KINGSTON, ONTARIO, SATURDAY, JUNE 6, 1908.

LAST EDITION

GREAT RALLY

Of the Supporters of Mr. Pense.

VICTORY IN SIGHT

FOR THE MAN WHO HAS BEEN FAITHFUL

To the Interests of Kingston—Mr. Pense Made a Strong Address Breathing Loyalty to City.

Monday would have a good deal to do with the election of Mr. Hartly next fall. Mr. Mowat concluded by asking the electors to be loyal to Mr. Pense, the man who represented Kingston faithfully and well in the past, and whom, he was sure, they were determined should represent them in the Ontario house during the next four years. (Applause.)

Ovation To Mr. Pense.

When Mr. Pense arose to speak, he was greeted with the greatest ovation ever accorded him since his entry into political life. He thanked the large audience for the reception it has given him, and for gathering for the battle. The day had been very calm in political circles—like a lull before a storm. It was fitting that it should be so, as a preparation for the battle on Monday. It was fitting that his supporters should gather together for inspiration. He said he was pleased with the registered vote, and believed he would get the larger portion of it. He had been received kindly throughout his canvass, and this was a great delight. No matter what the result on Monday might be, he would always recall with pleasure the kind reception he had received from the people during his canvass, after he had served in three parliaments, he trusted faithfully.

Mr. Pense said that new comers desired a discussion of politics, so that they could understand the issues of the day in Ontario. The opposition paper simply discussed Pense and "Knockers." If such a discussion of public matters was given by W. F. Nickle in the city hall, last Monday evening, had been given in the legislature, that gentleman would be likened unto two members up there whose names he wouldn't mention, but who didn't occupy a very high place. He himself, last Monday evening, had discussed political questions on the plane of legislative debate. A campaign is for the discussion of politics.

If any political leader of to-day should be admired, said Mr. Pense, it should be Alexander G. MacKay, who has done well through the province, waging a valiant battle on behalf of good government, which will go down into political history as one of the most courageous fights that ever occurred in Canada. (Applause.) It was to be hoped that Mr. MacKay's splendid efforts would meet with a good measure of success on Monday.

Do You Endorse These Things?

The Whitney government made a Prison Labor contract at 30 cents a day, with all sorts of incidental advantages thrown in.

The Whitney government has done nothing for technical education, and has given Labor nothing but a faraway promise.

The members of the Whitney government increased the number of cabinet ministers, and increased their own salaries $2,000 each.

In violation of solemn pledges against "last hour" legislation, Whitney government within 48 hours of the closing of parliament brought down, without previous intimation, a guarantee of $1,500,000 to the Canadian Northern Company, and a vote of $130,000 to the LaRose Mining Company.

The Whitney government in the "last awful week" put through the Canadian Northern guarantee and the LaRose mining deals.

The Whitney government in three-and-a-half years has increased the expenditure of the province $1 per capita, as great an increase as was made in 33 years of Liberal administration.

The Whitney government restored the contract system in the Central Prison.

The Whitney government, after making a definite promise that it would require prison-made goods to be labelled such, has not only failed to keep this pledge, but in the binder twine contract has distinctly provided that goods made under this contract are to bear no distinctive label.

A Vote for Pense will mean you do not approve these things.

N. C. Polson, all of whom predicted success for Mr. Pense on Monday.

The Horse Artillery orchestra furnished fine music during the intervals. Songs were rendered by Messrs. Manly and Arthur Craig, a recitation was given by Mr. Waring, a piccolo solo by Mr. Jackson and gramophone selections were enjoyed from Stephen Cayless' instrument.

OGDENSBURG MADE HAPPY.

Harbor Improvement Plans Will Be Carried Out.

Ogdensburg, N.Y., June 6.—There is general rejoicing among marine interests since Congressman Malby received a message from the board of review, at Washington, on the appeal of the harbor committee of this city for a greater appropriation for widening and deepening. The original elaborate scheme for improvement of the harbor basin is to be carried out and a further appropriation of $187,000 is to be made next year in addition to the $75,000 now being spent in entering the harbor entrances. The lower bay channels will be dredged to a depth of nineteen feet and will be 1,400 feet wide, allowing the largest lake boats to enter without difficulty.

The Chinese government is engaged in framing a plan for the education of Chinese boys in America. Under it is proposed to pay to American schools and colleges the majority of that portion of the Chinese Boxer indemnity, which was cancelled by the United States and returned to China. The shah, whose unexpected departure from Teheran, caused some excitement, leading to a report that he intended to leave the country, has gone to a summer palace in the hills in the neighborhood of the capital. THE STREET RAILWAY.

Mr. Pense made reference to the street railway question, in view of the abuse heaped upon him by the Standard. He felt that one ground of the criticism was that a rival newspaper proprietor was up for election. In 1905, after the council passed the present street railway agreement, Mr. Pense said that the late George Richardson, who was a warm personal friend of his, came to him regarding the railway and asked him to aid it in any way he could. He responded by writing an article that very day in the Whig calling upon the people to support the street cars loyally and ensure the success of the line. After the death of Mr. Richardson former friendships with other members of the street railway company had been turned to hate on their part because of his (Mr. Pense's) political successes.

Mr. Pense declared that he was the largest contributor in Kingston to the street railway company. Not one member of the Whig staff rides free on the cars, as do those of the other newspapers. Tickets are bought regularly for ten-dollar lots. Therefore his yearly contribution to the railway is large. That is the kind of "knockers" he is. (Laughter.) Furthermore, the Whig pays $1,200 a year to the city for light and power, and up to a late date the charge was five times for electricity what the railway paid. In conclusion Mr. Pense asked all who could to come out on Monday and do their level best at the polls. Everyone is needed to work. Whether he won or lost on Monday this would be his last political contest. It is the fifth he had entered, and he wished to close his political career with another brilliant victory. Mr. Pense here quoted the touching lines of a Scottish poem, as expressing the gratefulness he would feel to the old Limestone City, the place of his birth, for all it had done for him:

"The monarch may forget the crown
The on his head he has forgot
The bridegroom may forget the bride
We made his wedding wife yesternoon.
The mother may forget the child
That smiles so sweetly on her knee.
But I'll remember thee, O Kingston,
And all that thou hast done for me."
"No matter," said Mr. Pense, "whether I am defeated or whether I win, Kingston will ever be the dearest spot to me, and every dollar I can command will be put into brick and mortar in this historic city, and not played at interest." (Loud and prolonged applause.)

Victorious addresses were delivered by R. F. Elliott, Dr. J. J. Hartly and

GANANOQUE BUDGET.

Death of Henry Emberly—Many Weddings.

Gananoque, June 6.—Henry Emberly, an old and highly respected resident of the town, passed away at his residence, corner William and Brock streets, at an early hour yesterday morning, in the sixtieth year of his age. He was twice married, his first wife dying some years ago, and he having married within the past few months, Mrs. Julia M. Taylor. By his first wife, he leaves one son, a resident in this locality and three daughters, Mrs. Charles Dustin, Rockport, N.Y., Mrs. Redden and Mrs. Samuel Bittam, Gananoque. The funeral will take place on Sunday afternoon.

The Clayton-Gananoque steamer "Where Now," took out an excursion party to Clayton last evening.

A number from Gananoque left by special train yesterday morning to take in the excursion to Montreal, held under the auspices of Mallorytown Lodge, No. 245, I.O.O.F.

The town council at their session this week authorized Town Clerk Samuel McCannion to prepare a by-law for raising the sum of $20,000 for the construction of concrete walks.

Some weddings have been extremely popular hereabouts so far this month, Thomas Baker, the popular hackman, having officiated in that capacity at four during the past three days, and best of all there are more to follow.

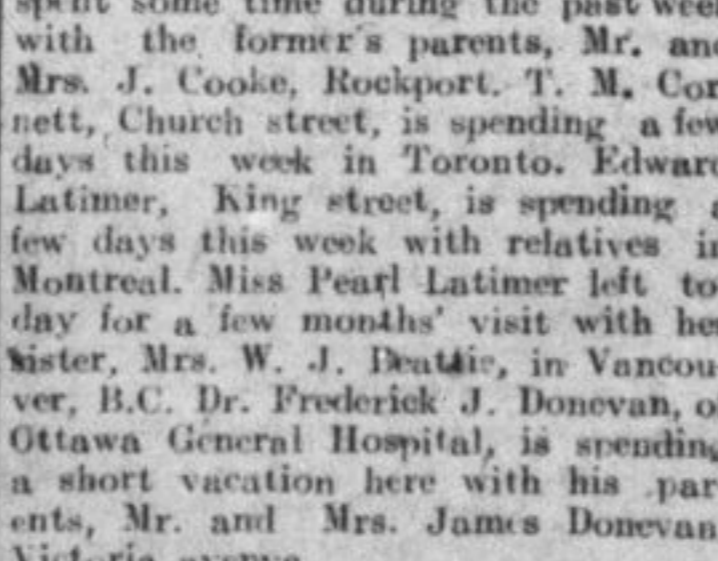

Mrs. Reed and daughter, Miss Margaret Reed, of Geneva, N.Y., who have been spending a few weeks with relatives and friends in town, have returned home. Thomas Meigs, Stone street, is spending a few days in Boston. Mrs. Hugh Loney and daughter, Mrs. J. Waldie, of Leeds township, spent some time during the past week with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Cooke, Rockport. T. M. Cornett, Church street, is spending a few days this week in Toronto. Edward Lettmer, King street, is spending a few days this week with relatives in Montreal. Miss Pearl Lettmer left today for a few months' visit with her sister, Mrs. W. J. Deatler, in Vancouver, B.C. Dr. Frederick J. Donevan, of Ottawa General Hospital, is spending a short vacation here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Donevan, Victoria avenue.

GIVE IT THE LIE.

The grants to Queen's College, The Dairy School, The Opera House, fine monument to the memory of Sir George Kirkpatrick, the encouragement to local athletics by aiding to establish and maintain good clubs; every project of the Board of Trade, the work of the Humane Society; devotion to the Kingston Old Boys' Society; everywhere; the maintenance of St. George's Society; twenty years on Educational, or Municipal Boards. All give the lie to Nickle's organ, "The Standard," in calling Pense a "Knocker."

THE FUTURE BRIDE.

Of "Joe" Letter of Chicago and Washington.

MISS JULIETTE WILLIAMS.

Miss Juliette Williams, daughter of Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. John R. Williams, of the United States army, has been introduced as the future bride of "Joe" Letter, of Chicago and Washington, who is many times a millionaire. Miss Williams is scarcely twenty years of age and is noted for her beauty. She lives with her parents, who are now stationed at Fort Dupont, Del. She is a great friend of Mrs. (Gen.) Cobbin, who met her in Manila, where she was attracted by the young girl's unaffected beauty. "Rubber rings" for self sealers. New ones, at Gibson's Red Cross drug store.

NO CONFIDENCE IN 'EM.

After a three-day chase Young was captured, at which time he made several local threats, one of which was that he would kill the best of police when freed. In view of this sentence is remarkably light.

DESERVES SUCCESS.

Hon. A. G. MacKay has written: "I hope, and have no doubt that in his campaign Mr. Pense will be successful. No member of the legislature better deserves success. Kingston should not fail in its duty to return him with a very decisive majority. I have sincere admiration for his plucky fight in the bye-election against the full weight of government force."

REV. DR. FINDLAY DIED.

Barrie, Ont., June 6.—Rev. Dr. Allan Findlay, the aged superintendent of New Ontario missions for the Presbyterian church, died suddenly on Friday. He was not sick an hour.

Rev. Dr. Findlay leaves a widow, five daughters and four sons. He was the father of Private Findlay, the first Canadian soldier to be shot in the South African war. Detached was an early riser, and on Friday morning got up and dressed as usual, but complained of dizziness. He laid down again, and expired about seven o'clock, before a doctor reached the house. He was sixty-eight years old, and had resided in Barrie for thirty years.

LIVELY TALK

Obstructive Tactics of the Opposition.

HANDFUL OF MEN

WILL NOT BE ALLOWED TO HOLD UP HOUSE.

There is a Prospect of Parliament Taking Some Action—The Civil Servants Are Being Put to Much Trouble Over Absence of Their Pay.

Special to the Whig.

Ottawa, June 6.—There was a lively talk in the House of Commons yesterday, over the obstructive tactics of the opposition, during which Hon. W. S. Fielding told the conservatives plainly that the government did not propose to be dictated to by the minority of the house. There were people all over the country whose claims for salaries and other services could not be met owing to the opposition obstruction. "In no other civilized country in the world was there such a loose and easy-going arrangement by which a handful of men were able to delay the business of the country. It was just such another procedure as that which led the mother of parliaments to change its rules, and which was fast driving this parliament to a similar course."

Mr. Owen—"What about the hold-up of 1896?"

Mr. Fielding—"There never was an hour in 1896 when the public service was not provided for. There was always an abundance of money for the country's needs. That is not the situation now."

Duncan Ross, the liberal member for Yale-Caribou, advocated some change of rules which would remove from the Canadian parliament the reproach which now attaches to it. The speaker of the government realized its duty to carry on the business of the country the better. He advocated the closure by the intervention of the speaker to shorten discussion, as was done in the British parliament in 1882.

Mr. Owen, conservative, of Northumberland, attacked the minister of customs for having said, in an address to the electors at Brantford, that 1,800 public servants in Canada were kept out of their pay by the obstructive tactics of the conservative leaders.

The minister of finance, however, said that his collection was fully justified in what he had said. The votes to which Mr. Owen alluded had passed committee of supply but had not yet passed the house. "The trouble," Mr. Fielding continued, "is that the minority in this house have too much rights and too loose a system in mind, by which the opposition is allowed to delay business to an extent which is not permitted in any other civilized country of the world."

The finance minister, in reply to a libel from the opposition side of the house, repeated his declaration made earlier in the session that the only rights of individuals or of minorities in parliament are such as are conceded them by the majority.

Another opposition "scandal" was demolished in the public accounts committee yesterday. It was stated that Leslie Macoun, because he was the son-in-law of Sir Frederick Borden, had received the contract for the supply of scales to the Dominion Arsenal at Quebec, although Courtenay & Brown were the lowest. Mr. Jarvis soon settled matters by stating that the scales were not purchased from Mr. Macoun but from Courtenay & Brown. "That ended the 'scandal'."
