of great irritation and sometimes excruciating pains to freedom from all such, being capable of doing hard work every day, is a marvelous change. Mira Ointment has effected it."

"I strongly recommend any person afflicted with this terrible complaint—Eczema—to use Mira Ointment."

"What this wonderfully effective Ointment has done in this extreme chronic case, it can do in other seemingly incurable conditions. If you suffer from any form of skin-disease, don't delay. Certain relief and cure is waiting you in Mira Ointment. Get a box to-day, 50c.—5 for $2.50. At drug-stores—or from The Chemists' Co. of Canada, Ltd., Hamilton—Toronto."
