LEFT LITTLE ONES

WALKED TO DEATH WHILE SHE SLEPT.

New York Woman Plunged From the Roof of a Five Storey House.

New York, April 9.—While her husband and five little ones slept around her Mrs. Rose Langerman rose from her bed in her apartment, No. 529 East One Hundred and Forty Fourth street, before daylight yesterday, following it is believed, a mysterious suggestion that came to her in a dream.

The woman had jumped or fallen from the roof in the darkness, later investigation showed.

Three years ago Mrs. Langerman's favorite daughter, Wilhelmina, died, and for the last three weeks the mother has been dreaming and thinking of the dead child almost constantly.

A few nights ago she woke her husband, saying that she had seen a figure of the little child peering over the roof of the five-story house, and she felt she must follow.

WHAT IS COMING.

"In His Steps" to Be Put on the Stage.

Rev. C. M. Sheldon's story, "In His Steps," has had an enormous circulation throughout the English-speaking world, and a drama based on this story and another from the same author's pen, called "The Crucifixion of Philip Strong," has been produced this week at the Topland Hall, Whitefield's, Tottenham Court road.

The play, which will be in great request probably at those many religious centres where the drama is now looked upon kindly as a possible aid in the work of social reform, deals sweepingly with the drink traffic, and is, therefore, eminently topical. It contains several strong incidents, notably one in which the wife of a minister is threatened by a saloon-keeper.

Produced as a dramatic recital in aid of Whitefield's Mutual Improvement Society, the play was prepared by Francis Neilson, formerly of the Duke of York's theatre and Covent Garden Opera House, at the suggestion of the Rev. Sylvester Horne. It opens effectively with the singing of "Lead, Kindly Light," by an unseen choir, then the curtain rises and reveals Rev. Philip Strong at home.

We learn that he is at loggerheads with some of the members of his congregation owing to his attacks on the evils of alcoholism and ill-gotten wealth. His church, it should not be forgotten, has been a martyr to his convictions. He gives up a beautiful parsonage to go and live in the slums, and he hears the drink-sellers in their houses. His wife stands by him, and is nearly strangled, whilst he himself is stabbed. His church does not understand him, and calls upon him to resign, and, presumably, he finds peace and due recognition only in death.

HE SHOT HIS MOTHER.

Complained She Was Keeping Him in Prison.

New York, April 9.—Because his mother, Susan Carlin, had sent him to various reformatories, in which he had been a prisoner for many years, Bernard Carlin, yesterday, shot and killed her at her home in Quincy street, Brooklyn. Young Carlin had been released from the reformatory at Nagasaki, where he had been sentenced for stealing a horse and wagon. He was arrested after the shooting. To the police he said he killed his mother "because she was making me do bits all my life."

Repair Your Own Rugs.

Good Housekeeping.

There seems to be a popular impression that an Oriental rug will wear forever, no matter what sort of treatment it receives, but this is one of those mistakes which are often discovered too late to be rectified. In the east, where they are worn smooth by the gliding of bare feet, their chances for immortality are great, but in America boot heels are their constant and insidious enemies. However, their lives may be prolonged by skilful attention. If the overcasting on the edge is gone or giving way a thread of carpet wool or yarn will supply new overcasting and give new resistance. If a warp or welt thread on the back is broken, it should not be left to slip out, taking the knots with it, but should have a linen thread tied to it at one end, be woven over and under as far as the break extends and then be tied at the other. If the knots come out they should be replaced at once with the aid of a coarse, old-fashioned worsted needle. If the selvaige wears crooked, it should be unravelled out and overcast, saving the surplus wool for other repairs. All these are valuable preventive measures. A good Oriental rug is a work of art and should be treated with the reverence which it deserves.
