ABOUT PLAYS, PLAYERS AND PLAYHOUSES.

Florence Roberts Playing "Sham"—Margaret Anglin Has Postponed Her Australian Trip Till May.

Charles Frohman has acquired the American and English rights to a clever farce, "Le Bouton en Train," by Alfred Athis, which is doing a big business in Paris.

After the instant success of his play, "Paid in Full," Eugene Walter has been besieged by offers for other of his dramatic wares. The Shuberts have secured "The Wolf," which takes place up around Hudson Bay.

Throughout the remainder of her tour, with the exception of her final week in Brooklyn, Eleanor Robson will appear exclusively in "Nurse Marjorie," the play by Israel Zangwill, instead of "Salomy Jane."

Charles Frohman will shortly make a new production in London of Richard Harding Davis' "The Dictator," which will appear in this country, in London and in Australia, by William Collier.

John Drew has completed and sent to his publishers the first two chapters of "The Drew Family," which he began writing comparatively short time ago. The history will first be printed serially and later in book form.

Notwithstanding the many flattering notices of "The Prince of Pilsen" in Paris, a new review is now under way to replace the old one. Madge Lessing and May de Sousa made hits in "The Prince" and will be retained in the new review.

Elsie Janis will celebrate her twenty-first birthday while playing in Baltimore in "The Boyden." Miss Janis has been before the footlights so long that many think she is older. As "Little Elsie" she was a headliner in vaudeville when ten years old.

William Collier, besides acting in "Caught in the Rain," is hard at work upon the manuscript of a new play, to be done in collaboration with Haddon Chambers, and shortly due for final consideration by Charles Frohman.

Otis Skinner filled a new role last Sunday when he occupied the pulpit of his nephew, Rev. Clarence R. Skinner, in a church in Mount Vernon, N. Y., and by invitation of the congregation delivered an address on the moral worth of the drama.

David Warfield will go to London next fall for an extended engagement. He is to have a new play, and will also present his repertoire. The play by Jerome K. Jerome, in which he was to appear at the end of this season, has not yet been finished.

Joseph Coyne and Alexandra Carlisle are to joint stars next season in this country in "The Mollusc," a play which has been running in London. Mr. Coyne has become a great favorite with the London playgoers, his "eccentric dude" being considered funny.

Yank Newell, a pioneer American theatrical manager, died at his home in New York last week, aged sixty years. For many years "Muldoon's Picnic" was his principal attraction, and he was thought to have made a large sum of money with the production.

Carlotta Nilsen, seen here in "The Three of Us," is soon to make her appearance under the management of Robert Robertson, of Chicago, in an adaptation of Giuseppe Giocosa's drama, "Falling Leaves." The production will be made about Easter probably in one of the Shubert houses.

William H. Crane lately finished an address before the graduates of the Academy of Dramatic Art, with the chattering thought that a manager may not care all graduates of dramatic schools, because, after all, a manager is known by the company he keeps.

Brandon Tynan, who is playing in the support of Mme. Nazimova, and who was last seen in the support of King Edwards' Grand Hotel, is a young actor who will soon be one of Belasco's stars. Mr. Belasco permitted him to join Mme. Nazimova's company until his new play is ready.

In a despatch to his partner, Daniel E. Edwards, of Reno, Neb., Nat. C. Goodwin announces that he has cancelled his further engagement for the year on the stage, and after playing three weeks at Chicago will go to Reno to devote all his attention to his mining interests.

Lytone Power is later on this season or early next fall to be given an opportunity to appear as Macbeth. This has been his one big Shakespearean ambition for many years and Henry Miller has decided to make a production for him, in which case Edith Wynne Matthison may act Lady Macbeth.

Henry W. Savage is expected to present "The College Widow" in London the first of next month. At any rate, such a scheme is afoot, and already the members of the company have been engaged, with the understanding that they will be prepared to sail the ocean blue, starting next Saturday from New York.

Felix Isman, the Philadelphia real estate dealer, has signed a contract with William Faversham, now staying in "The Squaw Man," under the management of Liebler & Co., who will give up his connection with this firm at the end of the current season. Mr. Faversham will be put forward in a repertoire of new plays.

"Toddles," taken from the French via London, was turned loose on New York last Monday. Of it one critic says: "Toddles is either indigestion, dementia, cheerful idiocy, or all three." Another calls it "a walk-through, milk-and-water, generally agreeable little farce that raises a smile in passing, but will not leave a confusion on the record of the season's achievements."

The announcement by the new directorate of the Metropolitan Opera Company that the opera "Tiefland" will be a feature of its next season, comes with peculiar interest just now, for "Tiefland" is an operative version of Angel Guimero's Spanish drama, "Marta of the Lowlands," in which Bertha Kalich has been appearing this season. The score is by Eugene J. Albert, and Berlin has approved of it.

Margaret Anglin has revised her plans for the season. Mr. Williamson, the Australian manager, has a contract with her for a tour of twenty weeks in that country, to begin shortly, but as there was such a demand for her here he courteously released her. She will rejoin "The Great Divide" and continue in that attraction until the middle of May. Then she will proceed to Australia to begin her delayed engagement in Sydney.

A cable from London tells of the ovation which Marie Lloyd received last week at her opening at the Alhambra. The house was crowded, and when Miss Lloyd appeared it was fully five minutes before the bravos and cheers subsided. Flowers galore were given her, while a well-known club, which Miss Lloyd has helped at benefits, sent a beautiful diamond brooch. That she was missed while in America was shown by the greeting she received. She sang some of her American songs and the fair Mary is once more delighting jaded Britishers.

Justin Huntley McCarthy has been asked to write a play for E. H. Sothern's use next season with Gill Blas as the central figure. Mr. Sothern's season has been satisfactory.

"The Associate Players," representing "The Servant in the House," will at the conclusion of their engagement at the Belasco theatre open for a season at the Savoy theatre, New York.

FASHION'S FORM.

Gown of White Serge or Cloth.

This design is especially recommended either for cloth or linen, the model being of white chifon broadcloth, trimmed with white cloth buttons with narrow black rims, and black and white bias satin as a finish about the guilpe. The skirt is very odd in its arrangement of buttons and simple narrow front panel in the center of the front. The skirt was made with a sweep all around and a decided train, with a deep hem and a quantity of stitching. The bodice had a 'form' of the broadcloth, hand-embroidered in a simple design, and piped with the cloth, and there was a little buttoned vest over a chemise of lace.

VERY FINE MIXTURE

EVERYONE SHOULD KNOW OF THIS PRESCRIPTION.

Acts Promptly on the Kidneys and Bladder and Easily Made By Anyone Right at Home.

Cut this out and put in some safe place, for it is valuable and worth more than anything else in the world if you should have an attack of rheumatism or bladder trouble or any derangement of the kidneys whatever.

The prescription is simple, and can be made up by anyone at home. The ingredients can be had at any good prescription pharmacy and all that is necessary is to shake them well in a bottle.

Here it is: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargos, one ounce; compound syrup of Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime. A few doses is said to relieve almost any case of bladder trouble, frequent urination, pain and scalding, weakness and backache, pain above the kidneys, etc. It is now claimed to be the method of curing chronic rheumatism, because of its direct and positive action upon the eliminative tissues of the body. It cleanses these sponge-like organs, and gives them life and power to sift and strain the poisonous waste matter and uric acid from the blood relieving the worst forms of rheumatism and kidney and bladder troubles. The fluid extract dandelion acts upon the stomach and liver and is used also extensively for relieving constipation, and indigestion. Compound sarsaparilla cleans and enriches the blood.

As you or anyone of your family, especially the old folks may be attacked at any time it would be wise to cut this out and save it. A well-known local druggist is an authority that this prescription is safe to use at any time. Mix it yourself.

A sad death took place in Belleville hospital Wednesday when Cohn Bonow passed away as the result of the injuries he sustained recently at the Lehigh Portland Cement company's plant. The deceased was a well-known resident of Belleville.

Tips For The Farmers

BY UNCLE JOSE.

The way to get the most money for the butter product is to produce the best butter by proper feed and care.

Cottonseed meal is a good grain to feed with ensilage. Linned meal is better fed with dry cows.

Economy in feeding is one of the foundation stones of success in dairying. Seek first to find what the cows really need and then look to the cost.

Overfeeding often is as bad as under-feeding, or even worse, for it wastes feed and injures the cows.

Don't shorten up the ration of green corn now. Keep the flow good and steady.

The more nice big ears of corn there are on the stalks you feed, the more milk you will get and the better milk it will be.

Too much care can not be exercised in handling the cows and the product as every attention increases the quantity and value of the output.

When you go to the barn to milk, take along some water in an extra pail. Whenever you find that the pail used to milk in is getting soiled on the sides, stop and rinse it all out carefully.

The floors of the cow barns should be swept clean daily, and should be sprinkled with a watering pot or hose before milking to keep down the dust.

Cows are not like men, they seldom "kick" without a cause. Sometimes their teats are sore or tender, rough handling hurts them. Sometimes the milker pulls the long hairs on the udders when milking. Shear off the long hairs, cut off the long finger nails, bathe the teats in warm water, grease them with vasoline and you will cure many kicking cows.

From numerous records which have been kept in the securing of corn ensilage it has been ascertained that under average conditions the cost per ton of putting it in the silo is fifty-seven cents, while its feeding value as cured silage is between $2.50 and $3.50 per ton.

Success in poultry raising depends not merely on the breed of fowls chosen, but on the housing, feeding, sanitary arrangements and general treatment.

Poultry houses should always be light; in dark houses dirt accumulates and fowls never thrive in dark and dirty houses, as they do in those that admit not only light but fresh air.

This is the season of the year when the matter of clipping farm horses always comes up for discussion. The object in riding a horse of his long coat of hair is to enable him to dry out readily on a cold winter night.

When a horse is in the shed there is no longer anything to be gained by still further denuding him of his hairy covering. If a horse has not shed off by spring and shows lack of thrift he should be clipped before being set to spring's work in the field. It does not make much difference where one begins to clip a horse. Most of the best grooms in city stables commence just back of the ears. Others begin just back of the forelegs, clean up the body and legs, then the neck, and lastly the head.

Sandy ground, when properly mixed with vegetable matter, manure, and water, is the best soil that can be found for growing vegetables and small fruits. These grow best where there is lots of sand and very little clay. The later varieties of vegetables will grow and thrive best where the texture of this soil is very fine.

The humus content, the air and water circulation, the nature of the earthy material itself, and the treatment given it.

Speaking of a dairy meeting, in Belleville, G. G. Pablow stated: At the present time there was a strong inclination in favor of making whey butter. He could not say that he was much in favor of this. He had made several tests at the school, and he found that when milk was in a pure condition and carefully handled in the loss of butter-fat was only 2 1/2 lbs. to 1,000 lbs. of whey. With this loss there was no profit in skimming the whey. He felt that if patrons would take proper care of their milk by cooling it down, keeping every-thing in and about the premises clean, they would make more out of cheese than skimming the whey. Good butter could be made from good whey; in fact the better the milk, better the whey butter and the less of it. He had noticed from tests that whey butter went off in flavor much quicker than creamery butter and he attributed this to the high temperature at which it was necessary to heat the whey. If factories desired to make whey butter he believed it more profitable for good-sized factories to put their own butter plant and use the butter among the patrons. Whey butter at less or even twenty cents a pound was not profitable. The making of whey butter on the co-operative plan threw out an inducement to the cheesemaker to be careless with his cheese and become dishonest. One pound of butter-fat would make a pound of cheese—this on an average was worth ten cents—for which the maker received the price paid for making a pound of cheese. One pound of butter-fat was worth twenty-five cents, for which the maker received one-third. It could easily be seen there was an inducement for the maker to let as much fat go into the whey as possible where the butter was made by the factory a large por-

Positive Cure for Deafness

A large proportion of all cases of impaired hearing and deafness is due to disease of the middle ear and eustachian tubes, caused either by acute inflammation or chronic catarrh. Nearly all these cases can be cured, or the progress of the disease arrested, by inflation of the ears through the nose and eustachian tubes with medicated air. A very safe and efficient means of accomplishing this end can be had by the use of Catarthozone, a positive cure for Catarrh in the most chronic form. It is a safe death to the microbial life which maintains the inflamed condition, and also through its healing properties, restores the diseased organs to a healthy, normal condition. It is not mere theory. The result of actual experience proves that ninety-nine cases in one hundred can be cured and stay cured of impaired hearing by the use of Catarthozone. Catarthozone is a new scientific remedy for all diseases of the nasal and respiratory passages caused by microbial life, and if you are afflicted with catarrh, asthma or bronchitis, it is well deserving of your attention. You simply breathe the medicated air, it does the rest—nothing could be simpler. Complete outfit, sufficient for two months' treatment, price $1 at all dealers, or by mail from N. C. Polson, Kingston, Ont., and Hartford, Conn., U. S. A.
