THE END LOOKED FOR. Dr. Spankie says his candidature Frontenac was in the first place "urged by conservatives," so that he could not have been used as "a too to split the conservative party." Now that he is out of the way it may not be amiss to say that some liberals in the county were expecting what has happened. They thus favoured an out and out party man rather than one who was simply disgruntled for the time and disposed to censure the Whitney government in several parti-

As an inspector of schools, and therefore amenable to the influence of a minister who is nothing, if not party hack, it was inconceivable how Dr. Spankie could conduct a vigorous political campaign against the government nominee. He was sure, sooner or later, to invite the hostility of Dr. Pyne. The screws may not have been applied, but they would have been and the doctor would have been forced to either give up his independence or his public position. The Whitney government has no use for anyone who stands between it and party success, and it would not have tolerated any criticism from Dr Spankie that reflected upon it or its management of any department. The independent proceedings of Dr Spankie had, in consequence, the effect of showing how ineffectual is the attempt of any man, no matter how clean, energetic, popular and deservthe marks of the party's branding

The Montreal Witness has a very timely article on the blockade of business at Ottawa, and for partizan purposes. Our contemporary shows that there is something out in the argument of the conservatives that they are resisting progress on principle. It amend the but, it is really very hard to see what the opposition hads in this whole matter to justily its howling and its dislocation of public business. The only explanation that strikes anyone not influenced by party motives is that the opposition does not like to lose the advantage that would accrue to it by using the present partizan lists prepared by the local government. It is true that Dr. Koche and the other Manitoba conservatives who have been leading the not put their case in that way. They, people for one more chance. assert that the Manitoba lists as they stand are fair to both sides, and that the whole question at issue is one of I have removed to the former principle, but if it is a question of principle, it is a very tunny thing tions alone. WHAT OF THE SURPLUS?

The Revenue Provided By Ross Government. Brantford Speciator.

The Whitney government claimed for 1907 a surplus of $605,173. Let us apply to this claim the line vincial treasurer when in opposition. In raising the question of whether certain revenues ought to be placed under capital or current account, the Mail and Empire of February 10th, the 1904, quotes Mr. Matheson as follows:

It is passing strange that our great provincial university should, as to its financial support, be placed so as to depend not upon the will of intelligent representatives of the people, but upon the size of the estates of the dead. Trust the living people, say the liberals. No, says Mr. Whitney, "we will not. We will not allow an annual vote to be taken, and he who advocates this we openly denounce as an enemy of the university !" Thus does he hope to build up a great national university, broad-based upon the will of a people who are not allowed to exercise their will !
