TEN TONS OF CANDY FOR U.S. SAILORS.

U. S. Navy Department to Keep Men Sober With Chocolate Drops. Washington, D.C., May 19.—The navy department has ordered another lot of 40,000 pounds of high-grade chocolate bonbons for the Pacific fleet to be delivered in San Francisco before the ships sail for the east.

Large shipments have been repeatedly ordered for the warships, owing to a conviction on the part of the medical corps that chocolates lessen the desire for strong drink and are especially good for men in the tropics.

Parity, flavor and keeping qualities are the three requirements. Every bonbon is wrapped in tin foil and then packed in air-tight tin boxes with screw tops to resist heat and salt air.

Jack does not care for the pretty paper boxes gentlemen know so well, but in like the contents and orders in carload lots.

The loss was reported to Constables Arnie and Timmerman, and upon investigation, they found that the prisoner had sold it at a local pawnshop for ten cents. CANDIDATES FRATERNIZE.

After You, My Dear Alphonse, He Said. An incident that gave additional flavor to the play in the Grand Opera House, last evening, in view of politics being the subject of everyday discussion, was the bringing together of the conservative and liberal candidates in the coming local election.

After the second act, Cornelius Birmingham spied W. F. Nickle, and brought him down to a front seat for a friendly talk. A little later, Mr. Pense was notified by the Canadian locomotive works' director, to be entering the house, after the closing of the registration booth.

Some one suggested that it would be fine to place the two candidates side by side in the hall-headed row. Mr. Birmingham returned to meet the challenge and walked back to meet Mr. Pense. In a few moments he escorted him down the aisle, and ushered him into a seat beside the row Mr. Birmingham reserved for the conservative candidate.

The audience appreciated the incident, and there was applause and laughter. The two candidates looked quite happy, and possibly each expressed the hope that the other would win, in true Alphonse-Gaston fashion.

A CITIZEN SUMMONED For Building a Portico on the Street Line. The police have summoned a Union street resident for erecting a portico partly on city property. Several residents of that street desired to rebuild their old porches or porticos, which had for years encroached on the street line. The by-law, however, prevented them from building anew on the same ground. They asked the city council last Monday for permission to build on the street line, and the chairman of the board of works was authorized to give the permission. The police could not recognize such authority, as it could not override a by-law. The by-law still stands, and for violation of it in building on the street line, summonses were issued. The case will be heard by the police magistrate on Thursday morning.

Motor Boat Lost. A gasoline launch, owned by William Davis, and kept at the foot of Princess street, mysteriously disappeared on Monday evening.
