

FOR FLOOR AND WINDOW

We want to talk to every woman who is a PARTICULAR house-keeper.

Got the best of news for her—about crisp, filmy curtains, that will make her windows beautiful——and about soft, rich rugs, to make her floors attractive.

We've just unpacked a fascinating assortment of lacy draperies, and of sheer curtaining that are sold by the yard, the most enjoyable selection we've ever shown.

"Enjoyable," because much of daintiness may be yours for very small sums. Whether you wish superb draperies for your parlor, or simple sash curtains for your kitchen, you'll find them here for slight expenditure.

AND THE RUGS!

Every size and style is here—little rugs for odd corners—or to cover a worn spot—and large ones, to cover an entire floor.

Quiet, in soft blended shades, or as brilliant in design and coloring as you wish.

NURSES ALUMNAE

A FINE GATHERING AT THE NURSES HOME.

The Election of Officers—An Able Address By Dr. Macintyre—Cake and Music.

The most enthusiastic and most largely attended meeting of the Nurses Alumnae, of the Kingston General Hospital, which has ever been held, took place in the nurses' home, on Monday afternoon. The election of officers resulted in placing Miss Scott, superintendent of the training school, in the honorary presidency. Mrs. W. C. Tilley, in the presidency, Miss Emily Baker in the vice-presidency, and Mrs. George Nicol in the secretary-treasurership.

The chief event of the afternoon was Dr. A. D. Macintyre's most interesting paper on "Modern Methods of Fumigation" in which he dealt with their satisfactory and unsatisfactory points. He counselled his hearers not to rely upon them entirely, but to seek the powerful aid of fresh air and sunlight in disinfecting.

The afternoon was not altogether given over to things of weight, for Miss Wiley, a pupil nurse, sang. Miss Crosgreen, another nurse, accompanied her, and Miss Webster, one of the graduating class, also sang, and the music was heartily enjoyed. Besides this there was cake and coffee to close the pleasant afternoon. Miss Scott, with the Princesses, presided, and operated by a Kingstonian, and we employ

The alumnae is in a most successful state, and the financial balance is about $100.

CHEERING REPORT.

Lots of Work and Encouragement For Smelter.

R. E. Cushman, of 130 King street, accompanied by E. E. Robinson, mining expert, from New York, have completed an examination of the Frontenac Lead Mine and other lead properties in Eastern Canada which Mr. Cushman is interested in. The investigation was made for H. P. Morris, a prominent banker and broker of Wall street, New York. Mr. Morris has entered into an agreement with Mr. Cushman to sell 150,000 shares of a new company to be formed with a Canadian charter to complete the plants and operate the mines and erect and operate a lead smelter here in Kingston. Mr. Cushman is forming a board of directors to incorporate a company. The letter received from Mr. Morris, who was highly pleased with the report of the expert who made the examinations, says:

"Having sent my expert to Canada for the specific purpose of investigating your lead properties, his report has been very favorable in every particular. I am advised that you have ore on the dump of your property and blocked out, perfectly visible to the naked eye, to the amount of from $200,000 to $250,000, and this ore can positively be mined, milled, shipped and smelted at a cost of approximately $35 per ton, and as you are aware, there is a constant and increasing demand for lead at $80 per ton, you should thus readily realize a net profit of at least $25 per ton, the smelting charges figured at $10 per ton. I am advised that fuel can be readily obtained at a minimum cost and transportation facilities are at hand. You, of course, require a smelter and you now have a most desirable site on the harbor at Kingston."

My expert also looked up the other lead properties at Bannockburn, and there found about 12,000 tons of ore immediately available for the smelter. Your smelter would not only give permanent employment to a large number of people and be a monopoly in its business in Canada, but there is sufficient ore at your property and within sixty miles of the smelter to keep said smelter in constant operation for many years to come. From samples taken from your property, you can rest assured, you have an ore, which would average at the low eight per cent lead, and the profits referred to as being probable for your smelter to earn, no estimate is made of the income from the by-products.

"I advise you to immediately incorporate a company, surrounding yourself with a strong board of directors of local men as is possible, have your stock issued at par value of $1, and I shall then be prepared to immediately take up the sale of all of the treasury stock of your company on a cash commission basis of ten per cent. I suggest placing 150,000 shares of this stock for sale at 50c per share as you require less than $65,000 to fully operate and develop your mining property, erect your smelter and have sufficient working capital to begin operations. As the summer is rapidly approaching, I advise you to lose no unnecessary time in incorporating your company and selecting your directors. As I am reserving a place in my business for your offering, kindly advise me definitely at the earliest possible moment. Yours very truly, H. P. MORRIS."

In Montreal William Kinloch died suddenly, at his residence, at the age of ninety-one years.

It is believed that Boyd has fled the state and escaped across the state line into the mountain districts of Tennessee. The shooting was the result of a fight between a man named Leatherswood, a well-known citizen, and Boyd's nephew. Abel and Boyd were eye-witnesses of the affair and Abel attempted to separate the two men, which enraged Boyd, who drew a gun and commenced firing at Abel. Abel was shot through the heart.
