HENS CAUSE TROUBLE.

The Latest Complaint Made to the Police.

Here is the latest in police circles. Hens allowed to wander around have been causing considerable trouble, and numerous complaints have been made to police headquarters. The hens destroy vines, lawns and gardens, and otherwise do damage to property.

An authority has the following to say about this nuisance: "A person owning hens, and allowing same to roam at large, can be held responsible for all actual damage done by them, and any nuisance caused by them can be restrained by action against the owners."

The Men's Rally.

Halifax churchmen have pledged $40,000 for missions this year, and on behalf of the Laymen's Movement, Edw. J. B. Pense went down from Kingston. He spoke on Sunday last in old St. Paul's in the morning, at the workingmen's mission in the afternoon, then to a meeting of leaders of six denominations, and in the evening at Dartmouth, J. S. Wilcox, M.P., and a number of Halifax laymen spoke in other churches, and on Monday evening there was a joint conference of Anglicans, Presby. and Congregationalists. The Rev. Mr. Pense, lately the eloquent member of the House of Commons, spoke in the Presbyterian church at Dartmouth and presided at the inter-denominational conference. The attendance of men at these meetings was remarkable.

CASE STILL GOES ON

THE BUCKEYE STATE ACCIDENT REHEARSED.

Strong Case Made Out For the M. T. Company—The Buckeye State's Captain Charges Negligence to Tow Captain.

The sittings of the Admiralty court were resumed Wednesday afternoon, after his lordship and visiting counsel had attended the convention proceedings at Queen's university. Mr. Leslie was still under cross-examination by Mr. King. Witness said that on April 15th he examined the boat in the dry dock and examined the lock at Cornwall on April 26th. He was questioned closely as to the position of the steps, the size and all connected with them. Fully an hour was spent while the witness worked out the depth of water at high and low water, at the time of the accident and at the present time. It took some time to do the figuring, and very little seemed to be accomplished. Every point and every part of the lock was fully discussed and figured on, plans and blue prints being produced by both sides. Quite a discussion took place as to what steps hit the boat, to put the hole in her hull, if any step hit her, just when she would touch the gate, would she touch the railing on top of the gate, and many other things, even to find out if the force of the blow was enough to knock a man, who was standing on the deck, off his feet.

After an hour and a half questioning his lordship stated that he thought the connection between the tug and the large American hotel but nothing very important was gone over.

When court was resumed this morning Captain John Baptiste Desrosier, of the tug Jessie Hall, took the stand. Witness stated he was in Iroquois November last, and saw the large Buckeye State at the pier there. When he arrived the barge was sinking and her captain asked witness to tow him to shallow water and put a pump on her, which he did. He produced a signed statement of the work done, and how long it took him. Witness stated that the tug Mary P. Hall came along later and took his place, as she was a bigger boat with stronger engines. In cross-examination Mr. King went over the memorandum point by point, with the witness, who told of the work done by him, and of pulling off the stem of the barge.

Captain T. J. Murphy, of the tug Mary P. Hall, was the second witness called by Mr. King. Witness said he was lying at Prescott when he received orders from the company to go to the barge Buckeye State at Iroquois. He stated that when he arrived with the tug the Jessie Hall was there and that the barge was on the bottom. Part of the stem was pulled off above the water, but he did not know about underneath it. Witness stated that the tug Mary P. Hall was told by the captain of the barge that there was about seven feet of water in his craft and to get his pumps working. He at once started the pump and kept on working until he released her. He produced a statement showing how long it took him to get the barge out of the water. He stated for some with the barge and had to lie at Prescott because the barge was leaking badly. Later he went to Clayton, laid there all night and then went on to Cape Vincent, where he had to pump her out again. The cargo taken off at Cape Vincent and she was brought light to Kingston. He stated that while he was towing the boat up the tug Mary had to use her pumps to keep her from sinking. The Mary was with him all the way to Cape Vincent. Witness stated that the barge was lightened at the Cape, one of the men of the barge showed him the leak on the starboard bow up from the keel. On cross-examination witness denied positively that any of his crew were drunk on that day, or that he was running up to the hotel. To Mr. King on re-examination witness said that it took as much coal to run the pump as it did to tow and that he could not do both at once.

Luke Mallin, captain of the tug Mary, was next called and told of the work he did on the barge Buckeye State, at the order of the Montreal Transportation company. His statement of work done was produced, and how much time it had taken him to pump her out. He was with her all the way to Cape Vincent with the exception of those hours while he was coaling up at Prescott. During those three hours, the Mary P. Hall took his place at the pumps. Mr. King read his case for salvage at this point, reserving the right to come in with material on points that have not yet arisen.

Mr. King stated that in regard to the other case in which his clients were plaintiffs, against the tug Mary Ellen, in England and the United States, if an injury was done to a barge while in tow the tug owners had to begin, and disprove negligence in causing the accident. His lordship was under the opinion that the other side should commence. The first witness called by Mr. King was Jesse Barclay, a driver in employ of the dominion government along the Marysburg canal. He stated that he was called to examine the Buckeye State and found her lying on the bottom of the bay near Iroquois. He went down and examined the stem and found that the false stem was split, and that there was an iron band that went around her bow, connecting the bow and forefoot was broken or cut. The stem was also knocked to one side about eight inches or a foot. This injury extended up to the top of the water, as she lay on the bottom. The stem at the top was knocked to one side, about two inches. Witness told of the injuries he found on the boat after he had taken her off the false stem; of fixing them; of her being towed to the bottom, but did not see any other damage that he thought serious. He called the check and covered it with canvas. Witness received $53 for his services. He stated that he had been down at the head of the Morrisburg canal, but had never seen the steps in question.

In cross-examination, by Mr. King, witness said that he could not say whether the place rasked had been repaired or not, and he could not tell whether the hole went through the inner stem or not. He said the hole was at a foot long and about one inch and a half wide at the widest spot. The barge had settled about three feet in the mud and he did not see any other injuries. The witness was shown a photograph showing other injuries and he stated that they must have been in the mud. To Mr. Gogo, witness said that he could not say what was inside the real stem to stop the water from going in. He also stated that some of his results were secured by feeling, and that the hole might have been there and he not find it.

Capt. Demand Hansen, of the Buckeye State, was next called by Mr. King. He stated that during the past season he made six trips, being towed by the tug of the M. T. company. Witness stated that once, when the tug took him in tow at Lachine he did not engage any other tug. On one occasion he hired the tug Mary Ellen to tow him to Dickenson's Landing, on the orders of Mr. Cuttle, manager of the M. T. company. Witness told of the last trip up the Lachine on November 27th, in tow of the Mary P. Hall, as far as Coteau, when the Emerson took her in tow and pulled her up to the Cornwall canal, where the tug left them, going on up to lock 20. He stated he pulled the barge through the first lock with his steam winch. When he was in the last lock, two of his men were on the basin; one at the stern line and one at the bow line. The tug pulled the barge so far out that the clock hands had to let go of the line. Witness said that when he was far enough out, he put his wheel hard to starboard and told the mate to tell the tug captain to take care, but the latter took no notice. He called out to the tug again not to pull them so far over, but the captain would not stop, and he called a third time, not to pull him over too far. Court then adjourned to meet at two o'clock.

Pixley-Crawford Wedding.

A quiet wedding took place at the home of William Crawford, Barrack street, when his only daughter, Gertrude, became the wife of Ezra Pixley, of Sydenham. The young couple received many presents. The groom's gift to the bride was a gold watch and chain, and to the bride, a diamond brooch. The newly married couple left, at midnight, for a honeymoon trip. On their return they will reside in Sydenham.

AT THE POLICE COURT

TWO WOMEN INVOLVED IN AN ASSAULT CASE.

One Was Called Upon to Pay a Fine of $1 and Costs—Some Trouble Over Boys.

An assault case, in which two women figured, came before Magistrate Farrell, in police court, this morning. Mrs. Kate Hagan, of Montreal street, charged as neighbor, Mrs. Mary Hays, with assault. Complainant said that the little boy was fighting with Mrs. Hays' lad, and she was afraid that her boy would be stabbed with a knife. She went to Mrs. Hays' house, and asked that she punish her boy for his conduct. While at the door, she claimed that Mrs. Hays grabbed her by the throat and choked her, and also threw an umbrella handle at her out of the window. Complainant said that she did not strike back at Mrs. Hays.

Robert S. Anderson, a witness called, said that he happened along at the time the affair took place. He saw defendant grab hold of the defendant by the throat, and also saw the defendant throw the umbrella handle.

The thirteen-year-old son of the complainant was called. He said that he had been playing ball with the Hays boy. The boy became angry because he could not strike the ball, and came to witness, threw him on the ground, and tramped on him, at the same time showing witness a knife, stating that he would use it on him. Witness did not think the boy would use the knife.

Witness told the court that Mrs. Hays grabbed hold of his mother by the throat. Witness said that his mother made no attempt to strike at Mrs. Hays. Mrs. Hays also attempted to strike his mother with a curtain pole.

When called to give evidence Mrs. Hays denied the charge, and accused Mrs. Hagan of being a quarrelsome woman. Witness said that Mrs. Hagan grabbed her by the shoulder, and her dress was torn. Witness then grabbed hold of Mrs. Hagan and pushed her out of her door. Witness said that the umbrella handle fell out of the window, but was not thrown by her. Afterwards Mrs. Hagan picked up the umbrella handle and threw it at witness. The two had a few words over the boys, and Mrs. Hagan said to witness, "You are a liar," and witness in reply said, "You are a lady."

The evidence given by Mrs. Hays was corroborated by a son, thirteen years of age.

The magistrate, in summing up the case, said that the evidence was rather conflicting, but there was sufficient to substantiate the charge of the complainant, and imposed a fine of $1 and costs, or ten days, upon Mrs. Hays.

All In The Family.

Dr. James B. Angell, the president of the University of Michigan, was invited to dinner at the Chinese legation in Washington some years ago.

The doctor sat at the right hand of the minister. The floor of the dining room was waxy and slippery, and there were no rugs. He endeavored to move back his chair. It slipped and the dignified educator slid under the table.

He arose, much confused, but got a Chinese said a word or gave any sign of having seen the accident. Ten minutes later his Chinese host tried to move back his chair, and he, too, slid under the table. He got up and resumed his seat, and none of the Chinese made a sign.

Then at regular intervals every Chinaman around the table did out of his chair and under the table. The doctor thought they were making game of him and protested.

"My dear sir," said the host, "we are paying you the highest compliment we can. In order that you may not feel embarrassed over the accident we have each met with the same mishap, so we are all brothers together."
