KINGSTON MILLS PICNIC.

Was a Great Success—A Big Crowd Attended.

The picnic held at Cunningham's Grove, Kingston Mills, on Wednesday afternoon and evening, by Rev. Fr. Kingsley, in aid of the church of the Holy Name, Cuthbertville, was a great success. It was probably the best ever held in that parish. About 1,500 people were present. A fine supper was served by the ladies of the congregation. Though it was chiefly an Irish picnic the aid of the Scotch had to be secured, and several bagpipers were in evidence, and William Craig, the laird o' Glenburnie, also took part in the musical proceedings. In the evening dancing was held on a large platform in the grove, and music was furnished by O'Connor's orchestra. The steamers Wolfe Islander and Eslewat carried large crowds up the Rideau to Kingston Mills. The Wolfe Islander, which made her last trip home at 11 p.m. could not carry nearly all the people who wanted to return on her, and there were many disappointed ones. Some of these had to engage farmers to drive them back to the city.

Mrs. James Barrett, of Barriefield, held the lucky ticket that won the gold watch. For selling the most tickets, Miss Annie Fowler, of Pittsburg, won a diamond ring. A silk umbrella, presented by S. St. Corbett for the most popular girl on the grounds, was won by Miss Flossie Graham, who also was second in the ticket-selling contest.

During the afternoon there were races and sports of all kinds.

FOUGHT IN THE CELLS.

Irishman and Englishman Had a Bout.

It is very seldom that an Irishman gets the worse of an argument, but there was one that came out second best with a little Englishman, at the police station this afternoon. Both men were gathered in by the police, this morning, on a charge of drunkenness, and were placed in the same cell. After dinner, or rather after dinner time, as they were in such a condition as not to require any food, they got into an argument as to the best country in the world.

"Give me old England, any old time," said the Englishman. "She's got them all beaten."

"Hurrah for Ireland," cried Paddy, in an excited frame of mind. "You English are no good."

The two men then engaged in a lively fight, and the Irishman was given a nice black eye. Constables Arnel and Mullinger heard the row, and they separated the men, and put each in a cell by himself. The two muttered away at each other for some time afterwards.

MANY FIRES

Caused in Forest By Carelessness of Campers.

"Campers and tourists" is an answer that comes readily to the lips of many lumbermen and timber-lovers when asked as to how forest fires originate. Unfortunately the answer is often too true.

The camper would certainly be decidedly averse to burning over the woodland which affords him recreation, rest and pleasure. But he fails to realize what a small cause may give rise to a serious fire in the forest, and hence does not exercise the necessary caution with regard to his camp fires, and even his matches and cigar ends, for these latter, small as they are, are just as much to blame for starting a serious conflagration as a fire of far larger proportions. Constant care, eternal vigilance must be exercised in the forest by everyone who has cause to use fires (and who has not?) lest the fire from the forest soil and even into the tree tops.

Campers themselves may greatly assist in this matter by observing a few general cautions. Camp fires should not be any larger than necessary, and no one should leave a fire, even for a short time, without making sure that it is thoroughly put out. A lit match, or cigar end or other burning object should never be thrown down in the woods; it should be thoroughly extinguished before being thrown away. Fires should not be built among leaves, rotten wood or in places where they are likely to spread on account of the inflammable nature of the surroundings; build the fire on a rock, if possible, or, if there is no rock convenient at least clear away the leaves, humus, etc., down to the mineral soil, if at all possible. Nor should fires be built against large or hollow logs, as in such places it is hard to be sure when they are entirely extinguished. If the weather is windy, it is well to confine the fire in a hole, dug right down into the mineral soil.

Only a few days ago, newspaper dispatches told of very serious fires in the Lake St. John region in Quebec, destroying one village; these are supposed to have been started by careless fishermen who neglected to extinguish their camp fires.

The officers of the Canadian Lumbermen's Association waited on the premier and minister of customs and asked that a duty be imposed on southern pine and hemlock imported into Canada. The premier promised that the matter would be carefully considered.

Heading off a Risk

Gas is liable to puff out of the front door of any furnace unprovided for gas escape.

"Sunshine" Furnace has Automatic Gas Damper directly connected with smoke-pipe. Gas pressure sways damper sufficiently for it to escape up chimney (see illustration), but heat doesn't escape.

What does "Sunshine" Gas Damper mean to "Sunshine" Furnace? Means protection to the furnace parts against evil effects of gas.

What does "Sunshine" Gas Damper mean to "Sunshine" householder? Means furnace can be operated without fear as to "puffing" gas; furnace can be left without doubt as to whereabouts of gas.

What does "Sunshine" Gas Damper mean to "Sunshine" coal account? It means, instead of owner with "ordinary furnace" fear having to keep check-draft indefinitely closed to "let off" gas—when there is two-thirds parts of heat-energy to one part of gas passing up chimney—draft can with all safety be opened, and coal saved for another day's duty.
