THE ASSAULT-AT-ARMS AT THE ROYAL MILITARY COLLEGE.

The Work of the Cadets Was Very Fine—The Boxing Bout Was Vigorous—Cadet Watts Was Knocked Out By Cadet Gibson.

The annual assault-at-arms was held in the Royal Military College gymnasium, on Wednesday evening, and was a complete success. The new building was filled, upstairs and down, with the friends and relatives of the cadets, from near and far, to see the spectacle. The officers and their wives and some of the visiting military men had seats along the ground floor, and the gallery was filled with city people. The exhibition given by the cadets was one of the best they have ever attempted.

The entertainment opened about 8:30 o'clock, a spar pillow fight between Hanson, for "C" company, and McLennan, for "D" company, being the first number. This was very amusing, and showed what good condition the boys were in, from their gym work.

The second number was one of the best of the evening. Forty-eight cadets, nearly all of a size, dressed in the natty gym suit of the college, formed the free gym squad, and their work was certainly a revelation to many present. They went through some very stiff tests with apparent ease, doing every thing as one man. What caught the people most was the human towers, each composed of twenty men. This is a magnificent sight, and cannot be beaten or equaled by any college in America to-day. The E.M.C. has one of the best gym squads this year it has had in some time, and that is saying quite a little, as the soldier boys have never been defeated.

The next item on the programme was very interesting, especially to the sterner sex. The boxing bouts were all fine exhibitions of the manly art. The men in all classes fought as if they meant it. The bouts all were to go three two-minute rounds, but the feather-weight class, which went three minute-and-a-half rounds. Major Scott was referee, and Major de Bury and Prof. Martin, judges.

The first bout was the novice class, between Cadets Fiske and Meredith. The men were to weigh in at 146 pounds. Fiske was the lighter man, and his opponent also had the advantage of reach. The little fellow put up a strong fight the first round, but the last two went to Meredith, who was given the decision.

The next bout was the "middle-weight" final, fought by C.S.M. Gibson and Cadet L. H. Watts; the men to weigh in at 156 pounds. This bout was also to go three rounds, but was settled by Gibson in the first. Gibson was the smaller man, and fought in a crouching attitude. Watts was tall and had a long reach, but the clever foot work of his opponent kept him well back. The men started in well from the gong, Watts landed a left to the body, Gibson landed a left to the body and a stiff right jab to the point of the chin, stretching Watts on the floor. On the stroke of the eighth second, he arose in a very groggy condition, and could just stand by hanging on to the ropes. Gibson did not press his man, and waited until he came back, when he landed another left jab to the ear, which put Watts down to take nine strokes of the big bell. He came back again but could hardly stand. He tried to defend himself, but could not. Ten seconds before the gong sounded for the first round, Gibson landed a left to the body, followed by a quick left jab which put Watts down for a few seconds. He arose in a very groggy condition after the fight and had to be assisted out by his seconds.

The lightweight class, between Cadets Watson and E. M. Watts, was one of the best of the evening, and was won by Watson on points. The winner was the sner man, but was a bunch of science, his blows coming in with lots of speed behind them, and landing in telling places. Watts had a good advantage in reach, but could not use it to advantage. He Watson repeatedly used a short left jab to the body with telling effect. He would swing a terrific right, and follow, almost at the same time, with this distressing left jab in the wind.

The first round went to Watson. The men sparred around closely for a few seconds, but soon came together and a few stiff ones were landed by each. Watson then seemed to get his head, and used his man up considerably during the round. Round Watts improved a little towards the first of it, but a stiff right swing to the jaw and a Wonderful Miracles Worked By Mighty Healing Power of "Catarrhzone"

In the discovery of this wonderful curative medicine, the entire race is given freedom from Catarrhal disease. Is Catarrh in your nose? Does it affect your hearing? Is your throat husky? Are your eyes watery? Is your breath offensive? These are the indications of Catarrh—now why continue to live in misery when cure is guaranteed with Catarrhzone. So sure is Catarrhzone to cure that thousands recommend it—tell of its wonderful merit after being cured themselves. Read this: HOW IT CURES.

Miss Ware is a resident of Clarksville, Va., and has been the means of pointing the way to health to many of her friends.

"I have received such extraordinary benefit that I have induced many of my friends to use it also. My Catarrh was so bad a year ago, that I despaired of ever getting cured. I am sure my lungs were somewhat affected also. The relief I got from Catarrhzone was remarkable. I improved under this treatment very quickly and was cured so thoroughly the disease has never returned." All dealers sell Catarrhzone. 3 sizes, the dollar one being guaranteed.

left to the body turned the run, and made Watts a little groggy.

In the third round Watson had his man at will, landing freely on the head. Near the end of the round and head to the face caused the blood to run, the only blood drawn during the evening. "Benjie's" victory was a popular one with all present.

These bouts were followed by an exhibition of Indian club swinging that was greatly enjoyed. The sabre review exercises put on by eighteen men, under B.S.M. Carson, were also greatly enjoyed. The men all handled the sabres in good style.

After this, the feather-weight pugilists, Northsmer and Green, appeared to go their three one-minute-and-a-half rounds. The fight went to Northsmer, on points. The fighting was very loose, all through, very few telling blows being struck.

The last fight was the event of the evening. The heaviest class, between Cadets Hutton and Ringwood. These two men fought for the championship in the same class last year. Hutton winning out. Hutton weighs about 182 pounds, is over six feet tall, and has an exceptionally pugilist's nose. Ringwood weighed in at 175 pounds, is short and stocky, and is only possessed of the average reach. Both men have good science, using free footwork throughout the bout. The judges gave the decision to Ringwood, on points, and it was a popular victory. Hutton kept Hutton on the run by fighting in close to him, barring his long, terrific right swings, which would have proved dangerous, had they landed.

In the first round the men came together from the start. Hutton landed a short left jab, with lots of steam behind it, to the ribs and wind, and it worried his husky opponent sparring him in any other round, very much. Near the close of the round, Ringwood landed a few telling jabs to the face. The gong sounded the men were clinched in the centre of the ring.

In the second round Ringwood went in like a lion from the start and landed telling blows right and left to Hutton's face and body. Hutton seemed to become groggy from the onslaught, and once the ropes only saved him from going down, from a straight right to the face. This was Ringwood's round.

In the last round both men seemed a little tired, and the fight was open. Both men seemed to be looking for an opening to land a knock-out. Hutton succeeded in getting in one good one, but Ringwood was there for more. This round broke about even and the judges awarded the fight to Ringwood. This was one of the best fights ever pulled off at the college.

The last number was the horse squad, and they certainly did themselves proud by their work. After this the prizes, four challenge cups, were presented to the winners of the boxing bouts by Brigadier General Buchanan. There were many visitors from outside places present, among them being noticed: Sir Montague Allan, Gen. Buchanan, Col. Dumbar, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Morrissy, Mr. Wanklyn, Mrs. Holt, Randall Devlin, and Sara Armitage. The other parts in the evening were taken by R. C. Stout, George Hayes, Milford Slack, Millard Vincent and others.

What is Going on About the Harbor.

Either the steamer Laspain or North King will be running for Victoria day, and the other will start a month later.

The steamer Rosedale cleared, about ten o'clock, this morning, for Oswego, where a cargo of coal will be taken on, for Toronto.

The tug Frontenac made a trip over from Garden Island, this morning, and returned with a cargo of wicks for the Calvin company.

Capt. Chauncey Daryeau is having the schooner Ford River put into shape for the season. The vessel will be ready for a trip, in a few days.

United States Steamboat Inspectors Robert Chestnut and Capt. Mather, arrived from Cape Vincent, to-day, and will inspect the steamers New Island Wanderer, Islander, Ottawa and Kamona.

The initial trip of the steamer Pierpont, to Cape Vincent, on Wednesday, was a most successful one. The little ice was experienced, and good time was made. Quite a few passengers came over on the return trip.

The S.S. Henry R. James, of the Rutland Transit company's fleet, Ogdensburg, N.Y., has been sold to the Quebec Transportation company, and will be converted into a car ferry-boat between Quebec and Levis. The steamer will clear for Quebec as soon as the St. Lawrence canals are open.

The steamer Althea will likely start on her run from Pictou to this city on Monday. There is still some ice in the bay but not enough to hinder the little steamer from getting through. Men have been at work overhauling her for some time. She was inspected by the government inspectors to-day.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE

RURAL DRAMA WRITTEN BY A COBOURG MAN.

Produced By the Nellie Kennedy Company—The Plot Well Worked Out—An Outline of the Play Given.

There was a fair-sized audience at the Grand Opera House, last evening, to witness the production of "The Marriage of Lisabeth," a play written by a Canadian author, Lawrence E. Johnson, of Cobourg.

"The Marriage of Lisabeth" is a rural comedy, the scene of the play being laid in New Jersey, and there is an atmosphere of simple country life throughout the entire four acts. "Virginia Torrington," the daughter of an old-fashioned Yankee farmer, while attending college in a neighboring city, meets "Ted Lloyd," a young civil engineer, and incidentally falls in love with him. He persuades her to elope with him and deceives her by a mock marriage, bribing an impetuous clergyman named West to impersonate a steryman and perform the ceremony. Shortly after this he deserts her and she returns to her father, who knows nothing at all concerning the elopement. This is the situation at the beginning of the play. During the first act it transpires that "Lloyd" has secured a contract to construct a road through the section of the country in which the Torrington farm is located and so he again meets Virginia. In the second act they have a strong emotional scene in which the girl demands that he make the fact of their marriage publicly known. He refuses to do so and tells her that she is not legally his wife. Lisabeth, who is a cousin of Virginia, and the character around which the plot of the play revolves, overhears the quarrel and decides to take a hand. With her sweet heart, "Jim Wakely," and the actor West, who has by this time developed a conscience, she decoys Lloyd into a game of forfeits at a birthday party and persuades him to go through the wedding ceremony with Virginia.

The third and last acts are devoted to the courtship and wedding of "Lisabeth, whose course of love runs parallel to the real plot-driver introduced in the next scene but it has no special bearing on the plot. The principal roles in the piece are taken by Nellie Kennedy, who is ably assisted by Mazie Hallet, Lillian Armitage, Jennie Deane and Sara Armitage. The other parts in the evening were taken by R. C. Stout, George Hayes, Milford Slack, Millard Vincent and others.

The specialties were well taken. The Armitage sisters gave a Spanish dance and a skirt dance and also sang pleasingly. The conversationalist artists, Hallet and Slack, were well received, as were the comedy acrobats, the Burdette Bros. Nellie Kennedy sang sweetly "Dear Louise" and "Baby Bunting."

Joy For The P. M.

The Ontario government has been considering the increasing of the salaries of police magistrates in cities of 20,000 and over, and ordering that they shall not engage directly or indirectly in professional or business engagements. The clause to that end appears in the statute law amendment act, brought into the house on Wednesday. The salary is left blank, but the sum generally proposed is $2,000. Will Kingston recognize the recent religious census of 20,070, and make Squire Farrell happy?

Mrs. Shellington, an old and much respected resident of Hinchinbrooke, and wife of John Shellington, died very suddenly at her home on Tuesday afternoon, about one o'clock. Deceased appeared to be in her usual good health during the day, and after eating her dinner, retired to have a sleep when she was taken suddenly ill, and died before medical assistance could be obtained. Heart trouble was the cause of death. Mrs. Shellington was sixty-five years of age, and with her husband, had lived in Hinchinbrooke for several years. FAIR GROUNDS WANTED

BY KINGSTON GENTLEMEN'S DRIVING CLUB

For the Whole Season—Another City Lot Bid For—The Residents of the River Street District Ask For Redress.

The city property committee met yesterday afternoon, with A. de, Angrove (chairman), Toye, Free, Henterson, Cooper, Graham and McCartney in attendance.

A deputation from the Kingston Gentlemen's Driving Club, consisting of Dr. Waugh, Ald. J. J. Hart, W. J. Fair, D. Hay and George Barragh, was present to ask the committee for the use of the fair grounds during the whole season, except on the days the city requires them. The committee recommended the deputation to send a written request to the city council. That had to be done before the committee could deal with the matter.

Two offers for the west half of lot 40 on the west side of Victoria street were received two months ago. B. S. Buck offered $40, on March 30th, J. Harpell offered $50, and on April 7th, B. S. Buck advanced his offer to $60. Mr. Harpell was the original owner. The last communication of Mr. Buck has not yet been before the city council. Ald. Graham moved that the committee offer to sell the land in question to Mr. Buck for $60. This motion was adopted.

A communication from Smythe, King and Smythe, asking that the street promised to be opened from Orchard street to the water's edge, in lieu of the closing of River street for the benefit of the smelting property, was referred to the city solicitor and the city engineer. The residents of that locality are entitled to consideration.

The manager of the Bank of British North America applied for repairs to the ceiling of the bank cashier's quarters, this was referred to Ald. Angrove, Free and McCartney with power to act.

City Engineer Craig applied to the committee for a private office. For several years, the engineer has had no place in which to confer on city business in private. The committee is unable to do anything in regard to this as the city council has made no appropriation for proposed changes in the city buildings.

The city engineer submitted estimates for the closing of the east wing of the building, but they were not considered, as the committee has no money for any new work.
