Mrs. George McReynolds Who Was Ignorant of Her Husband's Circumstances

The Husband Who Lost Wife and Liberty

GIVES THE RELIEF

ELDERLY PEOPLE SHOULD VALUE THIS HIGHLY.

Promptly Believes Kidney and Bladder Trouble and Rheumatism and is Easily Prepared at Home.

The great majority of men and women at the age of fifty years begin to feel the first signs of advancing age in some form of kidney trouble and bladder weakness. Few are actively free from that torturous disease, rheumatism, which is not a disease in itself, but a symptom of deranged function of the kidneys which have become clogged and sluggish, failing in their duty of filtering and straining the poisonous waste matter, uric acid, etc., from the blood, permitting it to remain and decompose, settling about the joints and muscles, causing intense pain and suffering.

What he terms "old vegetable treatment" consists of the following simple prescription, the ingredients of which may be obtained from any good pharmacy at small cost: Compound Karyon, one ounce; Fluid Extract, Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and upon going to bed, also drink plenty of water. This prescription, though simple, is always effective in the diseases and affections of the kidneys and bladder.

The Apple Before Bed.

The apple is such a common fruit, says a medical writer, that very few persons are familiar with its remarkably efficacious medicinal properties. Everybody ought to know that the very best thing they can do to eat apples just before retiring for the night.

The Man Who Works Hard.

Perseverance and will power he must have, but whether he has strength and vigor is another consideration. Hard working men usually have irritable nerves and should fortify their systems with a course of Ferronose, a tonic that rebuilds and revitalizes beyond all telling. It's just wonderful the strength that Ferronose imparts to broken down men. It forms new blood, supplies the system with abundant nourishment, and where formerly there was tiredness and lassitude, Ferronose establishes a reserve of energy and vim. Try Ferronose. most poetic of blooms, the sweet, the violet. She developed a passion for violets—thousands, tens of thousands of all varieties and of all costliness. Violets became her charming, elegant hobby, to such a degree that she craved to be the creator of all whose beating fragrance she breathed. Her home, Kenilworth, did not afford her the facilities she needed.

She bought the farm, at Glencoe, and he paid for it as he would have paid any other bill that might come in. The violets came, vast masses of them, making the home one great, delicious conservatory, overflowing to the houses of the delighted inmates, building up, upon an odoriferous, beautiful pedestal, the social position that is craved by women when they near middle age, and is to be commanded by those who, having ample wealth, contrive to do some strikingly original thing.

George McReynolds, as head of the firm of McReynolds & Co., operated three grain elevators, an important concern, even in a centre where the grain trade draws upon territories greater than European kingdoms, Chicago at large, and Mattie's McReynolds, in particular, no more dreamed of the possibility of the firm becoming embarrassed than the little cash girls in a big store dream of the possibility of white violets.

a man, when fate begins to deal the unkind blows that are to ruin your fortunes or your business, do you come home at night and tell your wife and prepare her for the economy that is judicious?

There is a problem which, in its less acute stages, confronts every husband and every wife, from the millionaire who seems to be an entrenched in riches, that no cataclysm in finance can wrench them into poverty, to the letter of the farm who wonders anxiously whether the querulous complaints of his employer over the corn crop mean that he shall be out of work early in the fall.
