At recent examinations at the Pennsylvania University, Francis Albert Paul, son of George M. Paul, formerly of Roblin, stood among the five highest in a class in which 548 were successful. Mr. Paul on entering the uni versity, took the "City of Phila phia" scholarship, which was the highest prize obtainable. In his first year he took the Fraser prize, and each year since he has stood among leaders. That he is popular with his class is shown by the fact that he has been elected editor of Red and Blue, the university journal, for two years.

Should Have Been Locked. There are no new developments in regard to the robbing of the sale at J. R. Dobbs' store, Brock street. The safe was not locked, and as it stands close to the front window, it was a very easy matter for any person passing thestore, to see it. The fact that the door was not locked, made the -temptation very great. The thief or thieves had an easy job all the way through, as the breaking of the small bolt on the outside door, did not take much trouble.
