The Georgian and Trent Canals Are Questions Which Will Have To Be Solved As The Years Go By Says The Minister of Railways and Canals.

From Our Own Correspondent.
Ottawa, June 12.—It looks as if the trouble between the government and the opposition regarding the election bill is all over for business is now proceeding as if nothing had happened and certain it is that there is work being faster done than at any time during the session. Yesterday, for instance, over a million dollars was voted for the railway of the country within an hour. At this rate the session will be over in July.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier stated, yesterday, that the government would have legislation to propose to the house before the end of the session in regard to the Quebec bridge. Nothing was said in regard to the rebuilding of this link in the Transcontinental line but it is said to be likely that the bridge will be rebuilt as a government work.

In the course of a discussion, yesterday, it was suggested by Mr. Lennox that the government should construct a canal from the Holland river to Bradford, and also that steps should be taken to deepen the Welland Canal so as to allow of the Canadian route capturing the traffic that now goes via the Erie.

The minister replied, however, that to do this the Welland would have to be deepened to twenty-five feet, which would cost more than to put a new channel with seventy-five per cent. less of lockage.

The minister of railways intimated that it was the intention to procure estimates of the cost of deepening the Welland canal to a draught of twenty-five feet, and also of the cost of an entirely new canal. Answering Mr. Lancaster, he said he was prepared to say that if we were to carry our own traffic as well as American traffic the Welland canal would have to be deepened to a depth of twenty-five feet.

As to the new canal, his scheme would reduce the number of locks seventy-five per cent. and though he could not say with definiteness, he thought the cost would be approximately twenty-five or thirty million dollars. There were advantages in the new channel, owing to the shorter distance and fewer locks.

Mr. Graham said the Georgian Bay and Trent canals were questions which would have to be solved as the years went by.

The senators, members of parliament and newspaper men will enjoy, on Saturday, a visit to the great Macdonald college at Ste. Anne de Bellevue.

Will Not Interfere in Fight For Second Place.

Chicago, June 12.—Manager Frank H. Hitchcock of the Taft forces, has made an important declaration in relation to the vice-presidential nomination. Mr. Hitchcock said:

"The question of the nomination of a vice-president, Secretary Taft and his managers have made no combination or deals, they will not hewer to make any combinations or deals, and will not push the candidacy of any particular man."

"I am simply working to secure the nomination of Secretary Taft on the first ballot, and when we have achieved that we will be highly satisfied."

"The question of the selection of a vice-presidential candidate is for the national convention to decide and there is no thought in the Taft management of attempting to interfere in this direction."

The Church's Move.

Winsted, Conn., June 12.—James Burns, proprietor of the newly constructed Bantam hotel, in Bantam, rubbed his eyes twice, on Saturday morning when he saw the Baptist church coming up the road on rollers. When the building was swung in and placed on the lot within 200 feet of the hotel, he went out to investigate. The Bantam Women's Christian Temperance Union had acquired the lot and got the Baptist Church Society to move its church there. Thus shall Mr. Burns be balked when he applies again for a license to sell intoxicating liquors in Bantam. The law reads that no premises within 200 feet of a church edifice can have a liquor license.

Those Stanstead Records.

Ottawa, June 12.—The parliamentary inquiry into the mysterious disappearance of all records of the Stanstead hospital, last winter, was concluded, without any other theory being advanced than that they were destroyed through a mistake on the part of the late H. G. Lamotte, the former custodian of these papers, who died a little over a month ago. The committee merely reported the evidence to the house without entering into any explanation of the matter other than the evidence itself afforded.

Hermit in English Woods Leads Happy Life Without a Home Or Any Care.

London, June 12.—In a wood about thirty miles from London lives an old man who for twenty years has known no other roof than an umbrella.

A representative of one of the morning newspapers found him, yesterday afternoon, seated under a large carriage umbrella amid the pine trees, making ready for his tea. Close by was a perambulator packed with miscellaneous goods, including several umbrellas, clothing, etc. The old man is an ex-soldier and looked in excellent health.

"Twenty years ago I took to the woods," he said, "during the great snowstorm a few weeks ago I slept soundly, and when I woke up in the morning I was covered with snow many inches deep. But I am never ill. I have not had a day's illness in my life, and I have no more worry than that tree has. I have no rates and taxes to pay, I have no wife to bother me and I have plenty of friends."

"How do I live? Well, all the village people know me, and they provide me with tea and bread. I know no want much to live on, you know. I am quite happy under my old umbrella."

"I can sew as well as a tailor, and I mend all my clothes. I have several changes of clothing in my 'molar' (referring to the perambulator). I have clean shirts, socks, boots and other things there. I have my bath in the woods and wash my things there. No one ever interferes with me. I never light a fire, and I never ask for money."

"When darkness comes on I put up my big umbrella, take my boots off, put my legs into a sack and cover myself up with clothing, on top of which I place this mackintosh. I tie my perambulator to my legs or arms, and settle down for the night."

ANCIENT SHIP ON HILLS.

Klondike Miner Brings Word of a Strange Craft.

Seattle, Wash., June 12.—Practical confirmation of a weird story growing out of the earlier days of the Klondike gold stampede, of the finding of the hull of a ship, long forty to fifty miles from the Arctic circle, is furnished by N. J. Brown, a well-known miner, just arrived at Dawson.

Brown located the strange craft, which, he says, is still in a fair state of preservation, on a hillside overlooking a chain of lakes from forty to fifty miles from the head of the Chukchar river and possibly 200 miles from the Arctic circle.

Brown says the big structure has crude doors and windows in the upper works similar to those of a ship, and bears letters or hieroglyphics which he is unable to decipher. He has seen it, Russians and natives alike.

SHOT HIS WIFE

Domestic Trouble Ended In Double Tragedy.

ONLY YEAR MARRIED

C. E. MARSHALL, A FORMER U. S. SOLDIER.

He Shot His Canadian Wife at Earleton, Ont., and Blew Out His Own Brains—The Wife Had Refused to Live With Him.

Cohat, Ont., June 12.—The village of Earleton, about twenty-five miles north of here, was stirred by a double tragedy on Wednesday afternoon, when Charles E. Marshall, aged thirty-two years, shot and killed his wife, Nellie Gray, aged twenty-four years, and then shot himself, blowing the top of his head off.

The tragedy happened on the farm of Mrs. Marshall's father, Absalom Gray, about one mile from the town. Marshall first met his wife while he was attached to a regiment of the U.S.A., stationed in Fort Niagara, about five years ago. They were married at Lewiston, N.Y., about a year ago. They came to this country on a visit from Niagara Falls, and returned on December 17th last to take up their abode, Marshall getting work on the farm of his wife's brother, James Gray.

About a week ago Marshall went back to Niagara Falls, his wife refusing to live with him any longer. Shortly after he went away they received a letter saying that he would repent if his wife would come back to him. The day before he came back he wrote and said he would be away for a year. He returned, however, on the Cobalt special Wednesday morning when he got off at Earleton. Instead of taking the road to the farm he struck off through the woods, and Marshall's father-in-law saw him coming and suspected that something was wrong and started towards the house. When within a few feet of the building he heard four shots and entering the house found Marshall lying on the dining room floor dead with the top of his head blown off, and his daughter in the kitchen dying. When he got to his daughter she said, "He killed me, father," and expired. She was shot through the arm, right thigh and in the breast.

WIFE OR THE JAIL.

Must Marry Girl or Undergo Punishment.

Woodstock, Ont., June 12.—Judge Finkle was, yesterday, asked to be easy on Thomas Anderson, of Tillsonburg, found guilty of complicity in highway robbery, on the ground that his wife was about to become a mother. On inquiry it was found that the man had not married the girl.

The judge sent to the prisoner a proposition that if he would marry the girl sentence would be suspended. The man said he would not. He was given ten days to marry the girl. If at the end of that time the ceremony has not been performed, the chief of Tillsonburg has instructions to bring him back before Judge Finkle to be sentenced.

THE OUTLOOK BLUE

According to a High Official in Racoon.

London, Eng., June 12.—When seen, last night, on the subject of the anti-gambling bill, just passed in the New York state legislature, August Belmont, chairman of the Jockey Club, who has not yet recovered from the shock of the death of his brother, O. P. Belmont, at first did not desire to discuss the matter but when it was remarked that Americans were anxious to hear something from him, he consented to give the following brief statement:

"I cannot say what the various racing associations will do when the so-called anti-racing bill becomes law. The various associations, however, have racing features to run off this season which constitute sporting obligations and they will undoubtedly proceed to them. One can well predict whether or not the prohibition of betting at races will ruin horse racing irrevocably, but it is a severe blow to the best interests of the turf in any event. It will ultimately throw many men out of employment and cripple the breeding and improvement of thoroughbreds in the United States."

SO MACKAY SAYS

HE FOUND THE CASH USED AGAINST HIMSELF.

Speaks of Chasing Bribers From North Grey and of Strong Suspicions About the Rest—Liberals Not Despairing.

London, June 12.—Hon. A. G. Mackay, leader of the opposition, passed through the city this morning on his way to Mount Clemens, where he will take the bath for a couple of weeks. He is tired after the strenuous campaign, and is in need of a rest.

"The outcome of the elections is a surprise to me," said Mr. Mackay to an Advertiser reporter. "I thought we would do considerably better than we did, judging from the reports we received during the campaign."

"A dead set was made against me, and I am very fortunate in having won at all."

"The conservatives used a great deal of money in my reading, and had planned to give me a decisive defeat. I did not know that until I went into Toronto on my way back to Owen Sound, and I found out that the bets of $25 to $10 and $25 to $15 were being made in my own riding."

"When I got up home I found out that was the case. My workers got the list of the bribers in the west section of the riding, and I had some of the same crew chased from Shallow Lake, where they were spending money."

"I won by only eighty-one votes, so you see how they worked against me."

"There were twenty other ridings on the balance, and for some unaccountable reason they all went against us."

"A money was used in my riding. I strongly suspect that money was used in these constituencies also."

"However, we are not despairing, but hope to do better next time."

ATTACKED BY COLT.

The Narrow Escape of a Glenvale Farmer.

George Porter, Glenvale, was the victim of a serious accident, one that might have cost him his life, on Thursday morning. He was going from his home to the cheese factory when he noticed a neighbor's three-year-old colt caught in a barbed wire fence, and was unable to release it. He was down on his knees getting the animal's foot free, and before he could regain his feet after releasing it, the colt struck out, hitting him on the left shoulder, knocking him on his back, and then it attacked him furiously. He was finally able to get on the other side of the fence out of the brute's way, but not before he had received serious injuries. His friends at once drove him to Cataract, where his wounds were dressed. He came into the city in the evening to wait over for Friday's train. His left arm was badly cut and bruised from the shoulder to the elbow and he had many sore bruises around the upper part of his body.

"It is very rarely that a horse will attack a human being in this way, and the only reason given for this is that the animal was partially crazed with pain from being in the fence so long."

WORK ON THE ROADS.

What is Being Done By The Engineer's Department.

This week, the city engineer's department has been putting broken stone on Ontario street, from Brock to Johnson, which piece of road was in a terrible condition. A couple of blocks on Princess street on the upper end have received a dressing of stone. Whether anything will be done to the business part of Princess street is not known. It is pretty certain that no paving will be done on that thoroughfare this year, but in the meantime some of the rutts should be filled with gravel.

Park avenue, from West to Barrie street, is now ready for stone and rolling. It has been well under-drained. This piece of road will require only six inches of stone to give it a splendid crown. Next week, stone will be drawn to it. After that, road rebuilding will be continued in Bagot street to Clarence.

It is likely that the city engineer will recommend to the city council that the street railway rails on Princess street, from Alfred street to the city limits, be removed. The street railway company has offered, through W. F. Nickle, to do this if the council gives permission. That piece of road is in such a dangerous condition that the engineer deems it best to get the rails removed. According to the agreement of July, 1903, the company must pay for repairs to the streets rendered necessary by the removal or disturbance of rails.
